The Jap who shot Li Hung Chang has been sent to a living death in the mines.

Tuesday was the 50th anniversary of General Lee's surrender at Appomattox, and the close of the civil war.

The Stars and Stripes seem to be attracting a great deal of unpleasant attention abroad. It is about time Uncle Sam declared himself.

As an exchange remarks, the people are learning the truth about the so-called rascality of the late Legislature. It was mostly Democratic rascality.

Industrial development is more important to this section now than political advancement. Democratic news editors should paste this in their hats.

Minister Bascom's off for Mexico. As he is a good free-silverite how should it be to pay his salary in Mexican money? That would convert him in double quick order.

Matt. W. Ransom, the United States Minister to Mexico, arrived at the City of Mexico April 6th. He reports in disposition from a monster carabane, and of duty for a season in consequence.

The Standard Oil Company grows by what it feeds upon, and the only hope is that, in the near future, will absorb more than it can assimilate and then it will no longer be a trust but a bust.

The Vance Memorial Association, of which Governor Carr is President, has been organized to secure sufficient contributions to place a bronze statue of "Zebulon B. Vance in Capitol Square, in Raleigh."

Blanks for the school census are now being sent out. The township boards will take the census between now and June 1st. These township boards will be elected the first Monday in June by the county boards of education.

Ball movements would never exist if men would not hand over their consciences to their party, for it is the moral sense of the citizen and not the moral sense of the party that brings about reforms in governments, municipal, State and national.

The South raises 60 per cent. of the world's cotton crop, but manufactures only 10 per cent. of her own crop; our own crop is worth $300,000,000 and if it were manufactured here it would be worth over $1,000,000,000.

The Progressive Farmer is responsible for the following: The next Legislature ought to pass a law regulating Democratic inability to prevent them from playing the fool and "professing" their opponents when they make "failures."

Evans plant life, teaches a political lesson. It is not possible to have thorns in their will state lose them as if as plants of cultivation. It is as if generations brought under the protection of man gradually lay down their arms and trust themselves entirely to his protection.

Mr. Gladstone, at London, said that the woman of to-day was so much to speech-making that they would not talk to her.

That will not be a very difficult matter for them to do. To ever their in private, and their appearance in public will not change the result.

The Justices of the Peace, appointed in the several counties by the late Legislature, ought to qualify at once. Governor Carr is waiting and watching with a lot of Democratic ministers to fill the vacancies of all who fail or neglect to qualify. Don't neglect this matter.

Chicago Democrats accuse party leaders of appropriating a campaign fund of $500,000. But this is no strange. If the pile had been twice as large it would have gone just the same. The truth is, Democracy is rather a failure because the members may way the present financial situation of the country speaks for itself through the pocket-books of the people.

The Federal Supreme Court declares unconstitutional the parts of the Federal Income Tax law which imposes a tax on rents and State, county and municipal bonds; the courts evenly divided as to the general constitutionality of the bill so the decision is in favor of the court below stands; this decision reduces the estimate receipts from the law just enacted, the President says an extra session of Congress will not be called by reason of this decision.

The monthly debt statement for April shows an increase in the interest-bearing debt of the United States of $128,817,000 since President Cleveland began his second term. After all the bonds of the late $100,000,000 loan have been fully issued and charged up to the Treasury books the increase will be $200,000,000 with more loans yet in prospect to meet the deficiency caused by the legislation of the late Congress. This is in sad contrast to the showing under successive Republican administrations, when each monthly debt statement disclosed a steadily decreasing debt and a diminishing interest charge.

The women voters in Ohio and Connecticut gave last week some indication of what they will do if they ever get possession of full suffrage rights. In many places they played havoc with the plans of the politicians and voted as independently as if there were no such things as party ties. In general this is not to be regretted in elections for members of school boards, but the division on sectarian lines, as was the case in Bridgeport, Conn., is to be regretted. It will furnish some evidence on the side of those who have claimed that women, if given the ballot, will be governed in exercising it by petty motives. But the interest the women showed in participating. Their vote fall below the registration, it is true, but so did the vote of the men.

THE ASSIGNMENT LAW.

