The following beautiful tribute to the memory of Mr. Cilley, was offered in the Senate by Mr. Williams, one of the Maine Senators, in announcing his untimely

Mr. Presdent-I came into the Senate this morning exhausted and overwhelmed, to perform the melancholy duty of announcing to you and to the Senate of the United States the sudden and lamented death of my friend and colleague, the Hon. Jonathan Cilley, a Representative | rect and critical nature of the mode of instrucfrom Maine, in the Congress of the United States. At the last adjournment of the Senate, Mr. Cilley was in perfect health, full of hope and expectation of making himself useful in asserting and vindicating the violated rights of his State, and of distinguishing himself in the great questions which now so deeply agitate the public mind. Full of zeal and ardent patriotism, and of desotion to the great cause of human liberty and of human rights, he considered that a crisis had arisen when his country had a right to claim the services of her sons. He obeyed the call of his constituents, relinquishing the enjoyments of the domestic circle of a wife and three children. He is now a lifeless corpse; all his hopes are blasted and destroyed, and his constituents are deprived of the services of an able and faithful representative.

Mr. Cilley was a native of New Hampshire, and belonged to one of the most ancient and respectable families in that State. Patriotism and bravery were his inheritance. His grandfather was the distinguished patriot and brave officer of the Revolution, General Cilley; and his brother, Capt. Joseph Cilley, was the gallant lender of the heroic charge under Colonel Miller, at the battle of Bridgewater Heights, in the last war,

The deceased was a graduate of Bowdoin College, in Maine, and by his superior talents and application attained a high standing at the bar in that State. He was a good lawyer, an able advocate, and a powerful debater.

From early life Mr. Cilley was ardently attached to the principles of free government; a zealous advocate of the rights of the whole people, and a determined opponent of the claim of the few to tyranize over the many.

In 1834, Mr. Citley was elected to the House of Representatives in Maine, and in 1835 and 1836 was Speaker of that body, where his powers and love of conntry became so conspicuous, that in 1837 be was elected to Congress in a district in which the majority were his political opponents.

Of his conduct here, I need not speak, for all who hear me, and all who knew Mr. Cilley in the other end of the Capitol, will bear testimony to his ability, to his open, frank, and determined course, to the high order of his talents and powers as a debater, and to the respect and deference he paid to the rights of others.

· As a man Mr. Cilley was warm, ardent, generous, puble; as a friend, true, faithful, abiding. He was in the meridian of his life, aged 35; the past was the Carnest of the future.

In his death Maine has lost one of her brightest ornaments, and the nation is bereft of a devoted patriot, and an ardent, Lealous su; porter of its free institutions.

the sun which set upon the lifeless corpse of my late friend and colleague, ree bright and cheering upon his distant fireside circle, and the wife of his bosom ; blessed it glorious beams, and told her innocent children that it brought the return of their father one day nearer.

Alas! " nor wife nor children shall see him more." Who shall now penetrate that bereaved mansion, and witness the teas the agony, the distraction of the widow and the fatherless? Mr. President, Cannot. May the Father of all mercies be their coul rier and their supp rer.

Of the cause and manner of the death of Mr C. les, I forhear to speak; but allo me t say, that it is my soleme convictio ha he enter ained no ill will, minten ed n disrespect to Mr. Graves, in any thing that occurred, and that, in accepting the cali, he did nothing more than he believed indispenable, to avoid disgrace to himself, to his family, and to his constituents.
