

THE GREENSBORO PATRIOT.

GREENSBORO, N. C., WEDNESDAY MAY 3, 1893.

[By the Patriot Publishing Company, in Advance Terms $1.00 Per Year]

DOUGLAS, SCALES & SCALES,
ATTORNEYS AT LAW.
GREENSBORO, N. C.
Will practice in the State and Federal Courts in and out of Savings Bank.

JOHN T. BRITTAIN,
ATTORNEY AT LAW.
Will be present at every term of Court and offers his professional services to the people of Guilford county.

Dr. W. H. Wakefield
Will be in Greensboro at McAdoo on Wednesday, May 20th, the 4th Wednesday.

Dr. Arthur E. Ledbetter,
OFFICE HOURS:
10:00 a. m. to 12:00 m.
2:00 p. m. to 5:00 p. m.

Dr. W. J. Richardson,
OFFICE HOURS:
10:00 a. m. to 12:00 m.
2:00 p. m. to 5:00 p. m.

Bike Book Company,
GREENSBORO, N. C.
Dealers in Bicycles, School Books, Patent Maps, Foreign Goods, etc.

J. H. NEESE,
DEALER IN
American and Italian Marble.

The EYE A SPECIALTY.
Do not complain about your eyes. They will give you relief if it is possible. They are well treated with the latest and most improved Ophthalmic Instruments.

W. B. Farrar & Sons,
JEWELERS.
102 South Elm Street, Greensboro, N. C.

HOW IS THIS?
A complete WATCH for $1.25.
Silver, Gold, and Steel.

Our Price 25 cts.
your name handily engraved with-out extra charge.

ROCK BOTTOM PRICES.
We have the largest stock in the city. Fine Menswear work and artistic engraving.

WE WILL NOT BE UNDERSOLD.
Our prices on work are as low as first class work can be done.

ADMINISTRATORS NOTICE.
Having qualified as administrators of the estate of Polly Steele, deceased, late of the county of Guilford, I hereby notify all persons having claims against the said estate to present them to me for payment on or before March 21st, 1893, at this office, which will be held in the office of the undersigned.

MALVINA'S GARDEN.

It was one of the queerest looking places to live in—a dingy old place in Southwestern Kansas. Malvina, a well-worn gown clinging to her, sat on the few steps at the entrance to the cave like dwelling, busy at her work. Her face bore the impress of having seen a rough, hard life, and the whole place bore the unmistakable stamp of poverty. In fact, it was a miserable place, one of the early taken by poverty-stricken souls in that country, who think if they only have land to till their own, all else will be but secondary thought. And so, after they had built their little huts, a place to shelter them, and that soil, the fruits had four children, Malvina, the eldest, was ten years old; then came Robbie and Dottie, and baby Joe, now two years old. The children had a will, few sort of life, out of doors, and they called her "Viney," as they called her, but the others, as all sorts of tramps, carrying the baby, or leading him on a hand sled, and Malvina had consoled themselves.

They had rambled far and wide over the prairie, searching for wild flowers, and along the bank of the creek that flowed through her father's land they had picked up many queer things. These were always stored in a wooden box, and Malvina, a young girl, who had helped her mother out and over. Malvina's children are seldom found than the Trent children. And if the table was set, they would be there to play the evening, and forget all about it. Viney, as her mother said, "always had a hankering after flowers."

There was a small bed near the play-house into which the young girl had transplanted many of the wild flowers that she had seen. She had dug up a variety of seeds, and as they grew up, she had sown them in a bed of flowers, as she called them, "such as we have, mamma, look in Illinois—such sweet flowers." Malvina, and one grown up, a few feet one.

Her mother tried to comfort her for giving up so easily. "But, the best of a flowered garden is not in the soil, but in the head, and when a catalogue of bright flowers comes to come to the office for them, her delight knew no bounds. "Surely, mamma, sometime I may have some like these; they do not cost so much."

