The Van Lindley Nursery Company has a new peach that bids fair to rival if not excel all of the many new and early varieties. It is of Texas origin and has been named the Arp. It ripens with Greensboro and other early varieties, is large and in color resembles the paintings of a peach, being of a rich red, with beautiful stripes. In taste it is more like the peaches of long ago than any of the varieties grown in many years.

SINCLAIR-JOHNSON.

Marriage of Popular Young Couple a Charming Social Event

The home of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Johnson, on Arlington street, was the scene of a most beautiful wedding last Wednesday night at 9 o'clock, when their daughter, Miss Kate Paschal Johnson, and Mr. Harry Winfield Sinclair assumed the marital vows.

Just before the ceremony Mrs. J. G. Brodnax, Jr., sang several selections, accompanied on the piano by Miss Sallie Embry, who played Mendelssohn's wedding march as the bridal party entered the parlor, in which the ceremony took place. Rev. Dr. J. L. White came first and took his place behind an improvised altar. The bridegroom entered with his brother, Mr. James M. Sinclair, who acted as best man. Next came the maid of honor, Miss Fleida Johnson, the bride's sister, attired in a gown of pink and silk over taffeta, trimmed in princess lace. She carried a bouquet of sweet peas. The bride entered leaning upon the arm of her father, who gave her away. She looked lovely in her princess gown of ivory duchess satin, with trimmings of embroidered fillet lace and pearls, and carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley. At her throat she wore a handsome pearl brooch, the gift of the groom.

Following the ceremony there was a brilliant wedding reception attended by two hundred or more friends of the families. The Johnson home was tastefully decorated for the event and presented a scene of rare beauty. The newly wedded couple were assisted in receiving by Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Johnson, Miss Fleida Johnson, maid of honor, Mr. James M. Sinclair, best man, and Miss Anne E. Brewer, of Pittsboro.

Numerous handsome and useful gifts attested the high esteem in which the young couple is held by many friends. The bride and bridegroom left on train No. 38 for a wedding trip to Washington, New York and other points of interest.

Mr. Sinclair is a member of the staff of the Industrial News and has made many friends since locating in Greensboro two years ago. His bride is an accomplished and handsome young lady, possessing those traits which readily win and hold friends.

EQUIPMENT LARGELY INCREASED.

Greensboro Electric Company Practically Doubling Its Capacity—Work Well Under Way.

The Greensboro Electric Company has undertaken improvements which will mean that within a very short time it will have the best single track railway system in the South. The company has bought a 500-horse power engine, a Westinghouse street railway machine, and they have already arrived and are being installed at the power house by a large force of workmen, who will be kept at work night and day, and the additional equipment will be in place and ready for service by the morning of July 1st.

The installation of this additional equipment will represent the expenditure of thousands of dollars and the capacity will be more than doubled. Further than this the company will give its entire power plant a general and complete overhauling and everything will be put in duplicate, so that in case of a breakdown the relay machinery can be pressed into service upon a moment's notice, causing no loss of time for the street cars or for the patrons of the company.

This improvement would have been made months ago but for the fact that the Greensboro Electric Company has a signed contract with the Whitney Power Company to furnish electric power for Greensboro, and in this contract there is a heavy penalty if the power is not brought here from the Whitney plant on the Yadkin river and connected up by August 1st. The Greensboro Electric Company, however, upon learning that the Whitney Company was placed in the hands of a receiver some time ago, thus making it uncertain when the power from the Yadkin would be forthcoming, set about to provide equipment for generating its own power here and the result was the purchase of this additional machinery.

With the installation of this engine and street railway machine the officers of the company state that they will experience no further difficulty in the matter of power and will be enabled to give a superior service and one which will cause no complaint.

Washing or Eroding of Farm Lands.

One of the most important agricultural problems that confronts the farmer in the middle portion or Piedmont section of the state, and one that is intimately connected with successful farming is the constant washing or erosion which takes place from hillside farm lands. By far the larger portion of the lands in this Piedmont section of the state are hillside lands and thus subject to erosion. This is one of the greatest drawbacks to successful farming, for while it is possible for one to have a good and productive farm on level lands, which is easily kept up, it requires a man of much greater capacity to operate a farm profitably under adverse conditions which prevail in the South where hillside farming is practiced. The extent of erosion from the farm lands of the Piedmont plateau region is indicated by the enormous amount of soil which is yearly washed away in the muddy rivers. If this section it amounts to more than four million tons a year and it has a value, based on the amount of plant food and humus in it, of $2,000,000.

A bulletin has been prepared by the North Carolina Geological and Economic Survey entitled Terracing of Farm Lands, which discusses this erosion and the methods of lessening it. It explains why certain soils erode more easily than others and then shows why lands in the Southern states are so much more subject to erosion than lands in the Northeastern states. The two most important reasons for this are: The heavy rainfall of the Southern states which frequently takes place in concentrated showers; and second, the close texture of the soils. The various cultural methods of lessening erosion are also discussed with special reference to lands used for growing cotton, corn and tobacco and this is followed with a description of the different methods of terracing and dicing lands, which are used where the cultural methods are inadequate.