The great "fright" occasioned by the "Assignment Law," as passed by the recent Legislature is about fading into insignificance. The agitation in the main, was, doubtless, more for political effect than actual fear of the consequences. The decision of the Supreme Court, handed down last Friday on a specially prepared case, tends to support the assertion. The decision, in substance, is as follows: The court holds that the act is limited to conditional sales, assignments, mortgages and deeds in and before the court, growing out of the transaction itself and executed for a present consideration, do not come within the operation of the act. The act was not intended to embrace transactions when the debt grows out of the transaction itself, and is for a present consideration.

The decision will at once lift the injudicious pressure forced upon the people of the State in regard to mortgages, crop liens, etc., and as the Charlotte Observer is frank to admit: "As it stands its only effect—and that, perhaps, not a bad one—is to prevent a person or firm failing and making an assignment, preferring one class of creditors above another."

Herein the full intent and purpose of the law is made plain, and it is acknowledged, almost without a dissenting voice, to be one of the best measures passed during the session, wiping out more fraud in preference, and robbing along that line than even the Democratic party stands accused in its past election methods.

Another effort was made the past week by Gov. Carr, pending the decision of the Supreme Court, to declare the "Assignment Law" illegal upon some technical grounds that it was rushed through at the close of the session, "a shadow of the original bill," and by "Legislative fraud and forgery." The Governor on the 4th addressed a letter of inquiry to Attorney General Osborne, regarding his power so to act and an immediate reply from the Attorney General is thus summarized: "In compliance with the request of Your Excellency I have investigated the question, as far as I could within the limited time suggested in your letter, and have reached the conclusion that no such proceeding as the one mentioned by you can be maintained. "After a thorough search I can find no authority in our State or elsewhere to sustain it, and I cannot see how the State as a person distinguished from its citizens is interested in the question. As you are aware, the action, if brought, would have to be brought in behalf of the State with you as the relator of the plaintiff and me as counsel. There is no opinion, nothing in the official duties of either of us which requires us to bring proceedings in any court to nullify an act of the Legislature whether legally passed or not. "But I do not find authority in our own State for a proceeding of another character which may effect the desired purpose and afford a remedy. In behalf of all think any citizen, or other citizen, bringing the action you suggest, such a proceeding in the nature of a mandamus has been allowed in our courts in the case of Scarborough vs. Robinson, 81 North Carolina, page 409. Perry vs. Whitaker, 71 North Carolina, page 475 is somewhat analogous. "But I do not find authority in other States to the same effect. Among other States vs. Cunningham, 85 Wisconsin, page 90, (35 American State reports, page 27), Wise vs. Bigger, 79 Virginia, page 269.

"There is nothing to prevent Your Excellency as a citizen, in behalf of all other citizens, from bringing this action, and if you will permit me to go behind duties as your legal adviser I take this opportunity to say that you as our most prominent citizen are the proper person to do so. If Your Excellency should decide upon the course recommended, the whole matter will come before the courts for decision and I, therefore, express no opinion upon their right or power to go behind the ratification of an act of the Legislature and inquire whether or not the requirements of the Constitution were observed in its passage, but confine myself to the question asked as to the method of procedure.

The decision of the Supreme Court virtually settles the question and the "Assignment Bill" "tempest in a tea-pot," drawn by a Democrat, introduced by a Democrat, voted for by Democrats, and then, before its fountain head was known, was thrashed around by a Democratic press, evidently more for political effect and prejudice than a desire for justice, has fallen through, and the great "bugaboo" assignment bill stands in full force and effect, as passed by the Fusion Legislature, and pronounced a prudent, wise, and beneficial measure and so declared now, even by its bitterest enemies of a week ago.

Monday, Governor Carr, acting upon the suggestion of the Attorney General, appeared before the Superior Court Clerk of Wake county, as a private citizen, and presented a complaint in behalf of himself and all other citizens of the State of North Carolina. There was a copy, too, put in the hands of the sheriff which was served upon the Secretary. In the meantime, the Secretary will be enjoined from publication of the act known as the Antipreference law and the cause will be heard before the next term of Wake Superior Court.

REPUBLICAN VICTORIES.

