DOG BATTER THAN BULLETS.

Prisoners in a Texas Jail Guarded by Half a Hundred Fierce Brutes.

Convicts in the state prison at Huntsville, Tex., are guarded while on the roads by huge dogs. There is a regular breeding establishment in the prison for raising dogs, and the kennels contain 40 or 50 of them.

These dogs, which are the same as those of which Prince Bismarck is so fond, are known in this country as Great Danes. In Germany, whence the breed had its origin, they are called the Ulmer dog. Those used at Huntsville are crossed with the mastiff, and the resultant breed is a fierce, courageous and very powerful animal.

While at work the convicts are guarded both by the warders and the dogs. The armed warders are stationed about 50 feet apart, and between each are a couple of the dogs, who lie peacefully enough while all is quiet, but at the first unusual sound are instantly on the alert. Should a convict make a desperate break for he would be pulled down and torn piecemeal before he had gone 100 feet.

Unlike bloodhounds, who will not attack their game when overtaken, but only give tongue, these dogs cannot be called off, and an escaping convict is certain to be killed. Needless to say, attempts at escape are not frequent. A negro who made a bold dash for liberty was caught by two of the hounds and torn to pieces before he had gone 50 yards. These accidents figure in the reports as "shot while trying to escape." It is rare, however, that a shot is fired by the guards.

There is reason to believe that they prefer to see a man run down to sending a bullet through him. The life of a convict guard is a very monotonous one. His duties consist mainly in marching up and down, rifle on shoulder, by the side of a gang of convicts. Such a break in the monotony as a man hunt is too tempting to let slip, and compassion for a "greaser" is altogether unknown.

These drastic measures for guarding the gangs are to a certain extent necessary, owing to the desperate character of the majority of the prisoners. They consist mainly of that mixture of Negro, Indian and Mexican blood from which comes the "greaser," as he is contemptuously termed.—Cor. New York World.

Talk Too Much Politics.

Mr. B. F. White has just returned from Newark, N. J., and other cities North, and says that our brethren up there say we have the finest country in the world, but we do not appreciate it. The Democrat asked Mr. White what the people there say about the financial question—gold and silver, 16 to 1, and so on. He said they say nothing about it. They have no time for airing their political opinions generally, and told him the people in the beautiful, well blessed sunny South waste too much time and breath on such things. That is why we are so far behind, they say. To all of which the Democrat nods assent.—Scotland Neck Democrat.

This is the gospel truth. While we would not have our people neglect to carry out their political principles, there would be more happiness and more prosperity if more thought were given to making and spinning more cotton and less to "talking politics." A few days ago in Sampson county there was a serious encounter between a Democrat and a Populist who were "talking politics." It takes too much of our time, engenders too much ill feeling, prevents a study of other important and more practical questions, and incites to a spirit of too much dependence for prosperity upon government and too little upon our own exertions and ingenuity. We ought to think enough of politics to elect good men to office and secure good government, but North Carolina would be a better and happier if three-fourths of the time spent in "talking" politics was employed in more useful ways.—News and Observer.

More Deadly Than Dynamite.

A recent dispatch from Oakland, California, says: Charles F. McDermott is perfecting a submarine torpedo boat, the invention of Dr. Cross, of Chicago, which, he says, will ultimately put an end to marine warfare. With his torpedo, he says, a few men could keep off the combined navies of the world. The torpedo will be completed within a week. It will be taken to Goat Island, where a secret experiment will be made.

THE POPS AT CONCORD.

Not as Big a Crowd as Expected—Tillman and Butler Speak.

The much advertised meeting at Concord yesterday failed to draw the 15,000 people promised. The attendance was not over one-fifth of that number, and the speeches failed to arouse the enthusiasm expected. Tillman and Butler each spoke about two hours. The speech of Butler was in the usual vein, and cursed out the Democrats and the national banks. Tillman was disappointing. He said he was a Democrat, but denounced the party leaders. The Populists were declared to be full of crazy, silly notions, and advised to come back and rejoin their old friends. He was for white unity, and the negro could not be crammed down his throat. No converts were made for the theories advocated. The Concord Standard does not think Tillman an orator, and says that "if he had to lead by legitimate arguments in speech, he would be at the head of a forlorn hope."—Sallybury Herald of 14th.

THE RIOTERS IN JAIL.

Fifty Negroes Under Arrest for Sunday Night's Trouble.

WINSTON, N. C., Aug. 15.—A negro created great excitement in West Winston last night by attempting to break in the residence of Dr. R. H. Jones. A crowd of fifty negroes were seen congregated in the woods at midnight, but before officers arrived they had skipped. A suspicious negro who was armed was arrested and jailed. The Gatling gun is still here. It is not definitely known when it will be returned home.

