

THE FARMER

Is the coming man, but he must apply business methods same as the merchant, manufacturer and other successful operators. Keep posted on the market and know when to sell your products at the best prices, and when you want to buy look out for the best bargains. For instance, when you need a good Overcoat and find us selling $15.00 coats for $12.50, this is your opportunity. This is an advertisement, likewise a fact.

Colonel Chapman Transferred.

Col. W. H. Chapman, who has been revenue agent here for something over a year and a half, has been transferred to Richmond, where he becomes revenue agent of the district of Virginia. The change is effective January the first. At that time Col. Chapman will be relieved by Mr. R. B. Sams, who was appointed a revenue agent not long after Col. Chapman's transfer to Greensboro.

Col. Chapman has been a revenue agent since 1878. His first assignment was also in this state and in Greensboro. This was 26 years ago last June. Since that time he says there has been a vast change for the better in the observance of revenue laws. When he began work in this state revenue officers had difficult and dangerous work in performing their duties. Many people were in league with the moonshiners and those who were not were too afraid of them to be of any service to the government in prosecuting them.

The division which Col. Chapman leaves and of which on and after January the 1st Mr. Sams will be in charge comprises the states of North and South Carolina.

Col. Chapman has renewed many old friendships and formed many new ones during his stay in Greensboro the last year or so and there will be genuine regret that he is to leave. He has been especially kind and courteous to newspaper men, always gladly giving them any information that could be divulged without prejudice to the duties of his office.

Figures That Show Prosperity.

Every New Year is an occasion for inventories of stock with merchants, and a general overhauling of assets by all business enterprises.

In his examination into what has been accomplished during the current year by Greensboro capital, pluck, enterprise and industry, Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, George F. Newman, finds that Greensboro, during the year 1905, has kept fully abreast in the onward march toward the goal of manufacturing, mercantile and industrial eminence among Southern cities.

He finds that during the year, the increase of interested capital in the way of enlargement, or extension, of private enterprises already established is nearly a million dollars. Some of the most important of these are:

Revolution Cotton Mill	$ 40,000
Southern Ry. freight depot	45,000
Greensboro Electric Co.	125,000
Van Lindley Nursery Co.	4,000
Pomona Cotton Mill	100,000
Southern Bell Telephone Co.	200,000
Proximity Cotton Mill Co.	35,000

Equally encouraging are the figures of new enterprises, amounting to over a million and a half dollars, being only that class of investments known as chartered public corporations and not including a simple individual enterprise, and divided into classes as follows: Mercantile, seven, $225,000; manufacturing, thirteen, $502,000; industrial and publication, six $450,000; agricultural, one, $60,000; insurance, three, $300,000.

Virginia Couple Wedded Here.

Thursday morning at the parsonage, Rev. G. H. Detwiler, pastor of West Market Street Methodist church, united in marriage a handsome couple from Virginia, in the persons of Mr. S. P. Du Bose, of Danville, and Miss Hallie M. Tucker, of News Ferry. Mr. C. C. Du Bose, brother of the groom, accompanied the young people. They left Danville at five o'clock yesterday morning, returning on a delayed noon train to the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James F. Tucker, of News Ferry, for a bridal visit, and will be "at home" in Danville after December 28th. They said it was not a runaway but a surprise marriage.

Mr. Du Bose was formerly ticket agent at Danville but is now chief check clerk in the freight offices of the Southern Railway at Danville.

Gave Themselves Up.

Last August Tom Farrington and his two sons Prince and Beatty were tried for burning the barn of Isaac Stanley, in revenge for information given by Stanley, that Tom Farrington was selling whiskey, contrary to law. The jury failed to agree as to Tom Farrington, but convicted the boys, who were sentenced to serve five years on the roads. They took an appeal to the Supreme court, giving $1,000 bond each. Last week Tom Farrington was convicted of retailing whiskey and sentenced to twelve months on the roads. The arson case against him was continued. Thursday the two young men went to the sheriff and gave themselves up, saying they had abandoned their appeal and wanted to begin serving their term. They were sent to the convict camp Friday morning.

