OUR TRIBUTE.

THE CITY MOURNS THE LOSS OF A PATRIOTIC SON.

The U. S. Flag at Half-Mast—Federal Court Adjourns, and the Bar and Citizens Meet and Pay Tribute to His Memory.

At 10 o'clock last Wednesday when the Circuit Court of the United States met in Greensboro, North Carolina, Judge David Schenck arose with great solemnity and said:

"May it please your Honor. It is with unexpressed grief that I arise to announce the sudden and unexpected death, at 12 o'clock last night, in Raleigh, of our distinguished Governor, Daniel G. Fowle—a man whose purity of character and fidelity to every duty has endeared him to every North Carolinian. He may have had infirmities but he had no vices. He was subject, like all of us, to the frailties of human nature, but he was endowed with many worthy qualities. Warm hearted, even to affection, he drew his friends close to his heart and impressed every associate with the benignity of his character. He was all in all a good and noble man, a patriot simple, earnest and true and no man loved North Carolina more devotedly than Governor Fowle."

As a mark of respect to his memory, I move Your Honor that this court do now adjourn until tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. His Honor Judge Robert P. Dick, who had only heard the sad news a few moments before, was much agitated with emotion and replied from the bench that he would adjourn the court until tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. He then adjourned the court, thus briefly pronounced upon Governor Fowle: That he admired the great purity of his character, and that his virtues had elevated him to the highest executive office of a sovereign State, that it was due to him that every mark of respect should be shown to his memory, and that it gave him pleasure to grant the motion.

"Mr. Marshall," he said, "announce that this Court stands adjourned until tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock." Judge Schenck then announced, on behalf of the mayor of the city, that there would be a meeting of the bar and citizens at the court-house, at 12 o'clock, to express our sorrow for the Governor's death, and to express in fitting words our esteem for the character of the distinguished dead.

The Court then adjourned. The bells of the city are tolling and the government flag is at half mast.

MEETING AT THE COURTHOUSE.
Mayor Forbis issued a call for a meeting of the citizens at 12 m. in the court house.

At the hour appointed, the court room was filled with citizens, and Mayor Forbis called the houses to order and moved that Judge R. P. Dick be called to the chair.

On taking the chair, Judge Dick said he could not trust his emotions to give expression of his high regard for the late Governor Fowle, but hoped at an early day to do so.

Messrs. W. P. Hyman, J. J. and J. S. Michaels, were requested to act as secretaries.

On motion of Judge Schenck a committee was raised to prepare suitable resolutions, expressive of the sense of this meeting. The chair appointed Judge D. Schenck, L. M. Scott, Chas. Price, W. E. Murdoch and A. H. Joy.

SOUTHERN VETERANS. OUR TREATY WITH ITALY.

Homes Built and Pensions Paid the Noble Heroes by Southern States.

Georgia's confederate pension system, under which disabled veterans receive from $2 to $20 per month, according to the disability, is highly creditable to our State; but it should accept and maintain the home near this city, in order to complete the good work.

It will be of interest to view the situation in other southern States. Virginia led in the movement and established a confederate home at Richmond, for the support of which the State expends $100,000 a year. Pensions to the amount of $200,000 annually are also paid. Alabama has no home, but pays $125,000 a year in pensions. Arkansas has a home at Little Rock, built by private subscription, supported by state aid. Florida has no home, but pays $30,000 a year to disabled confederates who have resided in the State fifteen years.

Mississippi is without a home, but has made liberal provision for her indigent and disabled confederates. Mississippi pays no pensions, but a movement is on foot to raise $200,000 to endow a home without State aid. Maryland has a $400,000 home near Baltimore, aided by the State to the extent of $100,000 annually. Louisiana has a home near New Orleans, and the State grants it $100,000 a year. North Carolina not only pays pensions, but has appropriated $1,000,000 for a home.

South Carolina pays about $200,000 in pensions, but has no home. Texas has a home established by subscription. It costs $500,000 a year, and state aid is requested. Tennessee has established a home at the old home of Andrew Jackson, the Hermitage, the State donating 475 acres of land and giving $10,000 for improvements in 1889. The legislature will appropriate $25,000 for a building and $200,000 a year for its support, and in addition $60,000, or so much thereof as may be necessary for expenses incurred annually in pensions, which range from $2.50 to $25 per month.

It is thought that $25,000 per year will cover the pension list. Of all the southern States, Tennessee alone has made no provision for her ex-confederates. No veterans were ever considered of public aid from the money they wore the gray. Only 600,000 bays, they for four years defended the south against the well-equipped armies of the United States, impering 2,850,000 men, and yielding only to these overwhelming forces of nearly five to one.

The south cannot do too much for heroes who have made such a record. Fortunately, Georgia will not have to go to the expense of building a home. It is a ready built, and is tendered by private citizens as a gift to the State. It will not cost much to keep it up, and in a few years the State will greatly enhanced in value. It will more than repay what the State expends on it. Such a gift, under the circumstances, cannot be denied.—Atlanta Constitution.

MADE A TEN STRIKE.

Hill Can See Forward as Well as Backward.

Hon. David B. Hill made a ten strike in his letter declining to participate in the free-trade meeting held in Cooper Institute, New York, last Thursday evening. He is the only one who entertained the idea that the meeting was a trap for the South. He was calling, or contemplating calling, under free-trade colors, but he doubtless concluded he was not taken after reading this letter, which did not leave anything further to be said by him on the subject. It is not one of Governor Hill's weak-nesses to be caught napping, and he has the faculty of using his other tongue in such a way as to make himself thoroughly understood when he deems it advisable of necessity for him to speak. He seems to have thought it was both his duty and his honor to do so. He can see forward as well as backward, has a bird's-eye view of the present situation, and a fair appreciation of how the free-trade party has been played in past years, and don't propose, in the event the Presidential lightning should strike at any time in the near future, to have any free-trade rocks thrown at him.—Wilmington Star.

ARRESTING A SHERIFF.

A Deputy Marshal Creates a Sensation.

Blue Ridge, Ga., April 15.—Yesterday a United States deputy marshal attached the sheriff of Fannin county because he had taken an engine belonging to the Marietta and North Georgia Railroad Company for the county tax. It seems as if the sheriff had so been hauled around for simply charging his sworn duty. Sheriff Ross says he will have the tax or make a desperate effort in trying to get it. He has been trying to get some time, but as yet they have refused to pay the tax.

Nevada at the Fair.

Nevada will send the world's fair a bar of solid gold weighing 1,000 pounds. It is supposed that its weight will be a sufficient safeguard even if the policeman should happen to take his eye off for a minute or two.

The Market was Manipulated.

Visitor—"Your little boy doesn't seem to be very cheerful. Isn't he well?"

"Yes, he's well enough; but he's feeling pretty blue just now. You see there was a great drop in leather this morning."

"Bliss me! You don't mean to tell me that child knows anything about the market?"

"Well, perhaps not generally speaking, but you see the particular leather that dropped this morning was his mother's slipper."

Money or Blood.

Nashville, Tenn., April 9.—Yesterday afternoon, sixteen miles southwest of Huntsville, Ala., Taylor Hanley cut the Townsend in the throat, killing him instantly. They quarreled over a debt of 25 cents that Townsend owed Hanley.