The catalogue was worn threadbare with studying it. The children caught the flower fever, and they dug and transplanted more each than ever. This fourth year was a much better one than the last, since taking the catalogue. The crops had fair to excellent. The wheat was cut and stacked, and for the first time since coming to Kansas, Jared Trent felt sure of having enough bread for his family. His wife for the first time raised a garden, and they enjoyed fresh vegetables. The rains had descended in just the right time, and the prospect looked reasonably bright.

One summer afternoon a traveller on horseback drew up to the rude habitation, and he asked the privilege of a night's shelter. "My horse and myself," said he, "are very tired, and I should be very glad to stay. I am looking at land in this vicinity, and am on my way to the country seat."

Malvina's eyes danced, and visions of the most glorious flower bed ever seen flitted through her head. "Oh, sir, we can find hundreds of them, and I would be so glad to sell some of them." And she hastened indoors to tell her mother the good news. Mr. Trent, for that was the stranger's name, remained for the night, and told Mrs. Trent of his talk with the children about collecting the seeds; he then said he would write his friend, and he would probably make arrangements with them. He departed in the morning, after paying and thanking them for their kindness. He wrote to his friend, and in due time a letter came for Malvina. "Trent, care of Jared Trent," and ordered a sample of each variety of each. Money to pay for the same was enclosed; and the letter stated, "if the samples prove to be what they should be, she would receive orders for them." Then the writer told her how to pack them for mailing, and the box of seeds was sent with many hopes and fears. In a reasonable time a reply came, with a word of praise for the plants, and an increase in packing, and an order for two hundred more. This order was repeated several times, and Malvina and the little ones found themselves busy filling boxes. Large boxes were sent by express. Malvina helped with all, and the way work of packing them, with the thought of the nice little sum of money she would bring in, drove away much of the care and discomfort that had settled down over poor Mrs. Trent. They raised the prairie far and near, and some fine ladies with each. The boxes came in good pay, and baby Joe was obliged to amuse himself at home.

PARLOR AND TABLE MANNERS

(Called at Random.)
Don't, as an invited guest, belate to dinner. This is wrong to your host, to other guests, and to the dinner.
Don't seat yourself until the ladies are seated, or at a dinner party, until your host or hostess gives the signal.
Don't tuck your napkin under your chin, nor spread it upon your breast. Bib and tuckers are for the nursery. Do not spread your napkin over your lap; let it fall over your knee.
Don't eat with your knife. Never put your knife into your mouth. Do not load up the fork with food, and then eat it, as it were, to your mouth. Take on your fork what you can easily carry, and no more.
Don't fill your mouth with too much food, and do not masticate audibly. Eat gently, quietly and easily.

Don't put your knife into the butter, nor into the saltcellar, nor into any dish.
Don't reject bits of bones, or other substances, by spitting them back into the plate. Quietly eject them upon your fork, holding it to your lips, and then place them on your plate. Fruit stones should be removed by passing them unobtrusively from the lips to the spoon.
Don't finger articles, do not play with your napkin, nor your goblet, nor your fork, nor with anything else.
Don't drop your knife nor your fork; but if you do, do not be disturbed. Quietly ask the servant for another, and do not give the incident any further heed. All hopes of fruit crop in this vicinity are now given up, those best informed alleging that no apples, peaches or pears can be expected. Early vegetables are also killed.