Dying of Famine

is, in its torments, like dying of consumption. The progress of consumption, from the beginning to the very end, is a long torture, both to victim and friends. "When I had consumption in the first stage," writes Wm. Myers, of Cearfoss, Md., "after trying different medicines and a good doctor, in vain, I at last took Dr. King's New Discovery, which quickly and perfectly cured me." Prompt relief and sure cure for coughs, colds, sore throat, bronchitis, etc. Positively prevents pneumonia. Guaranteed at all druggists, price 50c and $1.00 a bottle. Trial bottle free.

BATTLE GROUND PROSPECTS.

As Seen by the President of the Guilford Battle Ground Company.

EDITOR PATRIOT:

For the information of many interested inquirers, let me say that on January 12th, 1904, at the earnest request of certain Rhode Islanders, and North Carolinians, Senator Aldrich, of Rhode Island, General Greene's native state, introduced in the senate a bill to erect a $25,000 monument to Greene at Guilford Battle Ground, N. C. Being in Washington at the time, immediately thereafter, after full consultation with Mr. Kitchin and other friends, the second bill for the adoption of the Guilford Battle Ground property by the government, was also introduced. Upon advice of all friends, the pushing to passage of both these was postponed till the December session, 1904, and till after the presidential election and others were over. Unfortunately, upon the re-assembling of congress, December, 1904, Senator Aldrich was under the necessity, because of ill health, of securing a leave of absence during the session and crossed the Atlantic. It was deemed best to allow the bill to sleep until he could be personally present. During the short winter term, it was found impracticable, to secure consideration of the bill for the adoption of the grounds. Both these bills died of course with the ending of the last congress.

On the 5th of December, 1905, the second day of the present session of congress, the bill tendering our grounds freely was again introduced. To a moral certainty, Senator Aldrich's bill will again be offered as soon as he, its staunch friend, may adjudge to be best. No stones have nor will be left unturned. The Battle Ground cause has lost good friends in Washington since our labors there in 1902. We miss the ever courteous and prompt aid of Senator Pritchard. The lamented Boynton is no more, to our profound regret. He originated the idea of the Chickamauga and Chattanooga national parks, was president of the national committee for these parks, and was a sympathetic and earnest friend of the Guilford Battle Ground project. He had visited us on three successive celebrations of the 4th of July and told me on his last trip that it was his purpose to spend, if possible, each succeeding fourth with us. Mr. Ware, commissioner of pensions, is no longer in Washington. We miss all these and some others, but the Lord has raised up other good and, I trust, equally strong friends for us and we shall see what we will see. Both our senators are alert and will certainly do all in their power and Mr. Kitchin will find a powerful co-adjutor in the Honorable E. Spencer Blackburn in the house. While ours is in no sense a party question, still it was a republican house that voted the Nash-Davidson memorial and that will control all appropriations of this congress and Mr. Blackburn is the only representative of that party for North Carolina. He is in a position to do us vast good and he will do it.

Yours truly,

JOS. M. MOREHEAD.

THE BUILDER IS BUSY

While the builder is busy shaping and perfecting the best lighted and most modern storeroom in North Carolina—a store designed for the comfort of the ladies—the ladies who so gladly received us less than three years ago. It is you who have made it possible through us to give to Greensboro the best equipped Dry Goods Store in North Carolina.

We are indeed glad that we cast our lot with you, you the most hospitable and generous people in our good Old North State. Our gratitude cannot be expressed, there being so many who have contributed to our success, to each individual. We will give general expression to all by giving you the most up-to-date store service in North Carolina.

No one can look at the growing goodness of this store and shopping facilities without realizing what it is worth to the people—citizens and visitors—to have in Greensboro the best Dry Goods Store in North Carolina.

The builder, Mr. Allred, is rushing through with his splendid plans—rushing to make ready for us to move in by January 10, 1906.

Busy, busy, always busy! There is safety in shopping at Greensboro's fastest growing store.
