EDITORIAL SERIES AND POINTS POLITICAL

THE TOBACCO TAX WILL GO!

JUDGE JOHN A. GILMER would not make a bad Governor.

"THERE should be an extradition treaty with Canada." What for, to have reciprocity in rascals?

"SENATOR BLACKBURN, of Kentucky, is confident a Tariff bill will pass." The people are certainly hopeful, that it will.

RUSKIN says: "Man should resemble a river." Some men do, in one respect at least. The biggest part of them is their mouth.

"THE decoration of the Legion of Honor was bought by a blacking manufacturer." It is well that the decoration fell into the hands of a gentleman of so much polish.

It is more than possible that JUDGE THOMAS SETTLE will be the Republican candidate for governor of this State. We see no reason why he should not be defeated as well as any other Rad.

THE Philadelphia Inquirer says: "WM. MAHONEY is not to return to the Senate." But the little renegade need not despair; the dime museums are constantly on the lookout for freaks.

SENATOR PALMER, of Michigan, thinks that the great mission of the Republican party now is to destroy the whiskey saloons. "It can certainly do a great deal in that direction by withdrawing its patronage."

"A New York doctor has discovered 500,000 living bacteria in a pint of melted ice." It is to be hoped that when the ice men learn of this they will not put up the price of their frozen goods to cover the value of the live stock.

"THE late city editor of the London Times left an estate worth $124,000, besides a collection of pictures valued at $20,000." American journalists will begin to look longingly at the English metropolis as a place where true genius is appreciated.

"THEY say"—always good authority, you know—that the BLAIR "educational" bill will meet with another ignominious death in the National House this anno domini. That that has been killed twice is a feat. LORD, bless us! it must be a cat! Has the New York Sun's feline strayed away?

The Chicago Herald is of the opinion that "if the Democratic party can manage to swain SAM RANDALL and his "Democratic" friends for the "free trade" Republicans of the West, it will be just as well for RANDALL and a heap better for the Democratic party."

The idea of allowing a Democrat—and a Southern Brigadier Democrat at that—to sit on the Bench of the United States Supreme Court sends nervous chills along the spine of little JOHN SHERMAN and his right bower, FORAKER, that little fool who happened to be elected Gov. of Ohio.

JUDGE CLARK, some of our contemporaries seem to think, has the inside track, at this writing, for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination; but LIEUT. GOV. STEADMAN is still on his legs and has a record for long distance running. If our own GILMER should enter the race some chain lightning would have to be used by the nag that beat him.

A MISSISSIPPI man walked into the Congressional House gallery last week. Nothing strange about that. But pretty soon he was both heard and seen to sniff the air, somewhat after the manner of that ancient war horse. He sniffed so loud and he sniffed so often that the people in his immediate vicinity became alarmed. The cause of his uneasiness was finally enquired into, whereupon he exclaimed: "I smell a nigger! I do smell a nigger down there!" But it was not even so. He had only got a north by north-west breeze of the aroma of BRES NICHOLS and BROWER! Fellow citizens, could they have been "hugging niggers?"

Charlotte Herald: News reached the city to day of the nearly fatal stabbing of Spencer B. Adams, Clerk of the Superior Court of Caswell county, on the 27th inst. Mr. Adams was in Yanceyville, when he was bodily knocked down by a negro and cut so badly as to make his recovery doubtful.

Charlotte Chronicle: An experienced architect who has examined the plans for the Richmond & Danville's new depot in Charlotte says that the building will cost every cent of $35,000. Thirty car loads of rock will be used in the foundation.

SHADOWED LIVES

BY MRS. CHAS. D. VERNON.

And yet many unnecessary trials are added to a self-maintaining woman's life; often there is great want of willingness on the part of those more fortunate ones, to aid them in their struggles; by efforts to promote the advancement and the progress of self-supporting women. Every word of encouragement gives new strength to many hearts that at times grow so weary, and is so eager for words of gentle kindness these words are sweetly welcomed as crystal drops into a dark gulf of troubled waters. It requires a great deal of patient heroism to live; to battle against the many stumbling blocks, to overcome the many obstacles present in the path of the self-supporting woman, to leap the almost insurmountable barriers, that rise up before one. In the self-supporting world, there are many who were born and reared with every promise of luxury; shielded against every rough wind where every bramble was eradicated. But time with its coming brought changes; all human illusions die. Another cloud that hovers around and hangs low over the self-supporting woman, is the isolated life she is almost necessarily compelled to lead. Few in the social world are brave enough to receive into their "set" a woman who by daily toil renders herself independent. A rigid observance of social restrictions engender so many restrictions that they hardly dare to overstep the dividing line of the two worlds—the social—the social. When into a woman's life comes reverses, and she is thrown on her own resources does it detract from her true womanhood to engage in honorable pursuit of employment? Does it lessen her innate refinement and modesty? The field is broad and almost unlimited, but not afraid you men that she will ever infringe on your rights; a true woman would never willingly go beyond her own sphere, she desires to retain her dignity and self-esteem under all circumstances, and she can not expect to do so or to inspire respect if she allows herself to deviate from the paths in life allotted her. We are told continually that life is a warfare, especially when we want firmness and bravery to meet the conflict; we are told that life has golden opportunities which if neglected may never occur again; consequently we want the habit of doing right constantly and on principle in order that we may be ready at any moment to seize those opportunities and turn them to best account. We are told we must expect disappointment and trouble to attend on every stage of our earthly career and that life is a warfare, especially when we want firmness and bravery to meet the conflict; we are told that life has golden opportunities which if neglected may never occur again; consequently we want the habit of doing right constantly and on principle in order that we may be ready at any moment to seize those opportunities and turn them to best account.
