AT HOME.

"We once was blind but now we see" that is the motto of the Spectacles, which he will sell on the most moderate terms. See advertisement.

Attention is called to the advertisement of M. W. Jarvis, Brick Row, Wilson, where can be found a splendid assortment of N. C. stone ware, also a fine stock of family groceries.

The Merchants will please take notice that their quarterly payment, under the Revenue Act has become due, and the Sheriff can be found at the Court House, where he is prepared to receive the same.

The Hon. George Howard of Edgecombe has received and accepted an invitation to address the Cape Fear Agricultural Association at the first annual fair to be held in the city of Wilmington in November next. This is a most fitting compliment to the banner agricultural county of the State.

The young folks of Stauntonburg and vicinity had a most pleasant day at Hopewell Academy on Friday evening last. Everybody present seemed to be enjoying the occasion. We local who does not trip it on the "light fantastic" looked on admiringly while the young people enjoyed themselves.

The various persons chosen to office at the township elections held on the 5th inst. appeared before the Board of County Commissioners on yesterday and were qualified. The good people of Wilson county have reason to congratulate themselves upon the character of their officers.

We would call attention to the advertisement of Kader Biggs & Co., General Commission Merchants and Cotton Factors, which can be found under the head of new advertisements of this issue. These gentlemen, so well known to the business portion of our community, need no commendation at our hands.

Messrs. Kader Biggs & Co., advertise in another column, that they will give as a premium a Silver Cup for the first bale of new cotton sent to them.

By reference to our advertising columns, our readers will learn that our young friend, Jimmie Clark has removed to Norfolk, and is now with the firm of G. W. McGowan & Co., Cotton Factors and General Commission Merchants, of that city. The firm is a thoroughly reliable and competent one, and will attend promptly and faithfully to any business committed to it. "Jimmie" is well known hereabouts as a young man of fine intelligence, good business habits and capacities, and will give personal attention to any matters concerning his friends in this section. He will be pleased to welcome any persons visiting Norfolk, and we are assured our friend will exert himself to serve their interests. Try him.

Death of Judge J. W. Osborne.
We clip the following from the Charlotte Observer:
"Hon. J. W. Osborne died at his residence in this city, yesterday morning, at 11 o'clock. In common with the whole community, we mourn the loss of this great and good man. "Death leaves a shining mark," could not have been better exemplified than in the death of Judge Osborne, for he was not only a "shining light" in this community, but was loved and revered by the citizens of the State generally."

Neat Work.
We strolled yesterday afternoon through the establishment of our friends, Messrs. Parker, Murray & Co., manufacturers of Carriages, Buggies, Wagons and all necessary farm vehicles, and were highly pleased by the display of equipage which they show. Our fancy was particularly pleased by a top-buggy recently turned out, which in finish and style is quite equal to the very best work done in any of our cities. It is really a splendid specimen of workmanship, creditable not only to the taste and liberality of our friends, but especially to the faithful and accomplished workmen in their establishment. Our people need never go from home, so long as a manufacturer of the character of this is in their midst. Indeed it is wrong that they should do so, since we believe that they can get good work and material as cheaply here as elsewhere. This enterprising firm deserves a most liberal patronage from the people of Eastern North Carolina. We know the members to be gentlemen, and orders left with or sent them will be answered by good, honest and beautiful work. Let those who have never done so try them, and our word for it they will not disappoint you.

