

MR. FARMER

DO YOU KNOW THAT you suffer from heat on Sundays more than any other day of the week. You go all the week thinly and comfortably clad, and when Sunday comes you put on your heavy winter suit and stiff bosom shirt and go to church prepared to sweat.

Now what you should have for summer Sundays and other days off from work is muslin underwear with short sleeves and short drawers, thin silk sox, a mohair or Palm Beach suit, a nice Straw Hat and a few of our wash silk ties. You'll be surprised to find how many pleasures there are to enjoy on Sunday. Our prices are not only in your reach but very reasonable. Come in and drink ice water with us and be sociable.

LOCAL NEWS

The membership of the Greensboro Young Men's Christian Association has grown from 509 to 803 during the past year, which is considered a very good showing.

The protracted meeting at Peace Lutheran church will begin the third Sunday in this month. Two services will be held Sunday and on the following days until further notice.

Mrs. J. T. Hedgepeth, who underwent an operation for appendicitis several days ago at St. Leo's hospital, has recovered sufficiently to be removed to her home on North Cedar street.

Mr. E. C. Barrow, who holds a position in the local offices of Bradstreet's, has been called to Louisburg on account of the death of his father, Mr. J. S. Barrow, who passed away at the age of 92 years.

A lawn party will be given at the manse of Alamance Presbyterian church Friday night, the 18th. Recitations will be given by several members of the Young People's Society. Refreshments will be served. No admission fee will be charged.

Mr. J. A. Davidson, county auditor and superintendent of roads, will go to Morehead City July 31 to attend a state good roads convention. He has accepted an invitation to address the convention and tell something of the progress of good roads work in Guilford county.

Mrs. C. A. Boone, who had been ill for some time, died Saturday night at her home at Elon College. She was 70 years old and is survived by her husband, Rev. C. A. Boone, and four children. She was an aunt of Messrs. J. B. and Moody Stroud and Mrs. E. D. Broadhurst, of this city.

Rev. J. D. Andrew, the new president of Catawba College, will preach at Mt. Hope Reformed church, in eastern Guilford, next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. This is Mr. Andrew's old home church and the people of the community are always glad to have him come back among them.

Miss May Potter, one of the oldest women in the county, died at her home near Jamestown Sunday afternoon. She was over 80 years of age and in her younger years was a well known school teacher. She was a devoted member of the Society of Friends. The funeral and interment took place at Deep River church Monday afternoon.

The loss of a Fourth of July celebration in Greensboro to T. C. Cox, a young man of Randolph county, amounted to $250 when he was fined in the Municipal court Monday for shooting a negro and carrying a concealed weapon. No appeal was taken from the court's judgment. The negro, Fletcher Trotter, was shot in the leg and will recover.

The colored people of the city are to have a public library. Andrew Carnegie will donate $10,000 for the building, the colored people will provide the site, and the city will give $1,000 a year, 10 per cent. of the Carnegie donation, for maintenance. The management of the institution will be in the hands of a board of trustees of colored citizens appointed by the city commissioners.

Sheriff Stafford and Deputies Shaw and Hobbs went out on a little raid Friday night and exhumed a coffin that had been buried in a cornfield about half a mile north-west of Hilltop. The still is of 75 gallons capacity and shows signs of long usage. It was brought to town and now reposes in the sheriff's office awaiting destruction on the orders of the county commissioners.

In the United States court Tuesday Judge Boyd signed the orders of adjudication in the bankruptcy cases of W. H. Ragan, of High Point; the Mt. Pleasant Manufacturing Company, of Kimesville, and the Columbia Furniture Company, of High Point. The matters were referred to Maj. J. E. Alexander, the referee in bankruptcy at Winston-Salem. The efforts to settle the estates without further proceedings in the bankruptcy court failed.

Rev. R. Murphy Williams announced during his sermon at the Church of the Covenant Sunday that the $50,000 permanent improvement fund for the Barjum Springs orphanage had been raised. His work is not yet complete, however, for one individual gift of $7,000 is counted in the sum total and was given upon condition that the full fund be raised without the $7,000. Therefore when that additional amount more is raised, the completed fund will be $57,000.

MEETING OF CLUB WOMEN.

Present Day Mat'ers of Vital Importance Considered.

