

Hillsborough Recorder.

HILLSBOROUGH, N. C.
Wednesday, January 15, 1863.

Gov. Graham's Speech.—Much of our space to-day is occupied by the able speech of the Hon. Wm. A. Graham, in opposition to an ordinance introduced into the State Convention imposing a test oath upon all the male citizens of the State above the age of sixteen years. It is an eloquent and convincing speech, and its perusal will be gratifying to all who value constitutional liberty. We regret that our limits will not permit us to give the whole in one issue; the conclusion will appear in our next.

A report was in circulation a few days ago, that a large number of Yankee troops had landed on our coast, but it appears that the report, like many that have preceded it, was entirely without foundation.

Intelligence from Europe indicate considerable uneasiness in the state of affairs. Warlike preparations are active in England, and large numbers of troops continue to be sent over to Canada. France, it is said, will acknowledge the independence of the Confederate States if England does, and it is believed that that event will not long be delayed. Lincoln's policy in obstructing the entrance to Southern ports by sinking vessels laden with stores, being an acknowledgment of his inability to enforce his blockade in a legitimate way, has attracted the attention of the powers of Europe, and may have the effect of hastening matters, and bring on a crisis which will remove entirely the obstructions to commerce between the Confederate States and the ports of Europe—an event almost as much to be desired by them as by us.

Patriotic Contributions.—J. B. Jones, of the Passport Office, Richmond, in a communication to the Richmond Examiner, estimates the amount of contributions to the army on the Potomac, the Peninsula, Norfolk and Western Virginia, and in Missouri, Arkansas and Kentucky, during the last quarter of the year just expired, at not less than three millions of dollars. The following list comprises donations made almost exclusively to the army of the Potomac, which passed more immediately under his inspection:

From North Carolina,	$225,417
Alabama,	217,600
Mississippi,	272,670
Georgia,	344,895
South Carolina,	137,206
Texas,	67,500
Louisiana,	61,950
Virginia,	48,070
Tennessee,	17,000
Florida,	3,350
Arkansas,	950
	$1,514,598

IMPORTANT.

The financial news from the North is highly important. The Herald says that "in another week the treasury will be without a cent," and that "the prospect is fast precipitating matters towards a panic." In the same article the Herald says "the money question is assuming an alarming shape, and sixty millions of receipts make a sorry figure against six hundred millions of expenditures!" This is rather plain talk, and sounds very much like the second sober thought. We give a portion of the Herald's article:

Whilst Congress is wasting the precious hours of the session in the discussion of questions which belong to the executive business of the War Department, and the agitation of which can be of no sort of benefit at the present time, the financial affairs of the country are in a condition which excites the utmost anxiety and alarm. In another week the treasury will be without a cent, and in financial and commercial business of every kind the prospect is fast precipitating matters towards a panic. Those who have anything to dispose of, and who can realize it, are investing the proceeds in gold or in foreign exchange, so as to be prepared for what seems inevitable. It is evident that, unless Congress acts speedily and energetically, not only will we be overtaken by a financial revision severer than any we have yet encountered, but the credit of the government will be destroyed, and our army, which is being brought into such fine condition, utterly demoralized. The issue of unredeemable paper money, so far from helping to extricate us from our embarrassments, can only render them less easy of solution. A nation that has recourse to such expedients is bent on suicide. In taxation alone can we find the means of providing for the burdens the war imposes upon us.

ENGAGEMENT BEYOND WINCHESTER.
The rumors for several days of engagements between Gen. Jackson's command and the enemy, in the vicinity of Roanoke, have been numerous and confused. By a gentleman who came down in the cars yesterday afternoon we learn the following, which we think is probably not far from the truth.
The statement is, that a small body of militia were placed in ambush at or near Hanging Rock, on the road from Winchester to Romney. A superior body of the enemy approached and were fired upon, with a loss to them of about thirty killed. Our men, after sustaining a loss of six, fell back.
It is also said that Gen. Jackson marched north from Winchester, and at or near Bath, three miles south of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, fell in with a body of the enemy, to whom he gave battle. He totally routed them, taking 500 prisoners.
We forbear to state casualties on mere rumor. We are sorry to learn, from a dispatch received in this city by his relatives, that Mr. Ekall, of this city, is among the fallen. Richmond Enquirer.

