Hillsborough Masonic Lottery.

THE managers of the Hillsborough Masonic Lottery conceive themselves to be in duty bound to state to those who have purchased tickets of them, the reasons why the drawing did not commence on Saturday the 2d inst. as had been previously announced. They are as follows:

The returns from agents at a distance were not complete as to the number of sold tickets.

From the best estimate which the returns made would admit of, it was thought, that although a drawing on that day would be safe according to all probable calculations, yet a loss might be sustained; and they felt unwilling to proceed to draw, so long as there could be the least possible risk.

By delaying the drawing until a few hundred more of the tickets could be sold, there would then be no risk whatever; and the managers would be able not only to pay to the fortunate adventurers the prizes they draw, but in addition thereto fully to succeed in raising a sum of money adequate to the building a commodious house for the use of the Lodge.

The managers have determined to draw on TUESDAY the FOURTH OF JUNE next; but should the drawing, however, not then take place, the managers pledge themselves to return the money on demand to every person who may be dissatisfied.

D. HEARTT

Proposes publishing, in Hillsborough, N. C. a religious paper, to be entitled

THE NORTH CAROLINA

Evangelical Intelligencer,

In which will be given the most important information relative to the spread of the gospel, and the consequent melioration of the condition of the human family, with such other intelligence as may be interesting to the christian reader; occasionally enlivened with religious and moral essays, and lighter articles tending to promote christian charity and heavenly-mindedness.

PROSPECTUS.

To a contemplative mind it is pleasing to look abroad over the various portions of the globe, and observe the improvements which are daily taking place in the condition of mankind. We perceive the dark clouds of ignorance and error, of superstition and fanaticism, gradually wasting away, and the horizon gilded with a brightness indicating the approach of a morning glorious to humanity and rich with blessings to the children of men. These heart-cheering prospects are the natural result of extended information; but more particularly the blessed effects of an expanding knowledge of the divine precepts of the christian religion. A general thirst for knowledge seems to be awakened, and the efforts now making by missionary, bible, and other societies, to diffuse the religion of the gospel, and to inculcate a more attentive observance of our civil, moral, and religious duties, are attended with a success cheering to the heart of the philanthropist.

It is under such circumstances that we present to the friends of christianity in this and the neighboring states, proposals for publishing in this place a weekly paper, calculated to aid the cause in which so many are engaged, and are induced to hope that such an establishment would not be among the least efficient means of promoting religious information. By the multiplication of political papers the minds of the people of this favoured country have been enlightened in the science of government above all the nations of the earth. Through the same means it is not reasonable to expect that the moral darkness may be dissipated, the love of religion be inculcated, and a warmth be infused into the hearts of believing christians which would urge them to still greater exertions! For though we are pleased in contemplating the general advancement of christian knowledge, and the meliorated condition of mankind; yet we find much to lament when we look around us and perceive how many are still enveloped in stolid ignorance, the victims of vice and immorality. Though living in a christian land, there are some, alas many, who never enter a church, who never open a bible, who never reflect on the cause or the purpose of their existence. May not the diffusion of religious intelligence tend to remove this listlessness? May it not excite to inquiry? May it not lead to conviction and reformation? The continual drippings of water wears the hardest stones; may not weekly admonitions and repeated examples melt hearts of stone? Surely there is room to hope that the consecrated work, if properly encouraged, may contribute in some small degree, towards hastening that glorious period, when "the mountain of the Lord's house shall be established in the top of the mountains, and shall be exalted above the hills; and all nations shall flow unto it."

In presenting this prospectus to the public, it is unnecessary farther to explain the nature of the proposed publication. In its conduct, all possible care will be taken to select such matter as may be most interesting and instructive; and the promised assistance of several eminent divines, it is expected, will add usefulness and respectability to the work.

CONDITIONS.

The Evangelical Intelligencer will be published once a week, and contain eight quarto pages, neatly printed on good paper.

