DR. PIERCE'S GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY.
It works wonders. By restoring the normal action of the deranged organs and functions, it builds the flesh up to a safe and healthy standard—promptly, pleasantly and naturally. The weak, emaciated, thin, pale and puny are made strong, plump, round and rosy. Nothing so effective as a strength restorer as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery; this puts on healthy flesh not the fat of an overfed animal. It cures every organ of the body to activity, purifies, enriches and vitalizes the blood so that the body feels refreshed and strengthened. If you are too thin, too weak, too nervous, it may be that the food assimilation is at fault. A certain amount of bile is necessary for the reception of the fat foods in the blood. Too often the liver holds back this element which would help digestion. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery stimulates, tones up and invigorates the liver, nourishes the blood, and the muscles, stomach and nerves get the rich blood they require.

DEATH'S FINAL CONQUEST.

The glories of our birth and state. Are shadows, not substantial things. There is no armor against fate: Death lays its icy hand on kings. Sceptre and crown Must tumble down, And in the dust be equal made With the poor crooked scythe and spade.

Some men with swords may reap the field, And plant with laurels where they kill; But their strong nerves at last must yield, They tame but one another still; Early or late, They stoop to fate, And must give up their murmuring breath, When they, pale captives, creep to death.

The garlands wither on your brow; Then boast no more your mighty deeds: Upon death's purple altar, now, See where the victor victim bleeds! All heads must justly bow, Only the actions of the just Smell sweet and blossom in the dust.

—JAMES SHIELLY.

Glimpses from the Land of the Sky.

EDIT R. PATRIOT:
Leaving Greensboro I saw no scenery of special interest except the unbroken views of cultivated fields, interspersed now and then with bodies of timber land, until I reached Statesville. There I began to catch glimpses of the beautiful mountains, which in the distance look blue as the ocean waves. A nearer approach reveals the white vapor of the clouds settling down on the mountains, which caused them to have the appearance of immense volcanoes with the steam bursting from all their sides. The insane asylum situated at Morganton gives that place notoriety. It is a handsome structure, situated on the left side of the railroad about one mile from town. At Round Knob the altitude is 1,840. From there to the top of the Blue Ridge the scenery is grand beyond description. The highest point crossed by the road is the Swannanoa Tunnel, which is 2,850 feet above Asheville. There are seven tunnels on the road, the longest of which is the Swannanoa, it being 1,800 feet. The combined length of the tunnels is 4,495 feet. The east end of the Swannanoa Tunnel is cut through solid rock. It took nearly seven years to complete this tunnel at a cost of nearly one million dollars. Royal Gorge is seen after passing through the third tunnel going east. At this point the mountains can be seen for ninety miles in the distance, the farthest peak being Kings Mountain, which is thirty miles south of Charlotte. This gives an unbroken view through part of North and South Carolina and Georgia. The distance from the foot of the mountain to the top in an air line is three miles, by rail 1 1/2 miles. The grade is 160 feet to the mile. At Mud Cut the road can be seen at five different points, the lower track being 900 feet below. Just above Round Knob the road can be seen at seventeen different points, and a view of the track also 150 feet below, the distance being only 1 1/2 miles by rail from the hotel. In passing over this track, which makes perfect horseshoes, one gets four different views of the hotel.

The Strike Status.

It is to be regretted that the recent final conference between the committee representing the coal operators of the Pittsburgh district and national representatives of the miners' organization was without the desired result of an agreement upon terms that would end the protracted strike in the Western coal field. As adjournment was had without naming a date for another meeting, there is cause to fear that the disagreement marks the close of conciliatory efforts and that endurance is the test to which the powers of both sides will now be subjected. The differences underlying the strike are indicated in the proposals made by both sides at the abortive conference. The representatives of the miners offered to start the mines at a wage rate of 69 cents a ton and accept a reduction from that figure later should arbitrators say it is too high, provided a call be issued for a conference of operators and miners of all the mines in the competitive area—"in all the competitive States." The wage rate named was for the Pittsburgh district, but the arbitration was to cover the whole region in which the strike has been in progress, the expectation being that a 69-cent rate at Pittsburgh would lead to resumption in other fields at proportionate prices. The representatives of the miners are confident that they can convince a fair board of arbitrators that the rate named is "not more than living wages" and is, therefore, the rate which the mine-owners should pay.

True and False Prosperity.

The man who watches the course of prices in Wall Street—and keeps out of it—is in a position to judge of the general drift of financial movement. The sudden rise and fluctuation in the quotation of a few stocks generally mean speculation. Brokers and their clients are bidding against one another, and will buy or sell on a rumor, a surmise, or merely because others are buying or selling. For some years this process has been going on, and Wall Street has been flat and uninteresting. The outside public kept away, and the operations of the Street in every city of the land have only indicated the prevailing atmosphere of depression.