Fifty negroes who participated in Sunday night's riot are in jail. The grand jury has returned over 100 true bills against parties connected with the trouble. It is estimated that more than two hundred negroes have left Winston since the riot.

Arthur Tuttle, the negro who shot and killed Policeman Vickers here last May, gets 25 years in the penitentiary. Sentence was passed this afternoon. Counsel for defense made no motion for new trial. On his return to jail the prisoner said he was displeased with the verdict of the jury; that counsel for the State did not put the offense upon him struck the evening he shot Officer Vickers on the witness stand. Tuttle referred to Policeman Hastings who was acquitted at the last term of court for killing his (Tuttle's) brother. His statement was convincing that the negro wanted to kill Mr. Hastings when he shot Vickers.

Southern Development.

The New Orleans Piousyne concludes an interesting and encouraging article on Southern development as follows: "When the South shall, as it eventually will, develop a demand for manufacturing a large portion of its own products, instead of depending on the mills and factories of distant States and countries, large cities will grow up on the Southern sea coast and great rivers, and such centres of population will become centres of big industries. There is room on the Gulf coast for cities like Boston, New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore, the distance from the Gulf to the last-named being only one-fourth of that from the Southern cape of Florida to the mouth of the Rio Grande. When the South shall be fully developed, there will be business for great seaports at a dozen places around the Gulf coast, and for cities like St. Louis as many places on the Mississippi, Arkansas and Red rivers. The grand future of the United States in the next half-dozen decades is in the Southern half of the Union. All the gravitation of capital and development is in this direction, provided the Southern people do not balk their prospects by declaring for depreciated money. That is all that can mar them."

A Galaxy of Beauties.

An interesting attraction of the Woman's Building, at the Cotton States and International Exposition at Atlanta will be a calendar of Southern beauties. It is a beautiful calendar, exquisitely printed in which each month is represented by a typical belle of one of the Southern States. The leading face is that of Miss Davis, who represents Mississippi. The other twelve are like Miss Davis, in being beautiful, cultured and highly bred. They consist of Annie R. Sterling, of Westminster, Md.; Janie Sutherland Smith, of Danville, Va.; Frances Wheat Shober, of Salisbury, N. C.; Virginia Leigh Fraser, of Charleston, S. C.; Marian H. Dunbar, of Augusta, Ga.; Mattie Houston, of Tallahassee, Fla.; Annie H. Reese, of Birmingham, Ala.; Ella Mehle, of New Orleans, La.; Emma Belknap, of San Antonio, Texas; Queenie Woods, of Nashville, Tenn.; and Elsie Castleman, of Louisville, Ky. The original pictures are large water colors, painted by the well-known artist, Mrs. Caroline C. Lovell, and give an admirable idea of the superb beauty of the daughters of Dixie. They will be hung in the Art Gallery of the Woman's Building, and the calendars sold in the hall for the benefit of the fund.

Mr. Watterson on Third Term.

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 11.—Col. Henry Watterson, of Louisville, Ky., was in the city today. In an interview on general political topics he said: "I have no idea President Cleveland considers the idea of any concatenation of miracles. Mr. Cleveland should be the nominee he would not carry a county in the United States."

There Was Never a Braver, More Gallantly Led Little Band than the Immortal 306 who stood for Grant in that historic convention at Chicago, and when they failed of success it was written, never to be erased, that a third term is repugnant to the people of the United States.

Cleveland, I repeat, would not carry a single precinct of the country."

Patchen Broke the Record.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 15.—Joe Patchen broke the record on the Wisconsin track to-day, by going a mile in 2:04. He failed to lower John R. Gentry's stallion record of 2:03. Time by quarters: 32; 31; 31; 29.

Grave Robbers in Wilkes.

WINSTON, N. C., Aug. 14.—Considerable excitement exists in Wilkes county over the appearance of grave robbers in certain sections. Responsible citizens announce the robbery of several graves in Union township.

GOING TO HOLD THE STATE.

Tom Settle Thinks the Republicans Will Win Again in '96.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 14.—Representative Settle, of North Carolina, is at Chamberlin's. Speaking to a reporter to-day of the situation in his State he said: "There is getting to be a great deal of interest in politics. We, the Republicans, are going to hold the State. The Democrats do not even dare to hope that they will be able to carry it in '96."

"How do the North Carolina Republicans stand on the silver question?" was asked.

