A Remarkable Sleep Walker. A dispatch from Chattanooga to the Atlanta Constitution says:

A fourteen-year-old boy named Hitzfield, who resides in one of the suburbs, went to bed at his home Sunday night about 8 o'clock not feeling well.

About 9 o'clock he arose from his bed, put on his clothes, took an electric car for the city and went to the depot, where he purchased a ticket to Rome, Ga. Reaching Rome he took a cab for one of the hotels, where he retired. All this was done while he was sound asleep. When he awoke this morning he could hardly be made to believe that he was not at home. He returned to the city on the first train. He is now suffering from brain fever.

The doctors here are puzzled over the case, and say it is one of the most remarkable they have ever known in their experiences. The boy is very exemplary, and no one doubts the story of his experience.