If in such a period of dullness one stock after another begins to rise in price, and in place of inactivity inquiry is made for good investments, securities to be bought and laid away as "sight-edged," then other features of the general economy of the country may be studied. There may be an unusually good crop of the cereals, or an increasing demand for coal, iron, cotton, or wool, pointing to a new start in industry. If these conditions are found to exist, the earnings of the railroads will reflect the greater movement of freight, a demand for capital is excited, and so the rising tide goes on till it has affected every sphere of the economic activity of the country, and—prosperity is at hand. Periodically, about once in ten years, this phase sets in, and each time seems to gather force with the growth of the industry and commerce of the people.

Mathematical Puzzles for Old Folks as Well as the Young Ones.

Who has not, at some period of his existence, been asked, "If a goose weighs ten pounds and half its own weight, what is the weight of the goose?" And who has not been tempted to reply on the instant, fifteen pounds? The correct answer being, of course, twenty pounds, says the San Francisco Chronicle. Indeed, it is astonishing what a very simple query will sometimes catch a wise man napping. Even the following have been known to succeed:

"How many days would it take to cut up a piece of cloth fifty yards long, one yard being cut off every day?"

Or, again: "A snail, climbing up a post twenty feet high ascends five feet every day, and slips down four feet every night, how long will the snail take to reach the top of the post?"

Or, again: "A wise man, having a window one yard high and one yard wide, and requiring more light, enlarged his window to twice its former size, yet the window was still only one yard high and one yard wide. How was this done?" This is a catch question in geometry, as the preceding were catch questions in arithmetic—the window being diamond shaped at first and afterward made square.

Colored People Aroused to a High Pitch of Religious Excitement.

A dispatch from Mountville, S. C., says over 5,000 colored people in that vicinity have quit work in answer to a call to assemble for the "burial of Satan," who, they say, has just been convicted by a jury of twelve angels and sentenced to everlasting burial in this place. These people have been holding a revival meeting in the town, and as a result of a collection they bought a bell to adorn their church. It was upon the first ringing of this bell that some of them said they detected the announcement that the burial of Satan was at hand and that the ringing must be kept up continuously. The ringing has since been kept up and the colored people have been thrown into a high pitch of fervor, in which they forget all things of earth and rave like lunatics.

AN UNFAITHFUL GUARD.

A few days ago a notorious white convict escaped from the penitentiary farm on Roanoke river. It now turns out that he connived with a State guard for his freedom. The convict was known as John Doe, alias Forest M. Rivers. The guard was J. E. Kinney, a white man, and a Republican, who became a guard under the new regime.

Doe promised Kinney $500 to allow him to escape, which amount he was to send the guard as soon as he reached his home in Leavenworth, Kansas. The guard not only allowed Doe to escape, but I am informed that he also loaned him money. When Doe reached Hand some, a small station on the Sea board Air Line, he wrote back to Kinney, and the letter fell into the hands of the Superintendent.

In that letter the statements compromised the guard, and he then admitted the truth of it, and was at once dismissed from the service of the State.

When last heard from he was in Richmond. It is stated that he has been making efforts to join the regular army. Doe made his way to Norfolk, and probably left there on some outgoing steamer.

Bound Over.

Last week the usual quiet of our town was broken by the burning of a whiskey warehouse and the subsequent arrest of S. Lawson for being implicated in the same. Later however the climax was reached when he was re-arrested and J. H. Sullivan also, one of the partners in the business to which the warehouse belonged. The defendants wanted time to procure more counsel and were placed under a $5,000 bond until Saturday. Saturday the hearing was had and they were placed under $10,000 bonds each which they could not give.—Bur-lington News.

New York, N. Y., August 3, 1897.

Gentlemen:—Referring to numbers 3646 and 3647: Underwear which you purchased for full delivery at $24 per dozen, we wish to say the original orders placed with the Manufacturer are filled, and they have advanced the price so that future orders with which you may favor us on these lines will cost you $30 per dozen.

Yours respectfully,
J. S. LOWREY & CO.

We bought our entire stock of staple goods before it was effected by tariff legislation, and will sell you goods this fall and now as if there was no HIGH TARIFF. We are in a position to sell you Worsteds cheaper now than ever before. We haven't any MARKED DOWN prices, but will give you a price that will convince you we make no claims which we will not SUBSTANTIATE. Respectfully,

Matthews, Chisholm & Stroud,
Salesmen: John W. Crawford, Will. H. Rees, Will. H. Matthews, Harry B. Donnell and The Mascoet.

FREAKS OF FIGURES.

228 This would be the precise number of figures used if the product of the left-hand figure in each multiplicand by each figure of the multiplier was always a single figure, but as is most frequent and yet not always two figures, the method employed to obtain the foregoing result cannot be accurately applied. Assuming that the cipher is used on an average once in ten times, 475,000,000,000 approximates the actual number.
