Osborne Farm Implements:

Dear Sir—In reply to your letter concerning the Osborne Binder, will say I have used three different Binders and think the Osborne the best. I cut 103 acres last year, used a light team and they did the work without jading. I cut 15 acres so rank that I could not peddle the bundle carrier and my machine did not choke or bother one minute. My machine is in as good condition as it was the day I drove it in the field.

Yours,
N. A. BALLINGER.

Gents—The Osborne Binder I bought of you last season was all that you claim for it, and in my opinion is the lightest draft, simplest and most desirable Machine built. I started the Machine myself and with great success.

Respectfully,
W. L. MILES.

Gents—I want to say now what I intended long ago—that the Osborne Binder bought of you last season gave perfect satisfaction in every respect. I want to say that after the machine was set up we drove into wheat that would yield 25 bushels to the acre (without using the scythe as a starter as is generally done,) and to my amazement it waded right through, doing the binding to perfection without any readjustment, as is most generally the case in other machines. It is a light draft machine with draft equally divided. I also find by close inspection that it is a better and neater finished machine than many others. While it may look small by the side of some others, I found that it would do as big work as if it was four stories high.

If any one using another machine than the Osborne and think they can do as nice, good, clean work with the same power, tell him to come to my fields this coming June and we will test the matter.

Most respectfully,
D. L. GRAY.

Sirs—I am much pleased with the Osborne Mower and Hay Rake I bought of you. I think it is the best Mower and Rake on the market.

Gentlemen—In reply to yours of March 6th, I can cheerfully say the Osborne Binder I purchased of you last season is everything you claim for it. It is a perfect machine, cutting the grain clean and binding perfectly. I fully tested it both in light and heavy grain. I cut wheat, rye and oats with it. It did perfect work on every occasion, and was run by my son who had never had any experience in running a Binder. I could not be better pleased with a Binder. No one will be disappointed in purchasing the Osborne Binder.

Gentlemen—The Osborne Binder I bought of you last season gives me entire satisfaction. It did good work in small and large grain. I consider the machine well made and believe it will prove durable. As to draft I think it is as light, if not lighter, than any I have ever seen used. Anyone thinking of buying a Binder will in my judgment make a mistake in buying the Osborne.

