Miss Allie Cole, a young woman who came to Greensboro from Georgia a few months ago and took a position as saleslady in Hagan's china store, created quite a sensation in Clegg's uptown cafe Sunday night, when she attempted to commit suicide by swallowing poison. She went into the place with a gentleman friend, who, after giving an order for supper, went to the postoffice, about half a block distant. During the absence of her friend, Miss Cole took the poison, informing a party of young men at an adjoining table of what she had done and adding that the act was entirely voluntary on her part. A physician was hurriedly summoned, and by the prompt use of restoratives and a stomach pump, the young woman's life was saved.