There is a discussion of the kinds of lands to which different forms of terraces are adapted. The hillside ditch, which is in such common use, is regarded as being of little value, since it occupies much land without checking erosion. The method of constructing terraces is shown and also the value and use of hillside and reversible disk plows in relation to hillside farming.

In conclusion, the opinion is expressed that lands which are too steep to be terraced should not be cleared but should be kept in forest. Suggestions are given respecting the best methods of reclaiming badly washed land for farm use as well as for planting out in trees, which often seems the best policy.

If any one desiring suggestions and assistance in regard to replanting such washed lands in trees, will correspond with the State Geologist or Forester, Chapel Hill, N. C., such information will be sent to them.

The census of 1880 gives more than a million acres of waste land in the middle part of the state, practically all of which is washed farm lands.

A copy of this bulletin can be obtained by writing the State Geologist at Chapel Hill and enclosing four cents in stamps to cover mailing charges.

Pomona, Guilford County, N. C.,
March, 27th, 1908.

Mr. Sides,
Dear Sir:
I am thinking you would like to hear how I am getting along after using the new remedy you and Mr. Yates so kindly had me to use. After nearly four months of suffering with rheumatism and kidney complaint, and everything done for me which only relieved for the time being, I am now using the Band, which seemed to help me at once. At the time my feet, knees and hips were so swollen that I could not walk a step. As soon as I put it on there was a heating sensation all over my system, and in one week I was surprised that the swelling was going out, and I could sleep. In two weeks I could walk around the room, the third week I could go where I pleased. I feel stiff in my knees somewhat, but that is going out fast. You may think this is quick work, but it is nevertheless true. My family and neighbors will testify the same. They all know I have suffered all winter, and I feel very grateful to you both, for what this remedy has done for me, and will recommend it to all suffering as I have.
Respectfully yours,
A. D. V. LEIGH.

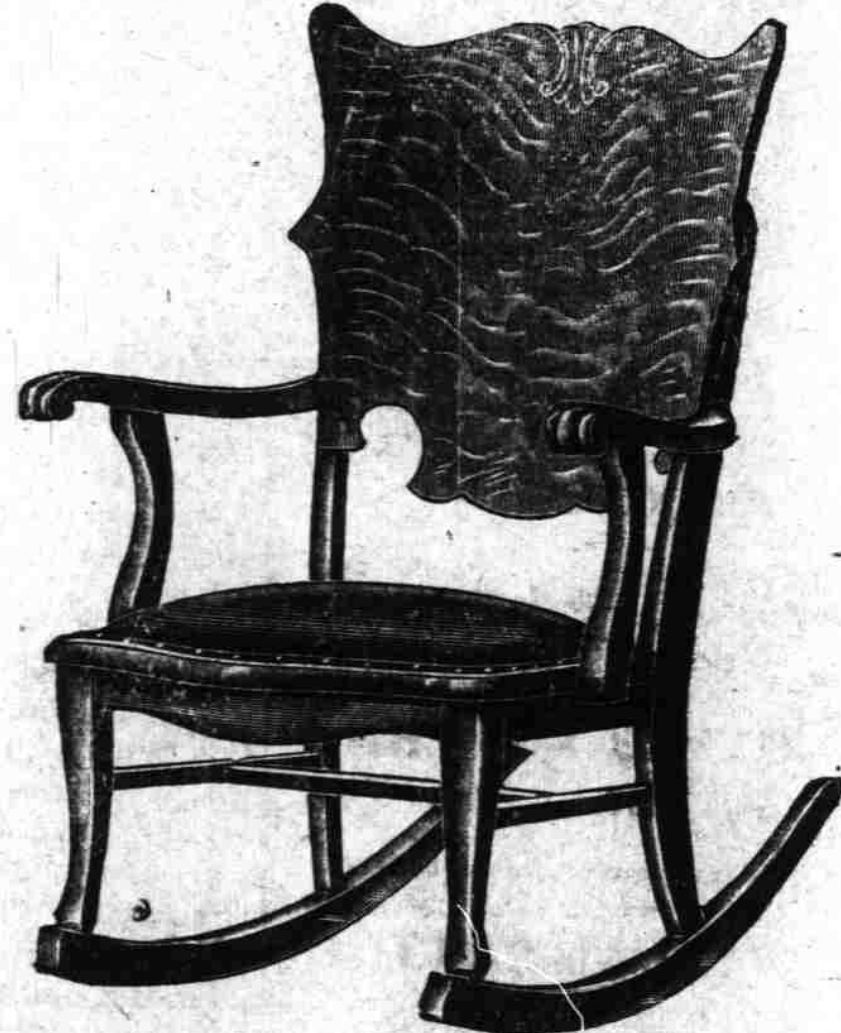

Why don't you profit by the experience of others? Your family doctor is all right, and will do all he can for you, but he cannot cure that rheumatism. I have cured hundreds of hopeless cases with my wonderful Band, dozens of them right here in Greensboro, and in Guilford county. Write today for full information and terms.
