

ANOTHER REVOLUTION!

A hundred years and more have passed since the revolution of 1776. Many changes have taken place during that time, but hardly any of so much importance as the changes in Farm Implements. 1899 sees another revolution--while a peaceful one--yet none the less important, and that is the revolution in Drill making. The makers of the "BUCKEYE" Steel Frame Drill are Pioneers in the business--have been at it for years--and we venture to say that on no other Drill will be found the Conveniences, the Up-to-Date Improvements and "handy" Arrangements which are a part and parcel of the "BUCKEYE."

JUST NOTE THESE!

Strongest and Lightest Frame.
Highest Wheels, making light draft.
Fertilizer and Wheat Feeders always in sight.
"Double Run" Force Wheat and Oats Feeder.
Glass Fertilizer Feeders--will not rust, gum or corrode.
Of course the Buckeye has many more features distinctly its own, but we will let some of the best and most successful farmers in the county tell you about them.
See what they say about it.

TESTIMONIALS:

Lightest Draft and Easiest Managed.
HINTON, N. C., July 25, 1899.
Wakefield Hardware Co., Greensboro, N. C.
Gentlemen—I have this to say about the Buckeye Disc Drill I bought from you last season. It was late when I got it and I had to start it to work in the mud, but that did not hinder it from doing the best work of any drill I ever used. It is the lightest draft, the easiest managed and handiest drill I ever saw. With a little team of mules I drilled in over four and a half acres in half day for Allie Allred, and my team was not any more tired when I quit than when I started. It has the best fertilizer feeder to be found on any drill, and is the handiest about putting on more or less fertilizer without stopping the team. It works all right on rocky land and has not given me any trouble. To my notion it is the best drill made, and if I had to buy again, I certainly would buy the Buckeye.

Respectfully,
JNO. A. STARR.

Gentlemen—The Buckeye Drill I bought of you last fall has given entire satisfaction. It does all that is claimed of it. I am well pleased with it.
Yours truly,
W. H. WARREN.

Is the Best Drill Sold.
GREENSBORO, N. C., July 17, 1899.
Wakefield Hardware Co., Greensboro, N. C.
Gentlemen—In regard to the "Buckeye" Disc Drill bought of you last fall, I wish to say that in my opinion it is the best drill sold. I looked at all the drills in your town before I bought, and while I could have bought a drill of another make cheaper, I paid you more money for a Buckeye, believing that "the best is always the cheapest." It is a very light drill, does its work perfectly and to my entire satisfaction, and if I had to buy another drill it would be a "Buckeye."
Yours truly,
W. H. PITCHFORD.

Would Not Have Any Other Kind.
SUMNER, N. C., July 22, 1899.
Wakefield Hardware Co., Greensboro, N. C.
Gentlemen—I purchased one of your Buckeye Disc Drills last season. It has given ENTIRE SATISFACTION. I used it on land where I had turned under pea vines and there was no choke about it, but put in wheat even and nice. I was well pleased with the way it distributed guano. I could put in any quantity that I wished to.
If I was going to purchase again, I would not have any other kind except a Disc Drill.
Yours truly,
H. L. GAAT.

If you have any idea of buying a Drill, it will be to your interest to examine the Buckeye, sold in the Disc and Hoe. Write us for catalogue, or better than that, call and see us.
Yours for business,

CARR A CANDIDATE.
Announces He's in the Senatorial Race--Kind Words for His Opponents.
In an interview in the Richmond Times of Saturday Col. Julian S. Carr, of Durham, announces that he will be a candidate for election as United States Senator, to succeed Marion Butler, whose term expires March 1901.
Col. Carr said in the interview with the Times:
"Yes, I am a candidate for the Senate to succeed Butler, and am in the race to win," said Col. Julian S. Carr, of North Carolina, at the Jefferson last night. "I have some good men against me," he continued; "there's F. M. Simmons, chairman of our State Democratic Committee, and a thorough-going, astute politician; ex-Governor Jarvis, twice governor of North Carolina, and a former Senator, and Mayor A. M. Waddell, of Wilmington, who has also served in Congress, and whose part in the late troubles give him a good place in the hearts of the white people."
"If I win I shall feel that I have been greatly complimented, for all of the other aspirants are high-toned, Christian gentlemen, who stand well with the people."
"Our campaign will not be characterized by a display of acrimonious feeling--certainly so far as I am concerned. My opponents are all my personal friends."
Col. Carr felt confident that he could win in a contest before the public, but he was not so sure that the opportunity would present itself for such an expression of the popular will.