Again we wish to call attention to the rapid and permanent progress of Wilson. We noticed some work going on where the Plank Road Street and Railroad intersect, and upon inquiry found that our enterprising townsmen Mr. R. J. Taylor, is preparing to erect a two-story brick building, twenty-five by sixty feet, for the purpose of running a cotton gin and grist mill by steam. We think this will prove of great benefit to our citizens in the surrounding country (as well as to those in town) for most of them come here every week any how, and might just as well take along a few bushels of corn as to, and when they once try it, as most of them will be glad to do, of such a dry year as this at least, they will find that the idea that steam ground meal is not equal to water ground meal is a mere prejudice. We learn that Mr. Taylor's object for engaging in this enterprise is just to pick his own cotton, and secondly, as he intends to run a Stock Farm, to grind all the grain he feeds to said stock. He seems therefore, to be well aware of the great advantages of ground feed over unground. A great many seem honest in the opinion that the saving is all of twenty-five per cent.
Mr. Taylor's advantages in procuring and erecting machinery adjusting sheds &c., &c., through the splendid machinist and thoroughly practical gentlemen, Mr. John Colville, his partner in the lumber business at Wilmington, will be very great.
We hail with delight, any and every thing that tends to make us more a "home spun" people, and hope that the new enterprise may meet with abundant success.
We venture the opinion that at no very distant day, Wilson will be a place of much more importance than at present. The rapid improvements going up here a permanent and healthy appearance, and as Wilson is situated upon a splendid elevation, mid way between the two fertile streams, Contentna Creek and Tooton Swamp, surrounded by splendid farmers and splendid farming lands, (either already rich or abounding in muck or marl,) we cannot see any thing to stop the tide of comers who are already filling all our present buildings and creating a demand for new ones. There is however much room for improvement yet; and, we think an enterprise offering our village and community, some banking facilities would be a most worthy in the extreme, and enough of the present growing crop might easily be spared to make an excellent beginning; and we think the subject would meet a great deal of encouragement, if properly presented to our enterprising people. Farmers in the country could then either loan their surplus money out safely or keep it on deposit without running the great risk of having their premises robbed in search of it. We may refer to this subject again.
In conclusion, let us invite the capitalists, the seeker of pleasure, the industrious mechanic, the honest laborer to come and settle among us, that we may all work together for our mutual interest and prosperity generally.

Steff's Pianos.

We have on more than one occasion seen the Peterburg Infer, referred to the Piano establishment of Charles M. Steiff, of Baltimore. Few, if any business houses have grown more rapidly in Southern favor than this. Mr. Steiff is a fine man—prompt, energetic, accommodating and generous. By his enterprise he has succeeded in making his Pianos rank among the first in the country, both in quality and reputation. His instruments are finding their way into the best schools and parlors of the land. We understand that the parlor of General Lee is adorned by one of Mr. Steiff's Grand Pianos. Notwithstanding the scarcity of money, some four hundred of his instruments have been sold in Virginia since the war. We are glad to learn that his rapidly increasing business has made it necessary for him to enlarge his warehouses, and that he is better prepared now than ever to accommodate his customers. We warmly commend him to the patronage of our people. At his request we subjoin the following letter from the Rev. Wm. E. Hatcher, pastor of the First Baptist Church of this city.

PETERSBURG, Va., June 8, 1899.
Mr. Charles M. Steiff,
Dear Sir—The Piano which you sent me came safely some weeks ago. I have purchased it, and I am glad to acknowledge its receipt. It is the result of a happy to inform you, is in every respect satisfactory. In the admirable quality of its material, and the elegance and beauty of its finish, I have not seen its superior. Its chief excellence, however, resides in its tone—the power, wealth and sweetness of which challenge the admiration of all who try it.
I thank you warmly for the promptness and fidelity with which you have treated my order, and when in Baltimore will, in answer to your invitation, do myself the pleasure to visit your rooms and renew my association with you. I hear that you are enlarging your establishment in order to meet the rapidly growing demands of your business. It is gratifying to know that your enterprise and industry are meeting such success as they deserve.
Hastily and truly yours,
Wm. E. Hatcher.

LOST.

In the town of Wilson, some time during the month of May last, A PICTURE OF A YOUNG LADY put up in a small Locket Case. It is the picture of a deceased relative. Any person presenting said picture, with or without the case, at Kettle's Hotel, will be liberally rewarded.
Wm. J. Jones.

DR. WINSTEAD'S Neuralgic Liment.