At Guilford Battle Ground Friday afternoon, while thousands of interested spectators watched the balloon ascension and the maneuvers of the soldiers, a small but earnest band of women assembled in the pavilion to discuss certain matters of immediate importance, which, in their opinion, were worthy of the attention of thinking men and women everywhere. These quiet workers were members of the Woman's Club of Greensboro and members of some of the leading betterment associations of the county, who assembled by invitation of the Greensboro club to meet Miss Adelaide Fries, of Winston-Salem, president of the North Carolina State Federation of Women's Clubs.

One of the needs of this county and every other county in the state, in the estimation of these women, is a training school for unruly and wayward boys, who are not vicious or of criminal instincts, but who for various reasons cannot be controlled at home. Miss Anna Meade Michaux, with whom such a training school for Guilford has long been a hobby, and who was the inspiration of the bill which passed the last legislature authorizing the establishment of such institutions where desired, by county commissioners, was present at the meeting and spoke, briefly of her personal observations and experience among boys of this class. The ladies were asked to talk seriously with their husbands along this line and to see to it that Guilford led in this as in other reform measures.

Mrs. Al Fairbrother called attention to a recent press dispatch in which it was stated that the National Tailors and Dressmakers' Association had approved as the new fall style a dress skirt which measured less than a yard around and having a bottom cuff similar to men's trousers. As it would be impossible to take a step—even a very short and painful one—in a dress skirt less than eighteen inches wide, the skirt adopted by the tailors and dressmakers as the correct thing would be slit to a comfortable length and have "pistol pockets" to give the added touch of smartness.

While sensible, conservative women, who recognize the importance of correct dress and up-to-date attire, have no quarrel with the reasonably narrow straight skirt, as at present worn, viewed from points of comfort, style and economy, they indignantly resent this attempt of professional fashion makers, according to one of the local club women, to force upon them a dress which oversteps the bounds of womanly modesty, encouraging the regrettable growing tendency on the part of some young girls and thoughtless women towards indecent exposure of person with all its degrading consequences. It was the unanimous opinion of all present that it was time for intelligent women to assert their rights in the matter of how far they would submit to this form of oppression, and that good women everywhere should be called upon to disapprove and discountenance the "scant dressing" now in vogue, which is offensive alike to the good taste of men and women, and which, as many of the more fashionable reports, has become a public scandal.

Mrs. McLean, of the Pomona Betterment Association, explained that the scant dressing was finding its way into the rural districts, as well as in the cities, and she was in cordial sympathy with any movement which would bring to the attention of mothers and others in charge of young girls the necessity of taking a decided stand against this insidious foe to maidenly modesty and the dignity and purity of true womanhood.

At the suggestion of Miss Fries, it was decided to take up this matter seriously with all club women, through the social service department of the North Carolina State Federation and other state federations will be asked to join with them in this earnest protest against the latest threatened outrage.

Mrs. R. L. Justice announced an added attraction to the Central Carolina fair this year in the form of a better baby exhibit, under the auspices of the Woman's Club of Greensboro. In this contest a healthy body and physical development will be the things that count rather than beauty and pretty dresses.

Miss Rebecca Schenck explained the mystery of the fly and mosquito, showing how easily both could be exterminated in the country if proper precautions were used.

Mrs. L. B. Jeter gave experiences as a civic worker long before the Woman's Club was organized, and did not forget the county hitching lot, which, she insisted, did not get the attention it deserved.

Mrs. D. H. Blair, as regent of the local chapter D. A. R., was sure there were many women living in Guilford who were direct descendants of those who fought on that historic battle-field. She urged them to organize and take a more personal and patriotic interest in the Battle Ground. Representatives from the betterment associations of Summerfield, Pomona and McLeansville reported fine work done during the past year, and bright prospects for the future. Miss Fries talked interestingly of the work of the North Carolina Federation of Women's Clubs, showing how all could help each other by concert of action and united effort.

Lightning Bolt Photographed.

The photograph of a bolt of lightning which struck the First Presbyterian church during the storm of last Thursday evening, a curious memento of the occurrence, is held by Capt. J. W. Fry, who was the amateur photographer. The bolt was caught as it flashed from the clouds and apparently entered the bell tower. The church was not damaged, as far as the eye could detect, but burned out light fuses and motors which pump the air for the pipe-organ and provide the artificial ventilation showed that the lightning had done its work.
