AS Agents for Wm. Anderson & Co., the subscriber is now receiving from New York a large and well-assorted stock of SEW & CO., Groceries, Hardware, and Quenware.

Arrangements have been made to receive from London an early copy of every new book printed either in that mart of talent or in Edinburgh, & then with the periodical literature of Great Britain. From the former we shall select the Needs, Memoirs, Tales, Travels, Sketches, Biographies, &c. and publish them with as much exactness and accuracy as an extensive editing office will admit. From the latter, such literary intelligence will regularly be called as will prove interesting and entertaining to the lover of knowledge, and science, and literature, and novelty. Good standard novels and other works, now out of print, may also occasionally be reproduced in our columns.

The publisher confidently assures the heads of families, that they need have no dread of introducing the "Select Circulating Library" into their domestic circle, as the gentleman who has undertaken the Editorial duties to literary tastes and habits adds a due sense of the responsibility he assumes in offering for an extended and moral community, and of the consequences, detrimental or otherwise, that will follow the dissemination of vicious or mental ablusions. His selection and engagements afford peculiar advantages and facilities for the selection of books. These, with the additional advantages created by agents at London, Edinburgh, and Birmingham, warrant the proprietor in trusting to a faithful execution of the literary department.

It would be supererogatory to dilate on the general advantages and conveniences which such a combination presents to people of literary pursuits wherever located, but more particularly to those whose residence in retired situations they are so obvious that the first glance can not fail to flash conviction of its eligibility.

publications of England and America, being the earliest vehicle to disseminate such information, and by the perusal of which, a person, however remote from the marts of books, may keep pace with the times.

It is usual to wish in behalf of a son, that he may prove a better man than his father, so we, without meaning any particular reflection on our former volumes, received with such distinguished favor, hope and trust that our future will surpass them; for experience ought always to produce improvement, more especially when, as in our case, it lessens the number of difficulties we had to encounter in the outset.

The object of the "Library" had in view, were fully detailed in the prospectus; the following extracts from that introductory paper, will prove the spirit of that liberality in which the work was undertaken, and also that we have had no occasion to deviate from the original plan.

Extracts from the original Prospectus.

In presenting to the public a periodical, entirely new in its character, it will be expected that the publisher should describe his plan, and the objects he hopes to accomplish.

There is growing up in the United States a numerous population, with literary tastes, who are scattered over a large space, and who distant from the localities whence books and literatory information emanate, feel themselves at a great loss for that mental food which education has fitted them to enjoy. Books are cheap in our principal cities, but in the interior they cannot be procured as soon as published, nor without considerable expense. To supply this desideratum is the design of the present undertaking, the chief object of which emphatically is, to make good reading cheaper, and to put it in a form that will bring it to every man's door.

Books cannot be sent by mail, while the "Select Circulating Library" may be received at the most distant post office in the Union in from fifteen to twenty-five days after it is published, at a little more expense than newspaper postage; or in other words, before a book could be bound in Philadelphia, our subser-bers in the most distant states may be per-sing it in their parlors.

To elucidate the advantages of the "Select Circulating Library" such as we propose, it is only necessary to compare it with some other publications. Take the Waverly novels, for example, the Chronicles of the Canongate occupy two volumes, which are sold at $1.25 to $1.50. The whole would be readily contained in five numbers of this periodical, at an expense of fifty cents, postage included. So that more than three times the quantity of literary matter can be supplied for the same money by adopting the newspaper course of circulation.
But we consider transmission by mail, and the early receipt of new books, as a most distinguishing feature of the publication. Distant Subscribers will be placed on a footing with those near at hand, and will be supplied at rates equal to about Fifty Five thousand copies.

Arrangements have been made to receive
from London an early copy of every new book

select the *Needs, Memoirs, Tales, Travels,

tended and moral community, and of the conse-

such a combination presents to people of literary pursuits wherever located, but more particularly to those whose residence in retired situations
they are so obvious that the first glance can
not fail to flash conviction of its eligibility.

It is printed and finished with the same care and accuracy as book work. The whole fifty two numbers form two volumes well worth preservation, of 416 pages each, in quantity to 1200 pages, or three volumes, of Keess Cyclopaedia. Each volume is accompanied with a Title page and Index.

The price is Five Dollars for fifty-two numbers of sixteen pages each—a price at which it cannot be afforded under extensively patented.

Agents who procure five subscribers, & all have a receipt in full by remitting the publisher $20, and a proportionate compensation for a larger number. This arrangement is made to increase the circulation to an extent when will make it an object to pay agents liberally.

Subscribers, living near agents, may pay their subscriptions to them; those otherwise situated may remit the amount to the subscriber at his expense of payment be made in message at par to Philadelphia. Our arrangements are all made for the fulfilment of our part of the contract.

Subscribers' names should be immediately forwarded, in order that the publisher may know how many to print of the forthcoming volumes.

CAPTIONS OF THE LAWS Passed by the General Assembly of N. Carolina at its session in 1834—35.

PUBLIC ACTS.

1. An act to amend an act entitled an act to establish a Bank in the State of North Carolina, passed at the last session of the General Assembly. [Provides that the corporation shall deal in promissory notes, expressing on the face of them to be negotiable and payable at any agency of the Bank; shall also, at all times receive on deposit at their principal bank, or any of the branches or agencies of the corporation, as much of the public money as the Treasurer of the State shall offer to deposit in said Bank to his credit.]

2. An act to amend the charter of the Bank of Cape Fear. [Provides that the stockholders of said Bank, who may reside in any one of the United States, and be a citizen thereof, shall be entitled to vote by themselves or proxy, at all meetings of the stockholders; further, that the corporation shall at all times receive on deposit at their principal bank, or any of the branches or agencies thereof, as much of the public money as the Treasurer of the State shall offer to deposit to his credit.]

3. An act to give further time for paying in entry money. [Allows until the 15th of December, 1835, for that purpose.]

4. An act to prohibit lotteries. [Provides that no lottery, public or private, shall hereafter be drawn or set on foot in this state, with a scheme for the payment of either cash, property of any description, certificates of debt, or any other articles or evidences of debt whatsoever, under a penalty, not to exceed 2000 dollars fine, and an imprisonment not exceeding six months; Further prohibits
