HOW LONG.

How long, O Lord, how long,
Shail aching eyes from day to day,
Still meet again in type's display
The canting, snivelling essay,
By hayseed parson in dismay,
Or raw-boned prude in chaste array,
Or crank with wit in dire decay,
Or frantic ass who can but bray
And kick, 'tis writ, that threadbare lay,
About the dress decollete—
How long, O Lord, how long?
