PATAL APPAIR AT CHAPEL HILL.

Chapel Hill was the scope of a mclanchaly tragedy on Sunday morning by which a husband became the slayer of his wife. From the evidence before the Coroner, it appears that S. M. Ward and H. A. Davis at sampled at a very late hour on Saturday sight to effect a foreible entry into the house of John Clements. The latter ordered them off, but a persistent effort seems to have been made by both Davis and Ward to enter the door, it appearing from the testimony of one of Clement's daughters, that Ward knocked him or threatened to knock him off his own steps. Clements at length got his gun repe! the intruders. His wife alarmed at the prospect of bloodshed, rushed out, seized the gun by the muzzle, and in the effort of Clements to withdraw it, it was discharged and the contents all passed for a copy of the President's into the left thigh of the unfortunate woappears that S. We have received from the publisher, E. J. Hale a copy of the above, the third edition of which is just published. It is most beautifully printed on tinted paper, with a portrait of the author, and with a biographical sketch; and contains also some additional pieces not before pub-lished.

We are glad to see this appreciation of a native poet. For Mr Fuller was a poet in the highest sense of the word, letty in lden, bold in limgery, benutiful in lan-guage, polished in versification; somewhat unequal in execution, rather a fault of haste than deficiency in gentus. The Angel in the Clouds will have that posthumous fame which is unfort mately so often denied to the living author; for it is rare that there is contemporary, recognition of transcendant intellectua! power in one whom daily companionship proves to be only mortal.

But if Mr Fuller was only a mortal, the sketch of his life shows him not only to have been a very brilliant, but a very loveable one. Rarely have we been so much attracted by a biographical sketch as by the very pleasant, and very touching ne which accompanies the volume. Mr. Fuller was a poet; but he did not live out ofor above the world; he was to full sympathy with its joys, its hopes, its purby the purest of religious sentiment; and if he had longer lived, would have presented the rare spectacle of the most plendid intellectual career moving along harmoniously with the most prosaic of the daily duties of useful life.

We refer our readers to the advertisement of Mr. Hale in this issue.

The Board of County Commissioners In section this week, and the County Magistrates met to appoint Registrars and Inspectors and other important purposes.

For the Recorder. MR. EDITOR.

I have just read very carefully, and with great contempt an open letter to the peo-ple of the South by one " who writes has-selt" D. M. Key, the bired vassel of one Rutherford B. Hayes, the man who fraud-ulently occupies and desecrates the Presi-dential chair, and for the time being, the said Key represents the Postoffice Department; but for all time in the past or future misrepresents the true and bonest people of the South.

Hear this miserable suppliant; "the forty-fifth Congress has no more right to dispute his election than he has to question the title of any victorious contestant to his seat in that body," then, if a candidate for President of the United States obtains his election and elevation by the blackest and most dammable fraud and be a party to such fraud, and Congress has no power to investigate such fraud, then I have misunder-stood the true principles of all law, to wit; that fraud taints and vitiates every thing it touches; then he says "The leaders, in this esperate attempt to mexicanize our institutions, rely confidently upon the solid

Potter's resolution, he terms a desperate attempt to mexicanize our institutions. Then "our institutions" are fraud, corruption rascality, and cheating the people out of their most sacred rights; for, if I understand Potter's resolutions, they are simply suits and its pleasures; but pleasures guided to investigate certain alleged frauds comthe States of Louisiana and Florida, and brought to the attention of Congress by a resolution of the Legislature of a sister State. Could Congress do less than order an investigation? Would it have discharged its duty to the people of a soverego State, and in fact to the people, the whole Union, if it had not done so? Have fraud and corruption become to be such componant, of 'our institutions' that they cannot be enquired into without Mixi camzing or revolutionizing the country God save the country, if it has come to such a pass as that. Mr. Key is very seary, of what I pray? Revolution, Blood shed. War! though he pretends to be, yet he knows to the contrary; he knows his miserable bosh, are not, the feelings or fears of the Southern people; he trinks he sees in Potter's resolution, the beginning of the end of his official career; he thinks be sees , that if an investigation is had, his 'Boss' must step down and out, and that as he does not represent the people of "the South in the Administration" his "Hog and Homony" together with his official dignity will be gone. No, no, Mr. Key; your truckling, subservient letter cannot fool, decieve or intimidate the people of "the South" whom you misrepresent in the Administration. The only effect it will have South, is to sink you lower, if possible, it, its estimation; but you will have the happy consulation to know, if you can call it happiness, that it will only influme the extremnest of the

The South's representation in Congress, with only a few exceptions, is honest and patriotic, it can no more condone rascality patriotic, it can no more condone rascality in high places than it can in low; it will investigate fraud, it is its duty to do so; it would not be worthy of its manhood did it not. Keery honest man throughout the country demands it of them. Justice domands it; if the people have been wronged, they should know it; thoy should know it; the guilty parties; posterity should know it; the guilty party or parties should be punshed to warn the future generations, if for no other purpose.

Mr. Key, the South needs none of your advice as to who she will return to Congress. Suck your pap in silence as long as you can; the South will return the same members, or better ones, if possible; and if they had sourage to pass the Potter resolutions, this or the next Congress will have lutions. This or the next Congress will have the manhood to proceed with the investigation. If fraud is found, the guilty perpetrators will be held up to the seorn and contempt of all honest men for all generations to come; Do not be so uneasy Mr. Key; no man of sense in the South entertains the idea of unsesting the present inhe is a party to the fraud Then if he is, why spare him any more than the humblest officer of the land?

The people of the country have no fears of "revolution" "bloodshed" and the like ; of business, unless it be un increase of business las was in the case of the Silver Bill.) Let us have hencet institutions, pure institutions or none at all.

Few men have been more successful in the raising of these classes of tobacco than Maj. Ragiand.

This number also contains an interesting letter from Hon: A. Dudley Manti to Governor Kemper on "Beet Root Sugar" Mr. Mann gives the experience of France in the production of the beet, showing great profit, and orges the farmers of the South to go into its cultivation: He gives figures to show that it must be a profitable crop. Col. John Wastington, Col. Randelph Harrison, and other prominent farmers, have interesting articles in this No. Dr. Ellzey, Editor Stock Department; Dr. Pollard, Editor Farme Garden "Editorial General" contains full accounts of meeting of the Executive Coinmittee of the State Agricultural Society. with other interesting matter.

The Chicago Leaf says of the income tax and the tobacco tax, "of the two evils, we are sure we express the feeling of the West when we say, give us no abatement of the tobaced tax in preference to the levying of the hated income tax." And the Leaf might have added the North also. It makes a vast difference whether "your ox or my bull is gore 1." The North does not feel the toosees tax, and is quite willing we shall bear its bardens. The income tax, by the abatement of the tobacco mx, would fall more heavily on the North and Wast than on the Bourn. As asual both of those sections wish to shift the load of government support upon the South; and in the bestowal of national bonnty, the North gets the mest and the South gets the bonds of So it always has been, and so we presume it