As editorially noted last week under the heading "April Elections" the tide of Republican victories has continued almost without a break anywhere. Three years ago the Republicans had to fight with vigor and earnestness for the possession of Rhode Island, a natural stronghold of Protection. This year the field is theirs virtually without a contest, so complete is the demoralization of the Democratic force, Governor Lippitt, the Republican nominee for the position, has a plurality of 11,000 and the Legislature is Republican by an overwhelming majority. It is the same little State, says the New York Tribune, in which Mr. Cleveland opened the Presidential canvass of 1892 by quoting the Eighth Commandment against Protection, and in which also a most determined effort was made to defeat the re-election of Senator Aldrich. But the political conditions there, as everywhere, have been transformed. Then Rhode Island was a doubtful State, with two Democratic Congressmen and a Legislature evenly divided. It is now a decidedly Republican as it was in War times.

The West is answering the signals set in the East. The spring elections in Michigan have been carried by the Republicans with old-time pluralities ranging between 40,000 and 50,000. Chicago elects a Republican Mayor by a plurality of over 45,000, and buries out of eight corrupt gang of mercenary politicians. It is a victory of municipal reform as important as the election of Mayor Strong in New York last November. St. Louis is also heavily Republican, and the astonishing Democratic losses of last fall in Missouri have been repeated and in many instances increased. There are no signs of a basket of public opinion in favor of Democracy. Last year's tide of Republicanism is still flowing with increasing volume and sweeping everything before it.

The Democratic party was on record in its radical platform of 1892, and every pledge save one was broken. The Federal Elections laws were repealed, and that was the only evidence of good faith. All the other policies to which Democracy had been committed, were either compromised, repudiated or reversed. The pledge-breakers had to reckon last year with an outraged public opinion. They were condemned for their treachery, cowardice and incompetence. No political party ever received a more justly merited rebuke from the conscience voters of every section of the country. The Democratic leaders played fast and loose with their principles, and then, when the results of their unscrupulous and unprincipled conduct against a party which repudiated its promises and abandoned its policies.

Six months have passed, and the country is not only resenting Democratic treachery, but it is also counting the cost of its own credulity and folly in trusting its business and productive interests to the direction and control of incompetent and reckless party leaders. Reflection has convinced the majority of thinking men, South as well as North, that the Republican party is the only one that can conduct the finances of the Nation successfully. The contrast between a Republican Administration with abundant revenues, unrivalled credit, and resources for reducing the National debt, and a Democratic Administration confronted with deficiencies, borrowing heavily and at the mercy of foreign bankers in the maintenance of the Resumption act, has impressed all serious citizens. The Republican vote steadily increases because the public conviction has been deepened that the continuance of Democratic rule is ruinous.

FIX THE RESPONSIBILITY. Present developments leave little room for doubt but that "the how" raised by the Democratic press and politicians over the work of the late Legislature is a deliberate and pre-arranged plan, not only to fool the people but for the perpetration of gross frauds for party and political advantage. Take the lists of Justices of the Peace as certified to the several counties throughout the State, none of them are correct, and, it is alleged, are different from those actually arranged. Somebody is responsible and the responsibility ought to be fixed. The Progressive Farmer referring to this matter says: "The Democratic press tries to bring odium upon itself. In asserting that we believe, on the best of circumstantial evidence, that all, or nearly all the rogery and wrong doing was done by Democrats, their members, lobbyists, and hangers-on, we do not mean to cast any reflection upon the good men who belong to the party, or claim that the party is made up of thieves. But we charge that the party has recently rogued in to do all the nasty work brought to light during the recent session. It has rogued enough in to steal a seat in Congress from many Congressional districts. It has rogued enough to steal the party into power in the State of North Carolina, and notwithstanding the over-

WASHINGTON LETTER.