Don't press food upon a guest. To worry a guest with careless importunities is considered in the worst possible taste.
Don't, in declining at dinner to be helped to any particular dish, give a reason that you are "afraid of it," or that "it will disagree with you." It is sufficient simply to refuse, and then no one has a right to ask why.
Don't make a pronounced attempt at correctness of manner. It is better to make mistakes than to be obviously struggling not to make them.
Don't think host nor hostess for your dinner. Express pleasure in the entertainment when you depart—that is all.
Don't forget that the lady at your side has first claim upon attention. A lady at your side should not be neglected, whether you have been introduced or not.
Don't leave your knife and fork on the table cloth when through eating. Put them on your plate, handles to the right, so you will not come in contact with them as you rise to leave the table.
Don't leave your chair when you rise from the table until you have placed it in the proper place at the table.
Don't introduce guests after seating them, but before, and do not sit down until the host or hostess signifies for you to do so.
Don't attempt to shake hands with everybody present. If host or hostess offers a hand, take it; a bow is sufficient for the rest.
Don't in any case offer to shake hands with a lady. The initiative must come from her. By the same principle do not offer your hand to a person older than yourself.
Don't be in too much hurry to get into a chair.
Don't fail to rise, if you are seated, whenever a lady enters the room.
Don't sit cross-legged; this will be a little nervous to some at first.
Don't introduce present ladies to gentlemen; gentlemen should be presented to ladies. Young men should be presented to elderly men; young women to elderly women.
Don't wait to be asked a second time to play, if you intend to play.
Don't ask anyone more than once after a first refusal to play or sing.
Don't touch people when you have occasion to address them.
Don't whisper in company.
Don't talk about your ailments, or about any afflictions.
Don't be witty at another's expense; do not ridicule any one.
Don't, when conducting a lady to dinner, offer the left arm; the lady should be placed at the right hand; in ascending and descending stairways, the lady should be next to the wall.
Don't stay too long after dinner. Remember that all householders have their affairs to look after. Two or three hours is not too long.
Don't be a wall picture and force, apparently, your host or hostess to give you too large a share of their attention. Strive to make yourself pleasant and agreeable.
Don't neglect any one when you accept invitations. For the time, at least, it is your duty, and should be your desire to render pleasure. This is due your host and hostess, and any other conduct would be disrespectful to them and to all present, and would justly entitle you to be left out of all future entertainments.
A female cooking club in Washington got along very well until they got to inviting gentlemen friends to the dinners they gave and cooked themselves. That settled it; the men married the fair cooks and broke the club up.

FEARFUL WEATHER IN THE WEST.

ICE CAUSES A BIG LOSS TO FRUITS.
KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 21.—The northerly gales which have been sweeping this portion of the country since Wednesday continue today with unabated fury. The thermometer reached freezing point in Eastern and Central Kansas last night. Ice is reported over half an inch thick, and all varieties of fruit have been killed. It is not believed the wheat crop has been materially damaged. In Southern Kansas the frost was very light and no damage.

DEATH BY CYCLONE IN THE OZARKS.
OZARK, Ark., April 21.—A destructive cyclone passed over Frank- lin county about 20 miles north of Ozark Wednesday. Three dwellings and one schoolhouse were destroyed. The 12-year-old daughter of Jerry James was killed, and the entire family was injured, Mrs. James having her skull fractured and may die. The path of the storm was not more than two hundred yards wide.

SEVEREST IN YEARS.
DIXON, Ill., April 21.—One of the severest storms in years was experienced in Dixon last night and today. It snowed all night and this morning and then turned to rain.

KANSAS FRUIT KILLED.
EMPIRE, Kans., April 21.—A very heavy frost occurred here last night, ice forming in many places over half an inch thick. All hopes of fruit crop in this vicinity are now given up, those best informed alleging that no apples, peaches or pears can be expected. Early vegetables are also killed.

IN THE MAY STATE.
KANTUCKET, Mass., April 21.—The heaviest easterly storm for years prevailed last night, the velocity of the wind reaching 60 miles an hour, and some buildings were blown down or damaged, but no disasters to shipping have been reported.

WEST FOR YEARS IN CANADA.
TORONTO, Ontario, April 21.—One of the worst windstorms known for years swept over Western Ontario yesterday. Telegraph lines are down in all directions and details are unobtainable.

FEARS OF HIGH WATERS AT BURLINGTON.
BURLINGTON, Io., April 21.—The river is still rising and there are fears of another season of high water. The Illinois lowlands are flooded. It is raining to-night.

Grandmother's Granddaughter.

