MAY.

Oh, the merry May has pleasant hours, And dreamily they glide, As if they floated like the leaves Upon a silver tide.

The verdure of the meadow-land is creeping on the hills, The sweet, blue-blossom'd violets are blowing by the rills;

The young are gathering flowers; And life is a tale of poetry, That is told by golden hours.

It is not a true philosophy, That the spirit when set free Still lingers about its oldest home, In the flower and the tree,

50 LIVES SWEEP AWAY, A Great Wall of Water Overwhelms West Guthrie, Okla.

GUTHRIE, Okla., April 28.—A cloudburst caused a mighty wave of water six feet high and a mile wide to sweep down the valley of the Cottonwood river and strike West Guthrie at 6 o'clock this morning with a great roar.

The Cottonwood river is scarcely more than forty feet wide ordinarily, and winds in many curves between the banks in West Guthrie.

Water rose as if by magic, In the morning the river began to rise as if by magic. Higher and higher it went, jumping four feet in thirty minutes.

West Guthrie is thickly populated, mostly by colored people. Many began carrying their household goods to places of safety.

The river burst from its banks and a raging sea of water half a mile wide swept across the valley, carrying houses, barns and fences before it.

THEIR ESCAPE CUT OFF, In the southwestern part of the city a long arm of land is formed by the widening of the river.

There are two menageries containing wild and trained beasts of the finest and most expensive specimens.

There are positively three big circus rings for the display of the champion equestrians.

There are three elevated stages for the grand exhibition of Olympian games.

There are innumerable and daring aerialists, whose performances in mid-air are wonderful.

There are 16 champion bareback equestrians.

There are 300 circus performers who are seen in as many novel and intrepid acts.

There are 100 cages, chariots, banjos, wagons, and others four-wheeled wonders.

A MAGNIFICENT TOMB.

Description of the Permanent Resting Place of Gen. Grant's Remains.

A hundred feet above mean high water of the Hudson river the Grant tomb and monument stands, a solid pile of white granite 150 feet high.

The first 73 feet of this height is a cube of the Grecian Doric order. The entrance, on the southern side, is enclosed by a portico made up of a row of recessed columns.

DOORS WEIGHING SEVERAL TONS, Passing up the great steps which extend three-quarters of the way across the front of the structure, one comes first to the doors of the tomb, filling a space 16 feet 4 inches high and 9 feet wide.

INTERIOR OF THE TOMB, Beyond the doors, after a clear space of 38 feet, is a 25-foot opening, directly over the crypt.

MASSIVE SARCOPHAGUS, The sarcophagus, cut from the solid rock, is highly polished, reflecting the near-by surfaces as it rests in the crypt.

By popular subscription the fund necessary for the erection of the memorial was raised. It is estimated that 90,000 persons contributed sums ranging from one cent to $5,000.

OLD TOMB TORN DOWN, The little brick tomb in Riverside Park in which the body of General Grant remained during the twelve years when the permanent tomb was building was torn down Monday night.