The price will be three dollars a year, if paid in advance; otherwise four dollars will be demanded.

No subscriptions received for less than one year; and no subscription will be discontinued until all arrears are paid, unless at the option of the publisher. A failure to give notice before the end of the year of a wish to discontinue, will be considered as a new engagement.

To persons procuring eight subscribers, and remitting the amount of the subscriptions, the paper will be sent gratis.

The publication will commence as soon as sufficient encouragement is obtained to defray the expense.

Persons holding subscriptions are requested to forward to this office the names of the subscribers they may have obtained—retaining the proposals till further notice.

Rural Economy.

"And you rich soil,
Exuberant nature's better blessings pour
O'er every land."

SHEEP.

Translated from the Alien-town German
"Frienden's Booteh."

As our manufactures are so rapidly increasing, great quantities of wool will be wanting. This will be encouragement for our farmers, to raise and keep as many sheep as possible, inasmuch as the wool will always command a high price in cash.

Mr. Hammond, in the state of Ohio, one of the most wealthy and extensive farmers, raises and keeps a numerous flock of sheep, and supplies the Steubenville manufactory with wool. In a letter lately published in the Ohio papers, and in those of Philadelphia also, he says, that with 100 large sheep, he makes more profit than with 100 acres of wheat, and does not give the tenth part of the trouble. He mentions further, that he prevents the rot getting among them by giving salt three or four times a week. This keeps them, as well as every domestic animal, perfectly healthy.

In the state of New Jersey the farmers begin to keep very large flocks of sheep, and feed them at the distilleries from the same offals with which the hogs, oxen and other animals are fed. As this is something new, and but lately brought into practice, it creates some surprise—but let me ask, why not feed sheep with the same provender as other domestic animals? Some people prefer the milk and butter of cows fed from distilleries.

The writer of this has had a conversation with a number of persons who are well acquainted and who have often witnessed the above method of feeding sheep, and they positively assert that the meat has a more delicious taste, and the wool is finer, longer, and softer than when the sheep are fed in the old way.

The sheep must not be penned up as hogs are; it will be necessary to let them range into the fields when so inclined, and occasionally put to hay. Turnips are excellent food.

Guinea Grass—Capt. Jasper Graham, who has recently arrived from the West Indies, has brought with him a quantity of the seed of the Guinea Grass, which has lately been introduced in those Islands from the Western Coast of Africa. This grass is said to be remarkably pleasant and nutritious for cattle, and the yield, as it is represented, amply surpasses belief. In Jamaica, it is said, one acre frequently yields twenty tons of hay in a year. It is supposed that this climate will produce three crops in a season, without cutting until it is three or four feet high. Capt. Graham has deposited a small parcel of this seed at the seed store of the Hartford County Agricultural Society, which will be disposed of gratis, to such as apply for it, for the purpose of sowing.

A safe, easy, and cheap Cure.

A broken winded horse had been kept in a field where there was not any water except in the bottom of an old lime kiln, and recovered his wind, the owner ordered a stable shovel full of quick lime to be renewed every five or six days, and the water to be paired off, and a bucket of it to be given every day to a broken winded coach horse, aged eighteen years, which had almost a constant cough. The horse was supplied with water thus prepared for about five weeks, and kept in the stable. He is now perfectly recovered in his wind, and free from a cough.

Hemp—Mr. Dow's valuable machine, for leaning hemp, has been found to answer the most sanguine expectations of the public.—The hemp which this machine turns out is unrivaled, much stronger than that dressed in the old way, more beautiful and yields a larger quantity. It already commands a higher price than Russian Hemp.
Kentucky paper.

New Grain Mill—Messrs. J & D. Hascill of Le Roy, N. Y. have patented a new grain mill; which, it is said, will grind three bushels of grain in an hour, at one fourth the expense, and with less than one fourth of the power required to put in operation a run of stones in a common flour mill.