Marjorie went to the masquerade, dressed in her grandmother's old brocade. She was gaily powdered, and patched and laced. With a very long skirt, and a very short waist.
To the strains of the music we danced away.
The old gown rustled, and seemed to say:
"Young man, I am older by far than you.
Pray listen to me, and I'll tell you true
"How Marjorie's grandmamma, years ago,
Served many a wigged and powdered beau.
She would sit on the stairs, and cut quadrilles
she had promised to gallants all satin and frills.
"She would flirt with a Judge, or a Captain or Tory,
And each would tell her the old, old story:
As with maidenly art, she sat below
The snow-white berries of mistletoe.
"So beware of the granddaughter,
young and fair,
What grandmother did, she'll also dare.
Don't let her wilds ensnare you, too,
For women are women, the ages through.
Majorie wore my roses fair
In her quaint corsage and golden hair;
But she answered "No" to my love that night,
And I ruefully pondered, "Old gown, you're right."
—McGregor Jenkins in Vogue.

Political Proverbs.
[From the Charlotte Observer.]
Not every one that saith "Grover" and kneecith the stuffing out of the Gideonites in his name shall receive an office.
He goeth out in the morning and treateth Sambo to bug juice, but the afternoon of that same day the Ethiopian voteth for the Philistines.
And I say unto you, many shall scan the Blue Book, but few will be profited thereby, for the applicants are many and appointments are few.
The Democrat, in his might, sayeth: "Now have I destroyed Marion Butler," but straightway doth Butler buy new type and start another paper.
The legislator would fain compel the cur to pay tribute unto Caesar, but his eyes are filled with wrath of the man who hath one gallus and six dogs and he voteth to prolong the days of the dog.

FRUIT CROPS PROBABLY RUINED.
MOAWQUA, Ill., April 21.—Ice frozen hard last night. The entire fruit crop of this section of the State is greatly damaged, if not entirely ruined.

FRUIT GROWERS HAVE THE BLUES.
ILLINOIS, Ill., April 21.—The worst snowstorm ever known here at this time of year raged all day, and fruit growers feel despondent.

BOOK PROSPECTS FOR FRUIT.
MOOREHEAD, April 21.—Ice to-day appeared on all fruit trees and the prospects for even an average crop are slim.

Some Strange Misnomers.
Much of the Russia leather comes from Connecticut, Bordeaux wine from California, Italian marble from Kentucky, French lace from New York, and Spanish mackerel from the New Jersey coast. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery comes from Buffalo, N. Y., but there is nothing in its name to criticize for it is truly golden in value, as thousands gladly testify. Consumption is averted by its use, and it has wrought many positive cures. It cures colds, liver and kidney, purifies the blood, banishes dyspepsia and scrofula, renews the lease of life, and tones up the system as nothing else will do. What is more, it is guaranteed to do all this, or the price is refunded.

A Book Agent's Wit.
Ready wit and imperturbable good humor are essential portions of the successful book agent's stock in trade. This was strictly illustrated the other day, when one of these much abused, but industrious and enterprising individuals contrived to gain access to an irascible and profane, but by no means bad-hearted, bank president, who possessed the somewhat rare virtue of being able to appreciate a joke at his own expense. "Get out of here quick, and go to hell!" he exclaimed to the book agent, before the latter had time to state his business. "Thank you," replied the itinerant vendor of literature, bowing and backing toward the door. "Then I shall have the pleasure of seeing you again."

PARLOR AND TABLE MANNERS

(Called at Random.)
Don't, as an invited guest, belate to dinner. This is wrong to your host, to other guests, and to the dinner.
Don't seat yourself until the ladies are seated, or at a dinner party, until your host or hostess gives the signal.
Don't tuck your napkin under your chin, nor spread it upon your breast. Bib and tuckers are for the nursery. Do not spread your napkin over your lap; let it fall over your knee.
Don't eat with your knife. Never put your knife into your mouth. Do not load up the fork with food, and then eat it, as it were, to your mouth. Take on your fork what you can easily carry, and no more.
Don't fill your mouth with too much food, and do not masticate audibly. Eat gently, quietly and easily.

Don't put your knife into the butter, nor into the saltcellar, nor into any dish.
Don't reject bits of bones, or other substances, by spitting them back into the plate. Quietly eject them upon your fork, holding it to your lips, and then place them on your plate. Fruit stones should be removed by passing them unobtrusively from the lips to the spoon.
Don't finger articles, do not play with your napkin, nor your goblet, nor your fork, nor with anything else.
Don't drop your knife nor your fork; but if you do, do not be disturbed. Quietly ask the servant for another, and do not give the incident any further heed. All hopes of fruit crop in this vicinity are now given up, those best informed alleging that no apples, peaches or pears can be expected. Early vegetables are also killed.