CALLING OUT THE MILITIA.

Governor Letcher has delegated to Gen. Magruder the power of calling out the Militia of the counties of Amelia, Powhatan, Prince Edward, Nottoway, Dinwiddie, Surry, Charlotte, Mecklenburg, Prince George, Southampton, Hanover, Henrico, Brunswick, Lunenburg, Greenville, Sussex, Goochland, Cumberland, and the City of Richmond. Gen. Magruder has called for the strength of several regiments, and requested the commanders to notify the men that their services may be required at any day. The call has produced a good deal of excitement throughout the said counties, the impression being general that the militia are to be mustered into active service at once. This will, of course, depend upon the course of events under General Magruder's command. The indications are, that we may at any moment expect stirring times on the Peninsula, and the Militia should, of course, be ready at any moment to repel an advance of the enemy in that quarter. Petersburg Express.

FROM WASHINGTON.—A special dispatch from Washington, Jan. 24, to the News Sheet says: The tone of the English press upon the President's message, and especially its strong denunciation of the stone blockade, has had a most depressing effect in Administration circles. Apprehensions are felt that demands may still be made which will test the national spirit quite as offensively as the requisition for Mason and Slidell, and the more Mr. Seward's letter is examined, the less likely it appears to be a final settlement of that affair.
Gen. McClellan's immediate return to the discharge of our duties is not to be expected. His disease is typhoid fever, which would be fatally aggravated by exposure.

By a vote of 27 yeas to 13 nays, the Georgia Senate has passed a bill securing to married women all the property they owned at the time of marriage, free from the debts or control of husbands.

ARMY SUPPLIES.—We learn that the government has secured about three hundred thousand head of hogs, which will furnish ample provisions, with the beef packed, for the army the ensuing year. Richmond Examiner.

James Browne, Esq., of Charleston, S. C., passed through this city on Wednesday last on his way to Richmond, we learn, for the purpose of obtaining from the Government the title to—or the right to work them—certain sequestered lands on Deep River, for the purpose of more extensively mining the coal of that region for more general use in the South. Rel. Standard.

A large warehouse on the plantation of John Wright, Esq., of Goldsborough, was burned on the night of the 3d inst., and nearly all its contents consumed. The house contained 46,000 pounds of seed cotton, upwards of 150 barrels of corn, 75 bushels of peas, and the farming utensils, &c.

Hogs.—The Asheville News speaks of Tennessee hogs passing through that place for South Carolina, and thinks the fright about the scarcity of bacon will evaporate before Spring.

The Examiner says that the Confederate government has secured 300,000 hogs for the army, which with the beef packed, will be ample provision for the army the ensuing year. If so, there is a chance for high prices of pork to come down.

SUSPENDED.—Forty newspapers in Virginia have suspended recently, either from a want of paper or a want of punctuality of subscribers.

Low Prices.—At Cincinnati, Ohio, the great pork market, on the 24th ult., green meats were selling at 2 to 2 1/2 cents a lb., only 3 cents for hams being offered at the close of the day. Lard was selling at 6 1/2 to 7 cents. Mess Pork was worth only 85 to 89 per bbl.

The whiskey sellers at Smithfield, Va., having been troublesome to the soldiers quartered near there, Col. Pryor in command after useless remonstrance, has had the whiskey barrels emptied.

FROM THE NORTH CAROLINA PRESBYTERIAN.

ANOTHER MINISTER FALLEN.

