

-

DANIEL WEBSTER.

There are fow names more conspicuous in the polititeal history of the day than that which heale this articte. Purthan that miveh heade this anticle. Pure sumt to my fixed intention, I will care. fuily obstain (in the portraiure foily abstain (in the portrature whieh 1 shall attempt to make of thie distinguishad iosividual) from every observation of palitical of partiasas clastacter.
The person of Mr. Webter is ment he is slow and spparenty inaetive. He dresses plaiuly, in dark eolort, with neatoess and tate, but without any at tespt whatever at display. His countenance is very renarkable, his complex Joenp block. His lipes are thin, hiss teeth of dazzling whiteness. His forehead is ety peeculiar, of mont uncommon uagnitulf, his brows heary and lowering. The moment that your eyes reat upon lhm, you conclude that he is a man of treat mand, and conseious of intill steat mind, and consecious of inttilicelual superiority. His feetures are not well ealeviated to give pewerfal expressinn to pasion. You will often observe, when whickeds from him of particular force or prover severity. Although most atudiously severity. Although most atudiously ursion, yet, when justififed in suech a courso $y$ the conduet of hise apate of wielding with readiness a word of anesum a satire which cuts With tho keenness.of the seimiutur of the East. Ms. Webster io distinguished for oolidity, strenght, and power of reasoning. His asual manner is cold, and didsetic, frequently, howerer, extremely carnest, and ai ways. When earnest moai powerfolly eloguont. Although trianed to the seorero mental dieceipline of the bar. he is fond of ornament, and is alway, succesful when he attempts it. He possessece a fino imagination, and io sever averse, whilst traverting the thorny pathe verse, whilst tuaversing, the thorny path of politieal disputation, to seatier the abste. His views of a sebjject rre aljoye the adrantage of a fund of kown-ledge of the mont exteosive character. Whioh his well trainod mind enables him to apply with peeviliar advantage in de-boue Norih seldom turnishes a pasionate declaimer. The temperat of the elinge in which he is reared. The coldness of his home reigns throughout the manner and appearanes of Mr. Web tor. He never thunders with the wild the continuous warmth of or Preston or Colcun. Ile wants the passion and enthythatm which is necessary to eloquence of tho plays as mueh ferror as you would deem in appropriate hoeping with the sober-ness and doep study which characteriz. es all his retantks. You alwnys listen to him with attention, and when he concludes you invariably ries from hearing cludes you invariably rise from hearing him with a firm conviction of his great ness is a mnn, and that your time has been proatably emploged whilst you lieard him. His habits must be those of great induatry, and whilst at Washing. lon, hie time, in publie, is divided beween the Senate chamber and the bar of the Supreme Court. In the latter forum his powere have frequently been tasked. lisis powers have rrequentiy been tasked. and tootod, by collisions with minds of tha highest order and most astended at tainacints. Thiero-where hise greatest laurels have been won-his competitors have been such men as Taney, Pinckney, Jones. Emmel, Wirt, and others.

His oratione upon oceasional subjecta, His oratione upon oceasional subjecta, unconnoeted with politice or law., have added grealy to his reputation, and are added greaily to his reputation, and are preeservod and held forth to the pubbic as models of literary excellence. His powinto requisition in tho. House of Repre-intant entatives and in the Senime of the Uni-led States. The wrief of this had an opportunity to hear him during what Wan callod the panic session, and anso ot witness the whole of that intellectual combat which took place between Mr.
Webatier and Mr. Hayne, on Mr. Foote, Webster and Mr. Hayne, on Mr. Foote's colebrated resolution. 1 well recollect the expression of unmitigated scorn which crossed the lips of this Senator when Mr. Hayne intimated that he had paesed by Mr. Benton, to attack him, and 2
terms are more applicabies ellsewhere than here, and fitter for other assemblag.

 Ti. Woher onnect

 " I have not allowed myself, sir, to look beyond the Union to see what might lio Lidden in the dark recess behind. 1 have not ceolly weighed the chances of preserving liberty, When the bonds that unite os together shall be breten that anite os together shall bo broten asuader, I hase not pormiited myself to hang over the precipice of disunion to see whether, wihh my short sight. I tan lathom the depth of the abysi below; nor could I regard hima sas safe consel lor in the affars of this Government Whose thoughte ohould be mainly bent on considering not how the Union could be best preserved, but how tolerable mighs breserved, but how tolerable when io tha condition of the people whonoa op and destrog.
 Ine turnes to behold for the last time, the sun in heaven, may I not see him shining on the broken fragments of a onee glorious Union; -belligerent: on a land rent werh civil Teuds, or dreached it may be with fraternal blood! " Iet their last feeble and lingering ign of the Republic, now known and honored throughout the earth, still full high adrence high adranced, its arms and trophies atreaming in all their riginal lustre-no atripe erased or polluted, not a cinglo sueh misorable interrogatory as t What is oll this wovth?' nor those other words of delusion and folly, Liberty first, and Union afteravard; ; but ereery where, spread all over in characters of living they blazzing on aner his sisa, and oneret hide land, and and io every wind under the whole heavens, that other sentiment, dear to very true Amerian heart: Liborty and Union, now and forever, one and inseparaIn !" It difficult to find any thing in $A \mathrm{~m}$ riean Literature tranacending the ric pess and beanty of this extract. The allusion to the eflag of the ecuntry is finely poetic. The example of Mr, Webster ly poetie. The esively that the most enerproves conclusivel getic and poweriul minde are not unprogetic and powerful minda are not unp pitious to the eultire and growth of the more chaste and better productions of the imagination. The prose of Milton is as powerful and nervous as his poetry is pro-minently sublime. Shakespeare is as renowned for his aceuraey-for his knowledge of man, and of the human knowledge of man, and of the human heart, for for the sweenese of his verse, his taste and thrilling pathos. 1 lis eut tious faot that the eartier efforts of Mr, Curran are plain and void of attempt at thetorical display, and he has declar. ed that all his excellenoe--for whith he is so celebrated-in splendor of expres. is so celebrated-in splendor of exprestoion and eatern gorgousness and ima gery, was tha result of labor and of ftu-in y. The tinted and perfanmed flower

