AN EXCELLENT HIT.
The Boston Courier gives the following as the table of contents of the party papers of the day. It is a very accurate table too, as far as our observation has extended.

Substance of the Jackson papers.
"Another slender reeler;" "Mrs. DeCatur's Letter;" "Disgraceful Electioneering;" "We are safe;" "Glorious victory;" "The travelling Cabinet;" "State rights;" "A sign;" &c. &c.

Ditto, Administration.
"General Jackson a negro trader;" "Farmer Jackson;" "The Combatant;" "The question settled;" "Mr. Van Buren's promise;" "Kentucky curs;" "General Jackson's character developed;" "A Duellist;" "His connection with Aaron Burr;" &c. &c.

TOTAL—Mr. Adams and General Jackson, the two worst men, morally and politically speaking, to be found in the country;—Messrs. Calhoun and Clay, a little worse, and their satellites one step lower. Any person can take an opposition paper, change the words "Adams" to "Jackson," and "Clay" to "Calhoun," and he will have an administration paper—or otherwise; so that to be thoroughly versed in the political history of the present times, it is only necessary for the reader to take the papers of one party, and exercise his own ingenuity. The same dignified epithets, the same cant phrases, and the same blackguard slang, will be found in both—and it must be confessed they are exceedingly valuable documents to such as take any pride in the prosperity and honour of the country."

Our friend of the Georgia Courier, seems to be fond of cracking a joke sometimes. His paper of the 29th ult. contains the following rariyoddle under its editorial head.

"Our friend, little Tom, has just returned from the back county, where he has spent two or three summer months. "Well, Tom, what news do you bring? Did you hear any thing of the Tariff of the country?" "O yes, Sir, the people are almost crazy about it. Well, do don't, say they, if we don't see the Tariff, when we go to town, if we can muster money enough. Some would give a bag of cotton to get a sight of it; others are afraid of it, and keep their guns loaded."

So says our friend of the Courier. Now we know a story or two about this same buggaboo, the Tariff, worth two of that.

An honest farmer in the west of the empire of New York, called on his representative soon after his return from Washington, and among other things inquired what the Tariff was.—"Is it, said he, a sort of machine, or a dastardly critter?" "Whether the representative satisfied his constituent, that the Tariff was neither a sort of machine, nor a dastardly critter, this dependent knoweth not.

In this same town of Millie genville, some month or two ago, a man inquired most anxiously of his neighbor, what the Tariff was, about which so much noise was made. After receiving a full explanation, he burst forth, evidently very much relieved from apprehensions of some sort or other, in the following strains:

"Well now, la mel is that it? Good gracious, that's not so dreadful, after all. Why bless your soul of you, if I didn't think it was some sort of disease like the cold plague, that would carry folks off in a whiptick. Dog my cat, if somebody didn't tell me, that some K. stucky folks had come into Georgia, and brought the Tariff with them, and if we didn't look sharp we would all catch it. Well, well, well, I'm no worse."

Geo. Jour.

SINGING COCKS.
The editor of the American Farmer has received from Mr. Wright, the acting consul at Rio Janeiro, two "singing door fowls," of the species called by the Portuguese, "canta gallo," or Singing Cock. Its name is derived from one of its faculties. It spins out its crow, it is said, in the new style of singing. Like fine ladies who draw and lengthen out their chromatics, till one begins to fear that she will spin out all the breath in her body, not leaving enough to cover her upon.

Be moderate in your case, and let your relish for them may continue.