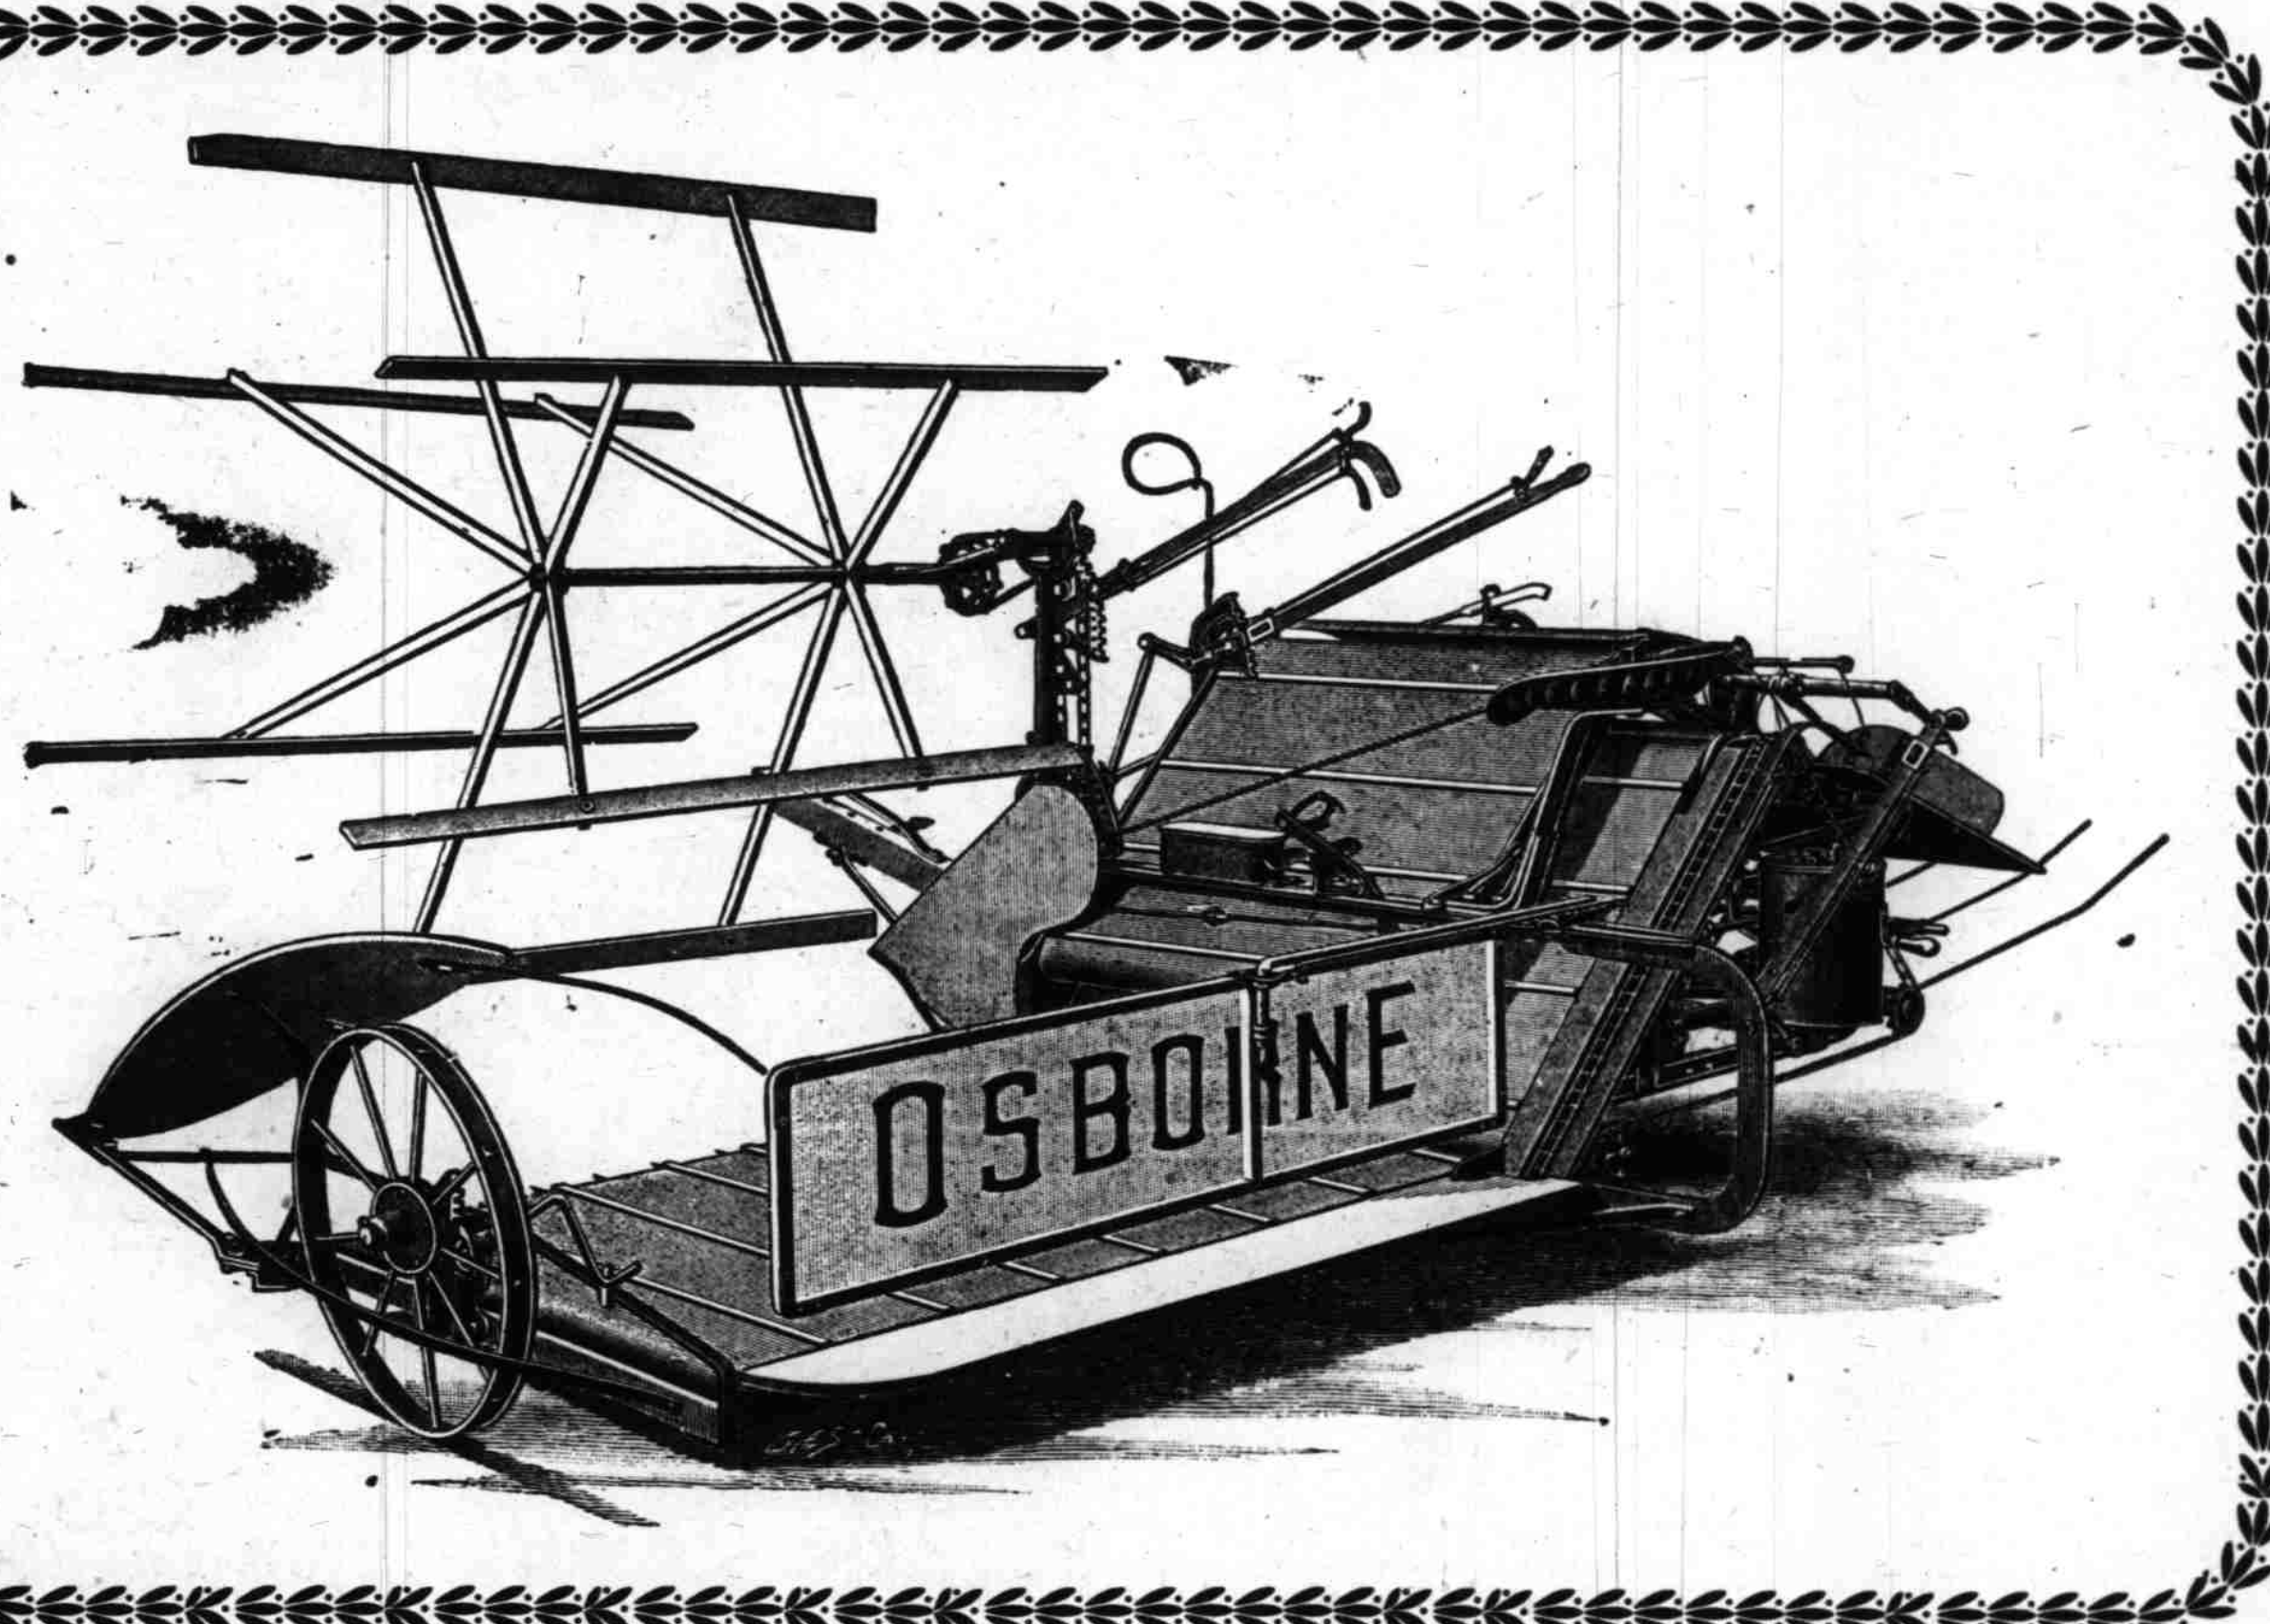

C. H. HANCOCK.

Gentlemen—The Osborne Binder purchased of you last season gave me satisfaction. I consider it strong and light of draft, doing its work well in any kind of grain if handled right, and will say that farmers contemplating buying a Binder will not make a mistake in trying the Osborne.

Yours truly,
J. H. SHARP.
