What causes the crackling noise when lard is put into a frying pan ? Lard always contains some portion of water, and it is the expression of this water into steam, forcing its way through the fat. The heat at which fat or oil boils is much greater than water. When the crackling ceases the water has been driven off from the fat, and when the fat begins to boil or bubble its heat will be very high. Why, in frying fish, should the fat or oil be made very hot before the fish are put in ! Because, if the temperature is low when the fish is put into the frying pan, it becomes sodden in the steam formed by its water; but if the oil is be at once driven off, and the fish nicely browned by the scorching

Why should fish or meat that is being fried be frequently turned?
Because, the turning assists in the evaporation of the water. When the fish or meat is allowed to lie too long the steam is generated under it and the surface becomes sodden; and the moment the steam is driven out, the surface catches to the hot pan and becomes burnt turn brolling meat never use a fork but tongs; a fork opens an escape for the juice, and wastes the best parts of the meat

Why is cabbage rendered more wholesome and nutritious by being boiled in two waters? Because cabbage contains an essential oil which is apt to produce bad effects; and it is recommended that it should be boiled in two successive waters, and then it is soft and

The Liver.

Dr. Bliss and his contemporaries who have been trying to make the President believe that if the bullet struck his liver he will have a close shave of it know very little about that organ, or else they have entered into a conspiracy to scare him to death. Right here in our State of Michigan one can collect a cart loud of affidavits that a man's liver is about the most worthless organ in the human body, and down in Indiana they won't have 'em at all if they can help it. Our correspondent of Lansing writes:

Please let the President know through your columns that in 1872 a boy fired a big agate marble through my liver from a toy carnon. I stuffed up the hole with su-old hat and after the third day I could attend to my business as well as ever. The injury rather blunted

The Benefit of Laughter. Dr. Green, in his "Problem of Health," says there is not the remotest corner or little inlet of the minute blood-vessels of the human body that does not feel some wavelet from the convulsion occasioned by good, hearty laughter. The life principals, or the central man, is shaken to its inmost depths, sending new tides of life and strength to the surface, thus materially tending to insure good health to the persons who indulge therein. The blood moves rapidly, and conveys a different impression to all the ofgans of the body, as it visits them on that particular mystic journey when the man is laughing, from what it does at other Fayetteville and thence times. For this reason every good hearty laugh in which a person indulges tends to lengthen his life, very much heated the water will conveying, as it does, new and be at once driven off and the fish distinct stimulus to the vital forces. Doubtless, the time will come when physicians, conceding more importance than they now do the influence of the mind upon the vital forces of the body, will make their prescriptions more with reference to the mind, and less to drugs for the body; and will, in so doing, find the best and most effective method of producing the required effect upon the patient.

Considerable quantities of the plant are to be found in the neighborhood of Wilmington, and many of the colored people make it a part of their business to gather it in bags and take it to persons who purchase it for the northern markets. The plant is said to be a very prolific one, the leaves which are broken off being soon replaced by fresh ones, and is valuable on secount of its medicinal and flavor. ing qualities. Salt for the Throat.

In these days, when diseases he throat are so universally prevalent, and in so many cases fatal, we feel it our duty to say a word in behalf of a most effectual, if not positive cure for sore throat.

For many years past, indeed we may say during the whole of a life of more than forty years, we have been subject to sore throat, and an instant afterward she was been subject to sore throat, and unburt. Such was the fearfulness particularly to a dry backing cough, which is not only distressing to ourselves, but to our friends that, despite her earnest ing to ourselves, but to our friends ing to ourselves, but to our friends and those with whom we are brought into business contact.

Last fall we were induced to try what virtue there was in common salt. We commenced by using it three times a day-morning, noon and night. We dissolved a large tablespoonful of pure table salt in about a half small tumbler full of water. With this we gargle the throat most thoroughly just before meal time. The result has been has entirely disappeared.

We attribute these satisfactory subject to diseases of the throat. Many persons who have never

On Wednesday last, at Asheville, Miss Bettie Hawkins, of Franklin, and Miss Sallie Carter, of Raleigh, were enjoying a pleasant horseback ride in the suburbs of that beautiful little city, when the former made a parrow escape, and but for her wonderful presence of mind and bravery under the most trying circumstances, the angel of death would have claimed her a victim While descending a steep hill they discovered a double team attached to a wagon coming in the resr at full speed. Failing in the attempt to escape on horseback Miss Bettie dismounted, but found it impossible to make safe her retreat. Hard pressed by the maddened steeds, death stared ber in the face, but with calm deliberation she threw herself upon the ground, when the horses passed over on either side protest, a physician was summoned, they believing that she could not have escaped without serious injury. The marvelous escape can only be attributed to the intrepidity of a brave woman and the kind providence of an all-wise God.