Is perhaps one of the best local applications ever offered to the public for the relief of those dreadful and distressing pains known as NEURALGIA. Upwards of five years ago I contracted my present affliction with NEURALGIA of the face, jaws, nose, cheeks, ears, jaws, and also those cases of Neuralgia originating in the head, which are now known as SICK HEADACHE. When applied in the cavity of an ACHING TOOTH, it is almost always followed with INSTANT RELIEF. And I know of no other remedy in case of SICK HEADACHE, attended with SWELLED GLANDS. In all cases cease the use of the liment before using.
DIRECTIONS.
For NEURALGIA—Rub directly over the seat of pain until the stick.
For TOOTHACHE—Moisten a small piece of cotton and apply to the cavity of the tooth.
For SICK HEADACHE—Bathe the throat with the Liment two or three times a day and keep covered with flannel until relief is obtained.
SOLD BY DRUGGISTS OF WILSON, AND ANY MERCHANT AT JOINER'S DEPOT.
Price 50 Cents a Bottle. May 25, 1899. 17-6m

CIRCULAR.

The Seventh Session of J. H. FOY'S SCHOOL, at Stauntonburg, Wilson Co., N. C., opens August 2nd, 1899, and continues twenty weeks.

COURSE—English, Classical and Mathematical with French and Natural Science. The following are some of the distinguishing features of this School:
FIRST.—It is an inflexible rule (and to carry it out fully disciplinary measures of a stringent character will be resorted to after milder correctives and stimulatives have failed) that every pupil, large or small, male or female, must make decided and sensible improvement.
SECOND.—In Elementary Mathematics pupils are subjected to a rigid daily drill in the most exhaustive works on Mental Arithmetic and Mental Algebra now before the public. This method of instruction throws a vast amount of labor upon the teacher, but is of incalculable benefit to the learner, who, under patient and thorough culture, will in a surprisingly short time, learn how to use his faculties in the investigation and resolution of difficulties. He who has learned to think, is already more than half educated.
THIRD.—Particular attention will be paid to studies having a practical bearing—not, however, to the neglect of those of a more scholarly character. In Latin, Greek and French (in addition to the customary translations from text books) daily written exercises, with syntactical citations for all constructions, will be required from advanced pupils.
FOURTH.—After having used up the Preparatory Course, students will be allowed to select a college curriculum, but from such, in consequence of their great draught upon the teachers time, double rates of tuition will invariably be required.
FIFTH.—Regular and Rigid Public Examinations every month, at which the standing of each pupil for the preceding month, &c., the number and quality of his recitations will be read out, and a written report of same transmitted by mail to parent or guardian.
SIXTH.—In order to develop and encourage a spirit of emulation, a liberal share of the income of the School will be applied each session to the purchase of suitable medals or other prizes for distribution among the best pupils who, in the judgment of a competent Board of Visitors, shall sustain the most creditable examinations. Certificates of merit will be awarded to those who, without distinguishing themselves in the entire course, display conspicuous merit in one or more departments of study.
SEVENTH.—Great care will be taken that the discipline shall not be so relatively strict. Courtesy to teachers and fellow pupils, diligence in school and out, are demanded by the Regulations of the School. In the suppression of idleness or vice, before resorting to harsh measures, the Principal has been in the habit of thoroughly exhausting all means of a kind and persuasive character. His experience goes to prove that in the majority of cases Love is a more efficacious means of government than Fear, whatever other educators may think.
EIGHTH.—In the amount of study exacted from each pupil, due regard will be paid to age, constitution, state of health, &c. Pupils at a distance may rest assured that a constant and vigilant supervision will be exercised over the health and morals of their children.
NINTH.—No money will be taken from any parent who, after attending the Public Examinations, shall fail to be perfectly satisfied with the progress of his child or ward. This feature is honestly incorporated as a guarantee of hard work on the part of both instructors and the instructed.
TENTH.—A Literary Society will be fostered by the Principal, and all pupils of sufficient advancement will be required to participate in its discussions and exercises.