\section*{|  |  |
| :---: | :---: |
|  |  |
|  |  |
|  |  |
|  |  |
|  |  |
|  |  |
|  |  |
|  |  |
|  |  |
|  |  |
|  |  |
|  |  |
|  |  |
|  |  |
|  |  |
|  |  |
|  |  |
|  |  |
|  |  |  } sad their tempers ready for poit out breakings.

sometimes
Moth

 pose, has made em all look oid alike Can you see any differnec in leeth, betwixi a horse that's fifteen and a horse that's twenty I Besifles...the ink pale, and here was different pen marks that's evident." And his counsel, de lightud wihthis reply, hold the book oun tentatiously towards the jury; whe seemed but too much of the old man'e Staggered bat not desperate, I again took the Bible and turned to look the Bible and turned to she title page; where en my wurprise and jog. I saw that it had been priated only owe year before the bond iusel had bech ex ecuted! The book had not existed, unit ninetern years afer the time when as til nineteen yoars aner he there registeree the father suore, ha had his son't birth!
Hiding my joy, however, and comm posing myeelf as much as possible, I pasing myyelf soy, muweres, as possible, Ia gain, by reiterated questions, made the poor old man repeat beyond all chane por Cor retraction or denial, his well conned arory $;$ and then by reading alooud the rinted dute in the the printed dase in the ing it the otisfied them thay the book had been boughth and the entries made, in pale, oldith colored ink with pens purposely varied, since th present s. casion.
The
The wretched father sunk down in eon-fusion, upon the witness bench. Withou word of teotimony, the jury found a rer

He had bren bold in bis mierepreseataassurances from Governor Clinton of safety for person and property, yet hase were some expected visiters that he did *as Elhan Allen. Rivington was a fine porly looking man and wore powder. A ant Allen appened.

 the meeting:- 1 I wases sining actior a good linner along with wy botile of Maderia before aue, when I heard unusual noive in dhe treets, and a huzza from the to was in the 2 d storg, and on slepping to he, wiadour,saw o tail figure in tarnisied regimentalt, with a large cocked hat and an enormoualy lung sword, followel by down my window, and retired bebind my able and botile. I was certain the hour of reckeone abie end botile. (was certaia the hour of reckoning was omme. There was no retreat mr. Staples, my clerk, wame in pale than ever, and clasping his hands. paler than ever, and clasping his hands, siid, "M Master, he has come. I kasw th.

He entereed the store and aeked if Janes Rivington lived here. I anawered, yes, ir." "Is he at homer" "I will go and ane, sir" l seide " and wee, sir," 1 said; and now maner what is to be donet-There he iv, sir, in the store, and the boys peeping at him Irom the street." 1 had mide up my mind-1 looked at the Maderia- poasibly took a glass. Show him up, paids $\mathbf{I}$,- and I thongt it such Maderia canno damant. Thero must as fearfoll mome on the stairs, and heared his heard him aword clanking oo every step. In long atalked. Is your naree Japmes Raivington" it it is sif, and no man could be more happy oseo general Eithan Allen-loke a chapiry, sir, by the table; and afier warde a glass of this Maderia. Ho as down and began-" Sir, I' come!" Not a word general, till you take a glass; and 1 filled ten, year old, on my own keeping nother glass, pir, and then wo will halk THE UNTTED STATES AND TUE In the Official paperg of Tuesday evening it publiached a letier from thio Colleeor of the port of Cleveland, in Ohio, te ting a eorrespondence which tran taken place between him and the Colaniel place between bim and the Colonial Government of Upper Canada, on the oub ject of the outrago latoly committed by omene drunken Canadian Mititiamen, on on an American vestel (the Stephen Girard) puasing through the Welland Canal; in which the latior expressee great regreíse well as indiguation at the oceuriege and assures the Collector that the per petrators of thite with the serereat punishhnent the visived will permit; and, that such effer means shall immediately bo and effectual to to prevent prevent ite reeurrence as will enable vessele of the United Sates to pase hrough the Canadian canals without he noyghest danger of Upon the faets diselosed in this eor respondenee our Official paper (the Globe) makes the following romarke nough. Mough a litule tart, are true e-Nat. Inte. -The English and Canadians, who cannot prevent such attacks as that on the Stephen Girard,.0ven withinfthe lien-is of Canada and with a poeviffol mi-- litary to aid the civil autherities, thould. ind the great mass of our. people as res-- dy as themaelves sofacknomede ge and redress manifest wrongs, when not able to preveat them amididy Guch numerous to extensive difficultiey ne exist on the Co-dodian frontiof, aggravated so they alWays have been by foreign agitato refugees from Canada iteelf."
"I wish you would give me that gold ing on your finger," saida village dasady tos country girl, "for it resemblee the duration of my love for you-it hae ne end." "Exeuse me, sir," said the, "I choose to keep it, for it is likewise ew-blematical of mine for you--it has no beginaing.

Shakspeare Modenized,-Two loofers werc spouting the otber day in froot ors were spouting the otber - Two in loaf-of a Bank, when one drew a will his pocket and said, "he who walleen purse ateals wash." "Yes," replied th other, "and he who filches from your good name takes that fro what you never had.

The maintainanee of the police foree of the city of Ioondon for the year $183{ }^{2}$, coe1 $81,018,800$.

A knave discovered is the greatest fool.