IN THE MAY STATE.
KANTUCKET, Mass., April 21.—The heaviest easterly storm for years prevailed last night, the velocity of the wind reaching 60 miles an hour, and some buildings were blown down or damaged, but no disasters to shipping have been reported.

WEST FOR YEARS IN CANADA.
TORONTO, Ontario, April 21.—One of the worst windstorms known for years swept over Western Ontario yesterday. Telegraph lines are down in all directions and details are unobtainable.

FEARS OF HIGH WATERS AT BURLINGTON.
BURLINGTON, Io., April 21.—The river is still rising and there are fears of another season of high water. The Illinois lowlands are flooded. It is raining to-night.

Some Strange Misnomers.
Much of the Russia leather comes from Connecticut, Bordeaux wine from California, Italian marble from Kentucky, French lace from New York, and Spanish mackerel from the New Jersey coast. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery comes from Buffalo, N. Y., but there is nothing in its name to criticize for it is truly golden in value, as thousands gladly testify. Consumption is averted by its use, and it has wrought many positive cures. It cures colds, liver and kidney, purifies the blood, banishes dyspepsia and scrofula, renews the lease of life, and tones up the system as nothing else will do. What is more, it is guaranteed to do all this, or the price is refunded.

A Book Agent's Wit.
Ready wit and imperturbable good humor are essential portions of the successful book agent's stock in trade. This was strictly illustrated the other day, when one of these much abused, but industrious and enterprising individuals contrived to gain access to an irascible and profane, but by no means bad-hearted, bank president, who possessed the somewhat rare virtue of being able to appreciate a joke at his own expense. "Get out of here quick, and go to hell!" he exclaimed to the book agent, before the latter had time to state his business. "Thank you," replied the itinerant vendor of literature, bowing and backing toward the door. "Then I shall have the pleasure of seeing you again."

PARLOR AND TABLE MANNERS

(Called at Random.)
Don't, as an invited guest, belate to dinner. This is wrong to your host, to other guests, and to the dinner.
Don't seat yourself until the ladies are seated, or at a dinner party, until your host or hostess gives the signal.
Don't tuck your napkin under your chin, nor spread it upon your breast. Bib and tuckers are for the nursery. Do not spread your napkin over your lap; let it fall over your knee.
Don't eat with your knife. Never put your knife into your mouth. Do not load up the fork with food, and then eat it, as it were, to your mouth. Take on your fork what you can easily carry, and no more.
Don't fill your mouth with too much food, and do not masticate audibly. Eat gently, quietly and easily.

Don't put your knife into the butter, nor into the saltcellar, nor into any dish.
Don't reject bits of bones, or other substances, by spitting them back into the plate. Quietly eject them upon your fork, holding it to your lips, and then place them on your plate. Fruit stones should be removed by passing them unobtrusively from the lips to the spoon.
Don't finger articles, do not play with your napkin, nor your goblet, nor your fork, nor with anything else.
Don't drop your knife nor your fork; but if you do, do not be disturbed. Quietly ask the servant for another, and do not give the incident any further heed. All hopes of fruit crop in this vicinity are now given up, those best informed alleging that no apples, peaches or pears can be expected. Early vegetables are also killed.

IN THE MAY STATE.
KANTUCKET, Mass., April 21.—The heaviest easterly storm for years prevailed last night, the velocity of the wind reaching 60 miles an hour, and some buildings were blown down or damaged, but no disasters to shipping have been reported.

WEST FOR YEARS IN CANADA.
TORONTO, Ontario, April 21.—One of the worst windstorms known for years swept over Western Ontario yesterday. Telegraph lines are down in all directions and details are unobtainable.

FEARS OF HIGH WATERS AT BURLINGTON.
BURLINGTON, Io., April 21.—The river is still rising and there are fears of another season of high water. The Illinois lowlands are flooded. It is raining to-night.

