The tal receipts, in 1850, amounted to over four thousand eight hundred dollars; and the profits, after deducting the farm and family expenses, exceeded twenty-six hundred dollars!

Such an instance of success should be known over the whole county. Farming is often looked upon as a poor business, not adapted to persons of intelligence and enterprise. Young men flock to the city in crowds, in the hope of bettering their condition; while those who remain under the paternal roof never take an interest in their occupation, and are content with a mere subsistence. Those who would fail in farming would probably fail in other and "more respectable" pursuits; but many that make capital farmers, would make poor merchants. Commerce is a gigantic lottery, where at least ninety-five out of a hundred draw blanks; the prizes are magnificent, but they are few in number. The soil is a faithful servant, which will restore the five talents, with other five which they have gained. Its rewards are slow, but sure; it gives a living to all, and to skill, forethought, and iron-hearted industry, and unflinching perseverance, it offers a competence—moderate, yet sufficient. Let the farmer possess the secret of success—good management—and he need never complain of ill luck, or grumble at the caprices of fortune.

A writer in the Detroit Advertiser, who was for twenty years a stock farmer, says that sheep can be protected from dogs by pasturing them with fat cattle or milch cows. The cattle invariably attack the dogs, and thus save the sheep.

Where do all the Eggs come from?—There are daily some one or two hundred barrels of eggs received in New York by the Erie Railroad, and probably as many more by the various other roads and Hudson river. One hundred barrels of eggs were received in the steamer Empire City, which arrived last week from New Orleans. This is a curious fact in the history of

THE REASON WHY. Why are we not this day, like our naked forefathers, dancing wildly around some Druidical stone in the dark solitude of the forest; or, cannibal-like, quaffing the bloody draught from human skulls, in the halls of Odin? Why, instead of this, are we privileged to assemble in orderly and solemn attitude, in temples dedicated to Jehovah, Lord of Hosts? Why have we, who do thus assemble, had our station allotted to us in the foremost ranks of civilized men? Why are we the inheritors of domestic peace, and social refinement, and intellectual culture safely vouchsafed in like measure to any other land? Why are we the possessors of privileges, civil and religious, which, in stability of foundation and reciprocal harmony of parts, may well be said to be without parallel in all the world besides. Why, in short, a change so vast and so blessed from the condition of our savage and idolatrous ancestors?

Let authentic history supply the answer. In days of yore, there were men sent from abroad on an embassy of love, to visit these shores. These men,—call them missionaries, or preachers, or apostles, or by any other name more grateful to fastidious ears, as the name cannot alter the nature of the recorded fact,—these men came with no ensign but that of the cross,—no ammunition but the Bible, the of the de gan has been increase of the violence and showing some life. A Detroit paper, commenting on the proceedings of a Grand Jury, says: The nature of the investigations which that grand jury were called to make, satisfied its members that the city of Detroit is a dark and bloody ground, whose soil has drunk the blood of many a victim, and whose quiet river has choked the gurgling death-ery of many a wretch, of whose end nothing more is known but that he was and is not, and the secret of whose "taking off" is between the murderer and his Maker. The river flows in close proximity to purities of a most dangerous and disreputable character, and offers a ready receptacle for all traces of proof which are subject to human ken."

HIGH PRICES.—A hoghead of Tobacco, weighing 1100 lbs. nett, was sold in Petersburg the other day at fifty-one dollars and seventy-five cents per 100 lbs. It was made in Granville county, in this State, and the Intelligencer says, was about the prettiest specimen of the article ever seen.

Charles Dickens, in a late number of his "Household Words," after enumerating the striking facts of the cotton trade, says:

"Let any great social or physical convulsion visit the United States, and England would feel the shock from Land's End to John O'Groats. The lives of nearly two millions of our countrymen are dependent upon the cotton crops of America; their destiny may be said, without any sort of hyper-day ce ot, Governor of Rice, of the 25th, were when they fell in with a tigress and two cubs. One cub was immediately killed, and the tigress wounded. They tracked her for half an hour into the jungle, when she suddenly sprang out, knocked over Mr. Elliot before he had time to cock his gun, and seizing him by the left arm, dragged him away. Mr. Rice had already discharged one gun when they attacked the tigress. He quickly got his second gun, but from the extreme difficulty of firing without killing his friend, could only aim at the body of the tigress, and though he wounded her again, did not wound her mortally. With admirable resolution he then seized a third gun, and watching his opportunity till he could see Elliot's head apart from that of the tigress, shot her dead, through the head, with his friend in her mouth. The officers were thirty miles from camp, and did not reach it for twenty hours. It is impossible to give too much credit to the skill and coolness of Lieut. Rice. Mr. Elliot's arm is badly wounded by the bite, as well as by the stones and rocks over which he was dragged, but no fear is entertained for life or limb.
