ENGLISH SENTIMENTS.

The Trinidad Gazette has furnished us with some comments on the inaugural address of president Adams, to flattering to the pride of Americans, that we cannot resist the opportunity now afforded of presenting our readers with an extract. Petersburg Intelligencer.

"There is something in the rising destiny of this extraordinary republic which forcibly arrests attention. She stands like a light and a beacon in the midst of nations. Her public documents seem intended not for herself alone; they spake to the universe. A period of profound peace exhibits her in an attitude proudly pre-eminent; that which in Europe constitutes only the repose of the wornout belligerent—a cessation from toil and misery—the mere torpor of sleep, with her presents the imposing spectacle of the rapid advancement of mankind in every acquirement which can render life dignified or desirable, of the development of the human faculties, applied to the noblest purposes for which they were given in trust by heaven—that of improving the condition of the human race, and of making utility to the many, and not the advantage of the few, the basis of a free and rational government. It is vain to attempt to conceal it. Her progressive and powerful march, menaces changes in the institutions of Europe which must take place sooner or later.

"There is a calmness in her civic strength which to a reflecting mind inspires greater awe than the proudest demonstrations of military conquerors; they rise and they set; they are equally the sport of fortune in their elevation and in their fall; she seems the arbitress of her own fate, and her decisions carry with them the spirit of prophecy. Yesterday she was in her cradle—to-day she holds the Aegis over the western hemisphere. There is nothing fitful or fretful in her pretensions; she sits poised on the stability of her resources, calm in the justice of her claims. By her fiat she has set limits to the jurisdiction of the Holy Allies: "So far and no farther—in Europe you may tyrannise whilst slaves are to be found tamely to submit to the rod—America from North to South is free."—She has boldly proclaimed to the world the course she will next pursue, when the eternal jealousies of the rulers of mankind shall again light up the flames of war; her decision constitutes at once a new code for neutrals, and defines the future pretensions of belligerents. Europe has heard these dicta in silence!"

of monkeys, until they were out of sight. Thus the Indian ridded us of those pests.—We daily saw different tribes, perhaps three tribes of different colours in one day; some were very mischievous, throwing pistachios, limes, and other fruits, at us. Our women rode on donkeys, one of which getting tired, and as beating would not make him go, he was abandoned; the monkeys, as usual, were attentive spectators, and seeing the donkey left, they descended to have a ride; three or four dozen mounted together, on his ears, neck and every other part and even two clung to his tail, while the others whipped and scratched him. The donkey, frightened by this novel treatment, acquired new speed, and began cantering, while his pursuers as nimbly plied him, until he came up to our rear braying. The monkeys now abandoned him, so dreadfully scratched and torn, that he never attempted to stop afterwards.

BOMBAST.

In the course of a trial lately held at Albany, N. Y. "an eminent counsellor" put the following questions to a witness.

Counselor.—Did you not see Mr. — raise his muscular arm, and attempt to enforce and coerce a preponderation of the timidity and fears of my client?

Witness.—Sir?

C. Did not Mr. — attempt the infliction of the most violent and outrageous corporeal contusion and chastisement?

W. Sir?

C. Did not Mr. — attempt to strike the plaintiff?

W. Yes, sir.

C. From your situation could you not have the most commanding view of the altercation; and was there any thing interfering between you and the objects, that could in any wise dim your optucular faculties, or create any obtuseness of vision?

W. Sir?

C. I say, sir, were not your organs of sight in a situation to have a most clear, unclouded, and bright view of this most villainous, foul, and rancorous transaction?

W. Sir?

C. Did you not plainly see Mr. — knock Mr. — down?

W. Yes, sir, I did.

"The bigger fool the better luck."

I have seen men, merely by noise and fluency, lead the conversation in companies, where there was taste, talent, and learning; though they possessed neither of the three.

I have known lawyers to gain their causes, by impudence and vociferation, when neither themselves, nor the jury, knew precisely their drift.

I have frequently seen men take their seats in the legislature, because they begged suffrages, and gave away whiskey, while those who disdained to stoop to such measures, were left at home.

I have seen a brainless fop lead to the altar, a fine girl, and break her heart before the end of the first year, though her hand had been solicited in vain, by the wealthy, the wise, and the honourable.

I have seen stupid creatures, who scarcely knew the top of a tobacco hill from the bottom, plod on and get rich; while men of real intellect, and industry, have pined in poverty.

Did you never see a part, or all of these things? If you did not, I congratulate you on your prospects of good luck, for you possess the qualities to which it is promised by the adage.

OSCAR.

Florida.—From information received from Tallahassee, the seat of government for West Florida, a very flattering account is given of the character of the soil. The writer states that, as far as he has explored, he has seen no land that may not be cultivated to advantage and a great portion of first rate. The greatest objection that exists to the country, is the extraordinary number of ponds that abound through all the rich lands. Many of them are said to furnish good fish, and supposed to be fed by subterraneous streams.—From these ponds run as fine rivulets of pure spring water as are seen in any section of our country. From this circumstance, it is the general opinion that they will not be likely to generate those fevers usually to be apprehended from stagnant waters.