Some Strange Misnomers.
Much of the Russia leather comes from Connecticut, Bordeaux wine from California, Italian marble from Kentucky, French lace from New York, and Spanish mackerel from the New Jersey coast. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery comes from Buffalo, N. Y., but there is nothing in its name to criticize for it is truly golden in value, as thousands gladly testify. Consumption is averted by its use, and it has wrought many positive cures. It cures colds, liver and kidney, purifies the blood, banishes dyspepsia and scrofula, renews the lease of life, and tones up the system as nothing else will do. What is more, it is guaranteed to do all this, or the price is refunded.

A Book Agent's Wit.
Ready wit and imperturbable good humor are essential portions of the successful book agent's stock in trade. This was strictly illustrated the other day, when one of these much abused, but industrious and enterprising individuals contrived to gain access to an irascible and profane, but by no means bad-hearted, bank president, who possessed the somewhat rare virtue of being able to appreciate a joke at his own expense. "Get out of here quick, and go to hell!" he exclaimed to the book agent, before the latter had time to state his business. "Thank you," replied the itinerant vendor of literature, bowing and backing toward the door. "Then I shall have the pleasure of seeing you again."

PARLOR AND TABLE MANNERS

(Called at Random.)
Don't, as an invited guest, belate to dinner. This is wrong to your host, to other guests, and to the dinner.
Don't seat yourself until the ladies are seated, or at a dinner party, until your host or hostess gives the signal.
Don't tuck your napkin under your chin, nor spread it upon your breast. Bib and tuckers are for the nursery. Do not spread your napkin over your lap; let it fall over your knee.
Don't eat with your knife. Never put your knife into your mouth. Do not load up the fork with food, and then eat it, as it were, to your mouth. Take on your fork what you can easily carry, and no more.
Don't fill your mouth with too much food, and do not masticate audibly. Eat gently, quietly and easily.

Don't put your knife into the butter, nor into the saltcellar, nor into any dish.
Don't reject bits of bones, or other substances, by spitting them back into the plate. Quietly eject them upon your fork, holding it to your lips, and then place them on your plate. Fruit stones should be removed by passing them unobtrusively from the lips to the spoon.
Don't finger articles, do not play with your napkin, nor your goblet, nor your fork, nor with anything else.
Don't drop your knife nor your fork; but if you do, do not be disturbed. Quietly ask the servant for another, and do not give the incident any further heed. All hopes of fruit crop in this vicinity are now given up, those best informed alleging that no apples, peaches or pears can be expected. Early vegetables are also killed.

IN THE MAY STATE.
KANTUCKET, Mass., April 21.—The heaviest easterly storm for years prevailed last night, the velocity of the wind reaching 60 miles an hour, and some buildings were blown down or damaged, but no disasters to shipping have been reported.

WEST FOR YEARS IN CANADA.
TORONTO, Ontario, April 21.—One of the worst windstorms known for years swept over Western Ontario yesterday. Telegraph lines are down in all directions and details are unobtainable.

FEARS OF HIGH WATERS AT BURLINGTON.
BURLINGTON, Io., April 21.—The river is still rising and there are fears of another season of high water. The Illinois lowlands are flooded. It is raining to-night.

Some Strange Misnomers.
Much of the Russia leather comes from Connecticut, Bordeaux wine from California, Italian marble from Kentucky, French lace from New York, and Spanish mackerel from the New Jersey coast. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery comes from Buffalo, N. Y., but there is nothing in its name to criticize for it is truly golden in value, as thousands gladly testify. Consumption is averted by its use, and it has wrought many positive cures. It cures colds, liver and kidney, purifies the blood, banishes dyspepsia and scrofula, renews the lease of life, and tones up the system as nothing else will do. What is more, it is guaranteed to do all this, or the price is refunded.