Bright Outlook for Guilford.
President Hobbs, of Guilford College, came in yesterday afternoon to attend the meeting of the State Board of Examiners. "We had the best opening in our history this year," he said, when asked about Guilford College. "We added the department of biology this year and put it in the hands of Mr. T. G. Pearson, a graduate of the State University, who will also have charge of the museum of natural history, a large part of which he has collected himself. Profs. Wilson and Hodgson attended Cornell for post graduate work this summer, the one in chemistry, the other in English literature."
"New books are being added to the library and more students are entering advanced classes than ever before. The outlook for the year is very bright. Prof. Cobb, of the University, recently gave the first lecture of the season, which was very fine. Our total enrollment is now 154 and more are to come in yet. We have the finest student body in our history."--Raleigh Observer 30th.

Prayer Cure in Kentucky.
We do not vouch for the veracity of the following story, the scene of which is laid in the blue grass region of Kentucky:
"Miss Celia Williams, the twenty-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Enoch Williams, of near Forest Springs, has been confined to her room for over two years and for many months to her bed. Her physicians had given up all hope of her recovery. Tuesday of last week she exerted every power with in her and rolled off the bed to her knees, praying God to heal her afflictions and restore her to health. Then the thought came to her of a neighbor family she hated bitterly. She got up, walked to the neighbor's home barefooted, and made apologies for her ill feelings against them. After this she walked over the neighborhood a distance of three or four miles, and there was not a mark or scratch on her feet when she returned home. She claims to be divinely healed and to be entirely cured of all ailments. Although she had not taken a step for months and had to have her feet placed on a sheepskin on account of their tenderness, she walks on them now without pain. Miss Williams is now going about wherever she pleases and suffers no pain at all."

Out of the Mouth of Babies.
Even the preachers get warning sometimes. At a certain meeting not far distant a young hopeful was present and having become tired of the usual posture was taking it see-saw across a bench. The preacher had just read out his hymn and the leader of the singing was about to raise the tune when young hopeful suddenly exclaimed, "Preacher, there's a big stinging worm." The worm in question was meandering its way on the preacher's umbrella. The leader did not lead for some minutes but was at loss to find the tune. The preacher proved equal to the occasion by saying, "There is a worm which dieth not," and following up the quotation with appropriate remarks upon it.--Stanly Enterprise.

A BIG RAILROAD FIRE.
Over Half a Million Dollars Worth of Property Burned.
Cincinnati, Ohio, Sept. 30.—Fire which was started at 1:10 o'clock a. m. today in the center of the freight depot of the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis (Big Four) Railroad, destroyed railroad property estimated to have been worth between $500,000 and $1,000,000. Large factories between the railroad and the river and on the other side, the central passenger station, the large office building of the Big Four and the Grand hotel were in great danger. Guests of the Grand hotel were awakened but the fire did not cross Third street. Whole trains of loaded and empty cars were destroyed.
An effort was made to draw burning cars away, but it only resulted in getting them on the main track where they burned and destroyed the ties and warped the tracks so that access to the passenger station was cut off.
The loss was almost wholly restricted to railroad property and freight. The former can be approximately estimated, but the freight loss cannot be computed for some time. All the records of the freight office were burned and it will only be by collection of data from shippers and consignees that an adequate idea of the loss can be obtained.

TAX ON LUMBER DEALERS.
Great and Small Fare Alike Under the Law.
A correspondent writes to the News and Observer to enquire whether there is any difference made in taxing lumber dealers and saw mills in the Revenue Act. The act imposes a tax of $20 on lumber dealers, $10 for the county and $10 for the State. There is no tax on saw-mills that saw for cash. The correspondent writes that he saws lumber on the shares and sells his part of it. The Attorney-General says this makes him a dealer within the meaning of the law.
The word "dealer" was substituted for "trader" in the law as it once was because of a decision of the Supreme Court that a "trader" is a man who handles merchandise without changing its form. Under this construction a lumberman who sawed and sold millions of feet annually paid no tax. To overcome this, "dealer" was substituted and now every man who sells lumber as a business, whether in large or small quantities, is a dealer and is liable for the tax. The law undoubtedly works a hardship on small dealers like the correspondent, but the tax is upon the vocation not upon the volume of business transacted.--Raleigh Observer.

A Faith Cure Epidemic.
Last Saturday's Philadelphia Record says that faith cure tenets helped to kill Miss Amelia N. Nulish, 78 years old, at the Methodist Home for the Aged, Philadelphia, on Wednesday, and Coroner Dugan, at the inquest over her remains yesterday, roundly condemned "this new-fangled fantastic creed."
The jury found that Miss Nulish had died of old age and Bright's disease, but that she had aggravated these ills by refusing the aid of a physician and abstaining from food, relying almost wholly upon prayer for her bodily sustenance.
But the coroner and jury also learned the more startling fact that a dozen other old women at the Methodist Home have been so influenced by a faith cure as to adopt similarly dangerous tactics. These aged inmates' belief in the power of faith extends even to the question of food, and they gravely announce that a half hour upon their knees by the bedside will do them more good than the best meal ever prepared.