"There are a great many silver Republicans in the State. The general sentiment is in favor of silver, but the Republicans of North Carolina are going to follow the National party to endorse free silver. The delegation to the National Convention will be friendly to silver, but will not do any kicking."

"Whom do they favor for the nomination?"

"A good many Republicans would answer McKinley, but I think a majority favor Reed, and the delegation will be for him."

Degeneracy of Populism.

Senator Peffer has been talking politics. He says that he, Jones, Stewart, Butler and Tillman will act in concert and hold the balance of power in the Senate. He thinks silver Republicans will vote the ticket of their respective parties, and see little prospect for silver legislation.

The overthrow of the Populists at the last election was a question upon which Senator Peffer spoke guardedly. Without saying so directly, his conversation led to the conclusion that the party had started out as reformers and denounced the unwholesome actions of the Republicans, particularly on the matter of accepting railroad passes and in legislation favorable to the roads. They permitted the public to believe that they would do better when in power, but when the reins of government were in their hands they made the same mistakes, did the very things that they denounced in others, and were swept out of sight by a hoodwinked and thoroughly disgusted lot of voters.

Wool Blight Under Protection.

The Zanesville, Ohio, Signal says: "Under the high protective laws, the price of wool fell from 56 cents in 1867 to the lowest point of all in 1894 under the McKinley law. Now it is beginning to advance again under the new tariff law. The fact is that in Ohio in 1867, when the first law 'protecting' wool was passed, there were over 7,000,000 head of sheep, and the price of wool was 56 cents a pound. From that time until the 28th of last August wool was under the so-called protective laws, and yet the number of sheep decreased over one-half and the price of wool dropped to about 16 cents per head. Republican organs have never attempted to explain the reason for this reduction in sheep and the price of wool, but went right along demanding protection for wool, knowing that the results give the lie to their false claim, and they are still at it."

Bicycle Record Smashed.

CLEVELAND, O., August 15.—Louis Gimm, the crack long distance bicycle rider of this city, who started at noon yesterday at the Cleveland Driving Park, to beat the twenty-four hour record, ended his task at twelve o'clock today and smashed the American record. Gimm made 453 miles and 1,700 yards and rode the last ten miles in better than a 2:30 clip, running away from his pacemakers. Although he has taken very little rest, he seemed as fresh when he finished as when he started. The American long distance championship was previously held by W. B. Twyman, of Chicago, with a record of 407 miles and 84 yards.

Quick Justice in South Carolina.

On Monday of last week six men who had been stealing a ride were put off a Southern passenger train at Ward's Station, S. C. One of them, in revenge for being put off, drew a pistol and fired it at the train. The ball entered a window and wounded a passenger named Bradford. On Tuesday, says the Columbia State, Detective Hall, of the Southern, went to Ward's to work up the case and catch the man who did the shooting. He quickly traced the act to a negro named Governor Bowen, arrested him, and on Monday, at the Court of Sessions in Edgefield, he was tried, convicted and sentenced to the State penitentiary for five years. This was pretty good work for a week.

General Imboden Dead.

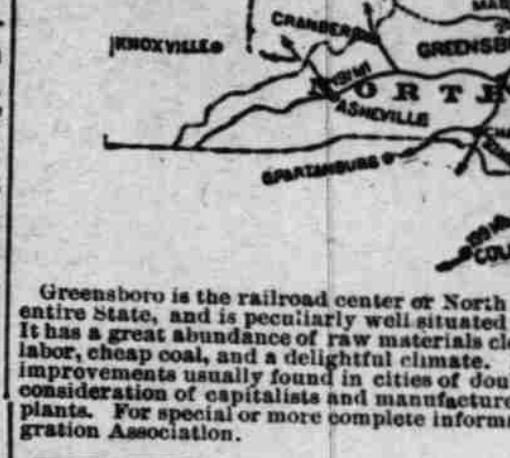

ABINGDON, Va., Aug. 15.—General J. D. Imboden died to-day at his home at Damascus, Washington county, after a brief illness. He was one of the most famous cavalry officers of the Confederacy, and figured prominently in the Valley campaign. Since the war he has been largely engaged in railroad and mining enterprises, but died a poor man.

A RAILROAD CENTER.

Greensboro is the railroad center of North Carolina. It is the natural distributive point for the entire State, and is peculiarly well situated for manufacturing establishments of various kinds. It has a great abundance of raw materials close at hand at the lowest possible price. It has cheap labor, cheap coal, and a delightful climate. It has the very best school advantages and all modern improvements usually found in cities of double its size. These advantages deserve the careful consideration of capitalists and manufacturers, especially those contemplating a removal of their plants. For special or more complete information write to the Greensboro Industrial and Immigration Association.