A Book Agent's Wit.
Ready wit and imperturbable good humor are essential portions of the successful book agent's stock in trade. This was strictly illustrated the other day, when one of these much abused, but industrious and enterprising individuals contrived to gain access to an irascible and profane, but by no means bad-hearted, bank president, who possessed the somewhat rare virtue of being able to appreciate a joke at his own expense. "Get out of here quick, and go to hell!" he exclaimed to the book agent, before the latter had time to state his business. "Thank you," replied the itinerant vendor of literature, bowing and backing toward the door. "Then I shall have the pleasure of seeing you again."

JUST IN!
New Style HATS!
New Style Neckties!
New Style Clothing!
MANHATTAN SHIRTS
Fancy Collared, Plain Pink, Plain Blues and all the new shades, with washable Ties to match—just in this week.
If you want the Best Goods and the Latest Styles cheap just look through our stock and learn our prices before you buy.
Our house is full of New Goods—up stairs and down—and we have some BIG BARGAINS to offer. A lot of New Goods bought at about half price. Come and see us.
C. M. VANSTORY & CO.,
The Clothiers, Hatters and Gents' Furnishers of Greensboro.

FURNITURE
Wholesale and Retail Dealer in
Carpets, China Matting and Baby Carriages of Every Kind and Style.
We also carry a full line of PICTURE MOLDINGS and FRAMES.
COME AND SEE US.
E. B. KIRKPATRICK, Manager.
SALERIES:—Mallock, and Ottobrunn.

DO YOU NEED
Sash, Doors, Blinds, Moulding, Brackets, Mantels
SIDING OR FLOORING, FRAMING, SHINGLES AND LATHES.
GUILFORD LUMBER MANUFACTURING CO.
GREENSBORO, N. C.
Can supply you with anything in this line on short notice and on the most reasonable terms. See our EMBOSSED WOOD, something new, being highly ornamental and costs very little more than ordinary lumber. It is used for decorative work. Agents for HILL'S INSIDE SLIDING VENTILATING BLIND, best ever made, and costs very little more than the old style.
Any Size Glass Kept in Stock.

Time is Still Going On,
So is the HUDSON STORE CO., with a complete line of FAMILY GROCERIES not necessary to enumerate, but we ask you to come and see and supply your wants.
Being well situated to handle all COUNTRY PRODUCE we can always supply you with the best the market affords. We also keep in an adjoining room a large stock of DRY GOODS, SHOES, BOOTS, HATS and NOTIONS—in fact a complete store all under one roof. We invite your custom.
Hudson Store Company,
416-518 South Elm Street, TOM SHERWOOD, Manager.
SALESMEN:—Wm. A. Brown, W. C. Denny, M. S. Jeffrey, J. B. Brown and Henry Fields.

DO YOU DRESS WELL?
Raleigh, N. C., April 21st.
"The Nile," says a scientist, "has a fall of but six inches to the 1,000 miles. The overflow commences in June every year and continues until August, attaining an elevation of from twenty-four to twenty-six feet above low-water mark, and flowing through the Valley of Egypt in a turbulent body twelve miles wide. During the last 1,000 years there has been but one sudden rise of the Nile, that of 1829, when 30,000 people were drowned."
Why his Wife is "Fidgety."
I have the best cook in the town. Whose bread is delicious and white; Her coffee is fragrant and brown; Her pastry a perfect delight. But she daily complains of the worry they bring.
She's my own darling wife, but a fidgety thing!
Your wife is worn out, and needs Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, the only medicine guaranteed to cure debilitated women. How many overworked American ladies we see with lack luster eyes and haggard faces, growing old before their time, from those exhausting ailments that men know nothing of. They can be permanently cured by this remedy, as numberless grateful women will attest. Price refunded, if it fails to give satisfaction in every case. See guarantee printed on bottle-wrapper.
Subscribe for your home paper first then take the large papers.

H. H. CARTLAND,
Has Received a Large Supply of Elegant Cloths
of all kind for FALL and WINTER SUITS.
Perfect FITS Guaranteed.
H. H. Cartland,
106 South Elm Street, Greensboro, N. C.
"WALL PAPER" AT A GREAT DISCOUNT.
IF YOU WANT "WALL PAPER" CHEAP, MY PRICES ARE VERY LOW.
CHARLES M. HACKETT,
311 South Elm Street, McAdoo House Block.