Lieur. Thomas Horne, a witness in beneft of the prosecute n. being sworn, states: That the accused observe! to him, but a few days before the mutiny broke at For Jackson, that he would be angry enough to shoot any of his men who would pretent to go home previous o the 29th of D-cember, and nad p eviously directed his men to discard he idea of going some, until he we t, which would be at the expiration of ax

Question by the Prosecutor. A: what and god firsthear Capt. Strother dissuade his mea from going nome? Answer. I disremember: but I believe it was in Septem et.

Ensign Thoma simpson, a witness in behalf of the prosecution, being eworn, states: Thathe frequently heard that Capi. Strother should have said; that, if he was a liettenant or ensign, he woole march the men home; upon which, he applied to him to know whe. ther or not be had is d such an expression; when the Cantain informed aim he had not, and advised him to stay and do his duty until he the Caplain, would go, which would be at the expiration of six months. And, at another ome, he heard the Captain ell some of his men, that, if they went, it would be at the risk of their lives, being sho, and, perhaps, have fause to regret such an act as long as they livet.

Question by the court. Did you ever heer Capt. Strother use any threats towards the men who were talk me a out going home, say that he would put them under guard, or report them to the commanding offi ? Answer. I o not know that I and, further than stated here ofore.

Question by the Prosecutor. How many lays before the men actually went of, did you hear this inquiry of Captain Sir thei? Answer I o not recoliect the precise time, but beneve it have been six or eight days prevous.

John S. Smith, (Fife Major) - witness to behalf of the presecutio . ng sworn, states: That he naver bea to ny language used by the Captaio to his mer, but to continue in service until the extitation of their six mouths; and that it was highly improper to be orcaking off, and that they would be pupished if they went sooner.

Serjeant John D Smith, a witness in benaif of the presecution, being sworn, states. That he formerly belonged to Capt. Smith's, and was a tached in Capt. Strother's company at Fort Williams; marched under his command to Fort Jackson, and never heard his Captain my one word on the o'ject mentioned in the charges, but one. When at Fort Ensign Thos. H. Williams, Smeraries. Jackson, at the time the meeting assurmed a pretty high tope, he observed, " Boys, hush mutinising; stay until I go home, which will be at the expiration of six months.

> David Morrow, serjeant of Captain Strother's company, a witness in ochalf of the presecution, being swo n. states; That, on the march between Fort Jackson and D post, his Captain asked him ow long in expected o stay in services to which he replied, six months-as bey were mustered in for a stime; when his Caprain observed that, and ss he was shown a better law than he had ve seen, he should not serve langer then three months; and, on the 19 Sip. ember told bim that, if he was there. nant or ensign, he would march have me pany home at the end of three outths. as there was no law to keep them any Question 1st. by the accuse . Do you know whether or not I cared for a guard one evening, to prevent the b ke shop being culled lower and do y a know the reason but a part of ut not be bad? Answer. Yes; you called for
