

THE PLAINDEALER.

WILSON, AUGUST 12, 1869.

PEPPER and SALT.
Why is a mouse like a load of hay?
Because the cat'll eat it.

If you would look spruce in your old age, do not jive in your youth.
Of all the dust thrown into men's eyes gold dust is the most blinding.

"Papa, what is humbug?" "It is," replied papa, "when mamma pretends to be very fond of me, and puts no buttons on my shirt till reminded of it."

It is said that fowls are the most economical things farmers can keep, because for every grain they give a peck.

The Surgeon General of the United States Army was called to hold an inquest on Grant's "dead horse." The S. G. avowed himself hostile to such operations.

Tao Xung Men.
The only way capital can increase is by saving. If you spend as much as you get, you will never be richer than you are. It is not what a man gets but what he saves that constitutes his wealth.

Go, learn the first two rules of arithmetic; learn addition and subtraction. Add to your present capital any amount you please, subtract the sum which you add, and tell us if the last amount will not be the same as the first. Every man should, in every year of his life make some addition to his capital. You say you get but little; and then next year you will get more, for you will have the profit on the sum you save.

Desponding Mothers.
I have done nothing to-day but keep things straight in the house," you say, wearily at the close of it. Do you call that nothing? Nothing that you children are healthy and happy, and secured from evil influence? Nothing that neatness, and thrift, and wholesome food follow the touch of your finger tips? Nothing that beauty in place of ugliness meets the eye of the cheerful little ones, in the plants at your windows in the picture on the wall? Nothing that home to them means home, and will always do so to the end of life, what vicissitudes soever that may involve? Oh, careworn mother, is all this nothing? Is it nothing that over against your sometimes mistakes and sometime discouragements shall be written, "She hath done what she could?"

Planned Weddings.
The passion for parade and display on the occasion of weddings is constantly on the increase in our cities. The country follows the example of the metropolis, which is responsible for social bad taste reproduced elsewhere.

Two persons can hardly be married nowadays without a blaze of fireworks and heating of gongs, metaphorically speaking, that would be immensely popular among the Indians, but which is anything but pleasant or pertinent in this more civilized section. A marriage is a very serious and decent thing, and should be as quiet and chaste as possible.

But candidates for wedlock at present seem to consider it a golden opportunity for advertising their pecuniary extravagance and mania for millinery, thereby offending delicacy and good breeding to great extent.

These tinselled weddings are malapropos in the extreme, say what you will. No doubt many refined people are so influenced by fashion that they adopt them most unwillingly, but we hope the time is coming when such metrictious parades of rites that should be sweetly sacred will be left to the vulgar, to whom they properly belong.