Protection for Our Peanuts.
SAN FRANCISCO, SEPT. 28.—A circular letter is being framed by several of the large wholesale nut merchants in San Francisco, to be circulated among the sellers and growers in California, Virginia and other peanut raising states, asking signatures to the petition to Congress to raise the tariff on peanuts from the half cent duty to at least 3 cents. The object is to shut out Japanese peanuts, which are largely imported and can be sold at much less than the domestic product.

Hertford Jail Broken Open.
RALEIGH, SEPT. 30.—Masked parties broke into the county jail at Winton, Hertford county, last night, and shot Robert Vaughan, under suspicion of barn burning. The doors were broken down and the prisoner was shot at least three times. He was committed several weeks ago by a justice of the peace under circumstantial evidence. The prisoner was in an iron cell. The act is greatly deplored. Vaughan will probably die.

EARTHQUAKES IN ASIA.
Men, Women and Children Buried in the Ruins of Their Homes.
Constantinople, Oct. 2.—It is estimated that 1,500 persons perished in the earthquakes in Asia Minor. The first shock occurred at 4 o'clock the morning of Sept. 20th, and lasted forty seconds. The effects were appalling. Whole villages were completely destroyed. The earthquake was felt as far as Solo, Mitylene and Smyrna. The latest advices from the stricken area show that men, women and children were buried in the ruins of their dwelling places before they realized their danger. Numbers of bodies still lie beneath the debris. About 500 persons were killed at Sakeni, and 500 at Denizil, where three-fourths of the buildings fell. There was proportionate loss of life in many of the smaller villages. The disturbance has not yet subsided, although its strength appears to be spent.
The shocks continue almost daily, but with no great violence. The population is encamped in the open. One consequence of the earthquakes is the subsidence of the level of Aidin district by two yards. Sulphurous springs burst out in the Valley of Noander, and the country between Aidin and Denizil became full of crevices, out of which flowed muddy water with sufficient volume to wash away a flock of 1,000 sheep. The villagers of the Valley of Noander report that for several days previous to the catastrophe domestic animals were greatly disturbed, bellowing, bleating and barking.

ASYLUM BURNED.
The Arkansas State Institution for the Deaf Destroyed.
Little Rock, Ark., September 30.—The State deaf mute institute was completely destroyed by fire at 4 o'clock this morning. The fire originated from a scuttle of ashes on the wooden porch connecting the main building and the girls' dormitory, and spread so rapidly that the thirty-eight inmates escaped only in their night clothes and two more were rescued from fourth story windows by the firemen. Nothing whatever was saved and all personal effects of the officers and the teachers were lost. The loss to the State is estimated at $150,000 and to private parties at $10,000. There was no insurance on the property.
Fell Dead While Honoring Dewey.
New York, Sept. 29.—George W. Abercrombie, proprietor of the Boulevard Hotel, in Newark, N. J., while raising a flag on the roof of the hotel today in honor of Admiral Dewey, fell dead from a stroke of apoplexy. He was forty years old.

Millionaire Goes to Jail.
After fighting for two years to escape his fate, Millionaire William Bradbury was taken to the county jail here today to serve a 24-hour sentence for spitting on the floor of a street car.
Mr. Bradbury was tried and convicted many months ago and sentenced to 24 hours in jail. He appealed to the Superior court, and the judgment was affirmed. When Mr. Bradbury was arraigned for sentence today Judge Treadwell committed him to the county jail without a fine.
"I am merely following out the law," said the court. "Mr. Bradbury, if your attorneys had asked the Superior court to grant you an alternative of a fine, I have no reason to doubt that it would have been granted. The law, however, allows you no alternative, and I must enforce it. I sentence you to serve 24 hours in the county jail and turn you over to the sheriff."
After the pronouncement of sentence a deputy sheriff escorted the capitalist to the Broadway jail. This was a test case, which was watched with great interest.--San Francisco Dispatch.
English View of Cleveland.
LONDON, SEPT. 30.—It is strange just now to mark the apathetic tone with which the press refers to the approaching end of the Venezuelan arbitration. Cleveland's message on the Venezuelan crisis is almost forgotten here. There is no live interest left in the question beyond the feeling that whatever territory Great Britain has in South America we will not have irrefragable title deeds.
An interesting point to students of human nature in this affair is to note how Cleveland has such a great reputation in this country to-day, and there have been constant wonderings during American recent stirring times why Cleveland has not been heard of more, many leading newspapers remarking to that effect editorially.
Dr. E. Benjamin Andrews, superintendent of the public schools of Chicago, is spoken of as the probable successor of Dr. George W. Northrup in the chair of systematic theology at the University of Chicago.