Senator Gorman, a Southern Man, Advocated for President. THE INCOME TAX DOOMED. In Whiting's Review, American Politics in White House and Cabinet will figure. CUBAN AFFAIRS INTERESTING. Special to THE REPUBLICAN: WASHINGTON, D. C., April 8.—Senator Gorman's friends played one of their highest trumps when they started that demand for a Southern man at the head of the next Democratic national ticket. Needless to say, it was played against Mr. Cleveland; and so cleverly was it played that it caught the immediate attention of Senator Hill, who apparently forgot in his anxiety to get Mr. Cleveland's hopes that he was practically committing himself to the Gorman boom. The manner in which this demand was first made public was calculated to blind a great many ordinarily shrewd people to the fact that Senator Gorman was pulling the wires. It was on the editorial page of the Washington Post that the demand first appeared, but the demand first saw the light, in all the conspicuous columns of double-leaded type. Now, it is a fact well known to those who keep posted on such things that the independence of the Washington Post has been placed in a perilous position by its commercial commitment to be changed for cash or personal favors. That being the case it did not require a Pinkerton to connect that demand with recent conferences in Washington of prominent Democrats who are opposed to any further party favors being granted Mr. Cleveland, although few of them are actually committed to Senator Gorman's candidacy. The making of the connection was aided by the knowledge that the Post is controlled by a Democrat—Congressman Beriah Wilkins, of Ohio, who has the Ohio man's natural love for a political deal and no special liking for Mr. Cleveland, although he does not object to asking for, and accepting executive favors.

Senator Gorman was far too smart to have this demand for a Southern candidate have any outward appearance of a Gorman boom. Yet that is exactly what it is. While the demand is calculated to be intended to tickle the ambitions of a section of Southern Democrats, should it grow into a power great enough to control the next Democratic nominating convention, there is only one man who is big enough and smart enough to take advantage of it, and his name is Gorman. There is no man in the Democratic party more than Mr. Gorman, but there are many who have successfully hid their ability, while Mr. Gorman has forced the Democratic Senate to retain him as leader against the wishes of a Democratic President.

Mr. Cleveland recognizes this demand for a Southern man as a very shrewd move, and he knows the source from whence it emanates. He is afraid of Mr. Gorman, not having forgotten the humiliating defeat he suffered at his hands during the late Congress, but he is not afraid to prevent the nomination of Mr. Gorman. These contests for the empty honor of the Democratic nomination are decidedly amusing to Republicans, who regard the election of a Democratic President in 1896 as an impossibility. But they are interesting all the same.

The exceptions to the income tax made by the Supreme Court decision, are calculated to add to the unpopularity of the tax, which will, it is believed, be repealed at the next session of Congress.

Cuban affairs are attracting much attention in Washington just now. It is clear that the revolt now in progress is a much more serious affair than it was at first supposed to be, and speculation is rife as to what will be the position of the administration should the Cubans succeed in setting up a government of their own. Without the moral support of the government, or some other, it will be a physical impossibility for the Cubans to maintain their independence of Spain, even should they succeed in establishing a temporary government. Will this government extend its moral support? That is the question.

The administration must have, through some of its satellites, been doing something disagreeable to Rudyard Kipling, the talented and eccentric English author who blackguards everything American and still lives in America through choice. Mr. Kipling has been in Washington for a month or so, and is credited with the intention to write a political story in which Mr. Cleveland and all the members of his cabinet are to figure. Whatever his intentions may be Mr. Kipling succeeded in getting himself passed by the entry boxes, which, by the way, have since been removed, and the coroner, White House coroner, took him into the Cabinet room, while his Majesty Grover, I and his ministers of State were holding a council—perhaps to decide whether the United States should apologize to Great Britain for having raked up such a disagreeable old thing as the Monroe doctrine. Mr. Kipling is a humorist, and he is particularly paid him as the small boy in when allowed to visit the menagerie while the animals are being fed. Secretary Lamont, who guided Mr. Kipling through the Labyrinth of executive defenses, thinks he will mean if he writes anything uncomplimentary about what he saw.

Taking a Look into Next Year. There will probably be at least five prominent candidates before the next National Republican Convention—Reed, McKinley, Allison, Harrison and Morton. And yet it is quite probable that the next President will be a Republican candidate who has not been mentioned yet. It comes from the fact that the question of "availability" enters so largely into Presidential problems. Big men have made enemies, sometimes mistakes and created factional antagonisms. The five men named are the biggest and bluest in the Republican ranks, but it often has a Blaine met his fate in a Hayne, or a Henry Clay in a Taylor, or a Scott! It is too soon to guess, as the unexpected often happens in Presidential politics.—Scranton Tribune.