The following communication from the Session of Centre Church, announcing the death of their beloved Pastor, the Rev. F. K. Nash, will come with the weight of a great sorrow to the hearts of his brethren of the Synod of North Carolina, and to many in other Synods, by whom he was well known and greatly esteemed as a able and faithful minister of the New Testament:
The Session of Centre Church, with heart felt sorrow are called upon to record the death of their beloved Pastor, Rev. F. K. Nash, who for sixteen years ministered to them in holy things. After suffering for one week from Pseudo pneumonia he died December 31st, 1861. Although his sufferings were very acute, his mind was calm and collected, his faith steadfast. He died in the assurance of hope of a happy immortality.
When the materials can be collected, a more extended notice of his life and labors will be furnished for publication.
Waving our mournful privilege of attempting a sketch of his character and labors, in view of the expressed purpose of his Session, we give the following particulars of his last sickness and death, furnished by the Rev. H. McLean, Commissioner with him to the late General Assembly, and Pastor of a neighboring Church:

"The late lamented brother Nash and myself, who were both a little indisposed when we left Augusta, greatly improved soon after leaving, and had a pleasant journey home. He found his wife sick of the measles, and I several of my family of the same disease. The next week we met again, at the funeral of one of his parishioners, Alex. McBryde, Sr. His last sermon, the Sabbath before he was taken ill, was based on Job xiv 1, 2.

"This excellent, able and useful brother, between whom and myself, from our first acquaintance in 1839, there was a friendly and cordial intimacy, and with whom we had such pleasant social intercourse in conversation and prayer in our room in Augusta, died on Tuesday, December 31st, 1861, in the full assurance of hope. When first taken ill, he remarked to his physician, Rev. Daniel Johnson and some members of his Session, that he believed his time had come, for he had long been praying that, when the time of his departure should come, he might not only be resigned but willing to leave his dear people and beloved family; that in his previous sicknesses, he had always felt that it might be better for them that he should be longer spared to them. But it was not so now. His prayer was answered. Grace was given him to be perfectly willing to leave them all, and go to dwell with the precious Saviour above.

"Though a great sufferer, he was calm and collected to the last. He quietly fell asleep in Jesus. Thus died this able servant of the Lord, in the midst of usefulness, and at a time, too, when perhaps he never had a stronger hold on the affections of his people. It was my privilege, nearly sixteen years ago, to introduce him to a family in Centre Church, and it was my mournful privilege, last Thursday, to stand alone in his pulpit (Bro. Johnson was necessarily absent) to speak a word to his bereaved flock, while his mortal remains lay before us. He is buried near the Church in which he so often spoke of the Saviour, whom he loved and delighted to serve."

Thus, on the last day of the year, in which God had already taken to Himself two of the most prominent members of the Presbytery of Fayetteville, has another, than whom one more useful and valued is not left behind, been removed by the hand of death. Has the Lord a controversy with His people? Should there not be deep and earnest self-examination and humiliation before Him, in view of such repeated and heavy strokes of His hand? Should not His servants lay to heart these afflictive dispensations, and be warned to give themselves with more earnestness to their great work, knowing not how soon and how suddenly their labors may be arrested by a summons to appear before God!

Obituary.

Died, in this county, recently, JOHN JULIUS, infant son of Dr. J. J. and M. M. E. Allison, aged two years, seven months and twenty-four days. Jonnie was a lovely child, and filled with love and affection the bosoms of all who knew him; but he was a gift from Heaven, only to be removed to a happier sphere for the glory of his Creator. Let his parents be comforted, and thank God for the goodness he has manifested in calling his little one home, and forget not the consoling words, "Suffer little children to come unto me, and forbid them not, for of such is the kingdom of God."

Died, in this county, on the 21st of December last, SARAH A. CRABTREE, eldest daughter of John M. and Louisa Crabtree, aged 11 years, 6 months and 21 days. Also on the 28th of December, LOUVINA, second daughter of the same, aged 9 years, 8 months and 9 days. And on the 6th instant, they consigned to the lonely grave WILLIAM GASTON, aged three years and 10 months. Thus in the short space of three weeks, these three children have been taken from the fond embrace of their earthly Parents, and translated into the paradise of God, where they are forever free from the sorrows and troubles of earth. They died of Diphtheria. May the Parents strive to meet them in heaven, there to enjoy their presence for ever around the throne of God. A. C. H.
