DANGEROUS.-The dangerous practice of shinney is indulged in by the boys of this city to a very alarming exand lame boys than we hear of, though, however, we learned of an accident yesterday from the use of shinney sticks, which came very near proving fatal.-During recess of one of the schools the boys repaired to the shinney grounds and commenced playing, when one was accidentally struck back of the ear, and in agony and making short spasmedic of Judgment come in the night?" jerks. The little fellow was picked up by his companions and tenderly cared for. Had the blow taken effect a little higher up, in all probability it would have proven fatal. It was entirely accidental and no blame can be attached to any one.

CAUGHT.—Thursday night, about 12 o'clock, Officer Lawrence Allen discovered a man whom he supposed to be a suspicious character walking catiously along on the dark side of the street with a bundle in his hand, and followed him until he ran into the shoe shop on the corner of Front and Mulberry streets. Friday morning, the officer learned that the boy, Sam Bear, left a basin and a pitcher in the shop, stating that he would call for it between 7 and 8 o'clock last night; the youngster's movements were watched, and as he was starting off with his booty, was nabbed and and carried to the lock-up. He states that he got the articles from "WING to the late panic we will sell a boy who is working in the yard next January 1st, our entire stock at the old marble yard on Front street. night took every one by surprise. Of course so large a number of young gentlemen, drew a large audience, especially of the youthful portion of the gentler sex and a splendid house was the result, but no one secmed to expect a fine concert, and there they were disappointed. To one unacquainted with the study of brass band music and practice, the fact of giving a concert so soon after purchase of instruments Goldsmith, Joseph & Co., on stock would not seem strange; but to those who have labored over the horns, day & Goodwell, clothiers, damage to stock after day to get a pure tone, the con- by water unknown. Senator elect, Withers, from Virginia, should have acquired a very considerable knowledge of parliamentary law and practice by the time he takes his seat in March, 1875. He is, as is well known, a country physician, without any political education or experience, or any further qualifications for the office which the once proud old Dominion has conferred upon him than the activity of his attempts to dismember the Union. At present he holds the office of Lieutenant Governor of Virginia, and is ex officio presiding officer of the Senate in that State. The suggestion having been made that Withers should resign the office he holds to take his seat immediately in the United States Senate, his friends and the newspapers of his party insist that he remain for a time in his present position, and very frankly assign as the reason therefor that he will be enabled to attain some knowledge of the parliamentary business.* This admission is re-