THE WIDE, WIDE WORLD.

THE NEWS OF THE DAY BRIEFLY. Li Hung Chang was improving. It is estimated that 2,000 sailing vessels, with 12,000 lives are lost every year. At Hephzabah, Ga. a man commits suicide an hour after the death of a sister. Hon. William L. Wilson took the oath of office as Postmaster General, April 3rd. It is believed at Washington that the Japan-China treaty of peace will soon be signed. Gen. Mahone, of Virginia, makes an assignment to secure debts to the amount of $500,000. Germany is siding strongly with France in her contest with England over the Nile territory. The Charleston News and Courier reports that the cotton acreage all over South Carolina. By a railroad accident in Illinois 75 tramps were killed and 15 wounded. 75 tramps were stealing rides on the tracks. At Wheeling, W. Va., April 9th, two large buildings collapse killing 14 people and injuring others. Loss $100,000. A man named Bell is shot in South Carolina by his son while protecting his mother from her husband's murderers. There are prospects of a strike of miners along the Norfolk and Western railroad on account of a proposed reduction of wages. In the White Sulphur Springs of Virginia the streams are flooded by the rains of Sunday night; much damage to property is done and trains are out off. Governor McKinley called on President Cleveland at Washington. The Governor's aid protection is growing in favor in the South. Japan's demands upon China include the opening of a number of rivers to foreign vessels and the introduction of foreign industries throughout the country. The attorneys for the widow of Frederick Douglass, stated that there will be no contest with the will, and that an amicable agreement will be reached by the heirs. Dr. Geo. W. Carter, a Methodist preacher of Norfolk, Va., aged 75 years, and Miss Virginia Bland, of Lynchburg, aged 21 years, go to Washington to get married. Governor Holcomb has signed the law which provides for the appropriation of $800,000 for the purchase of seed grain and food for drought stricken farmers of the State, and it becomes immediately operative. J. L. Tucker, the Mississippi defaulter, and Taylor, South Dakota's embezzling treasurer, are traveling to no country but France on March 29th, leaving San Francisco on March 29th with two Spanish girls for Africa. Oscar Wild's infamy and disgrace is complete. Instead of getting a verdict in his favor, the Marquis of Queensberry is in prison charged with a heinous crime the minimum punishment for which is imprisonment for twenty years, the maximum for life. It looks like the passing of "the Aesthetic." Let him pass! Rev. J. J. Conroy, in a temperance lecture at Salem on April 4th, made statements regarding Mr. Cleveland's habits; he comes out in a card saying that those that have used it say that the testimony of eye witnesses whom he supposes credible; he is equally credible person; he contradicts the charges and decides to withdraw the charges and apologize to the President and the public.

A. C. Crop Report. The first of the weekly weather crop bulletins of this year was issued from the Experiment Station at Raleigh Saturday. It says that in the Eastern district the past week was favorable, being generally dry except for a few farm work. Light rains occurred on the 2nd and 3rd, followed by frost on mornings of the 4th and 5th which are not thought to have caused any material damage. Farm work is much behind and vegetation progressing slowly. During the first week of April a good deal of ploughing has been done and some corn planted. The average of cotton will be greatly reduced. Very little guano has been bought and more attention will be paid to trucking, corn and tobacco. Large crops of Irish potatoes have been planted. Considerable rotting is reported. Much of the fall cabbage crop was frozen. Tobacco plants are plentiful and growing rapidly, but about ten days late. Early truck is planted but is late. Peas and beans are coming up well. Strawberries are blooming, and will be a heavy crop. Heavy rains fell in Sunday night and Monday which will interrupt planting considerably. In the Central district the week was favorable for farm work, though cool. The season is late—vegetation nearly four weeks later than last year. Frost on the 4th and 5th is thought to have injured some early peaches. Peaches, plums and pears are in full bloom in the south and east, but only beginning to bloom in north and west. Grape buds are swelling; strawberries blooming; apples not yet out. The large promises are made for a large reduction in acreage of Fallow. Winter oats were badly damaged by freezing, but wheat prospects are better. Spring oats were sown late. Grasses and clover are doing well.
