Some More of Them In Need of Bank Sense
From the Salisbury Post
Lincoln Beachy, the birdman, lost $6,000 while he was sailing around up in the air the other day. He left the money in his room at the hotel and some one who needed it and did not care for nice distinctions took the money while Beachy flew his machine. A few days before this a Rowan county farmer lost his pocket-book, more than $200 in money and several notes. Pockets are all right for carrying 25-cent Barlow knives in, but when it comes to money and valuable papers they are out of place. Beachy and the Rowan county farmer ought to each establish more cordial and friendly relations with some good bank.
Your money will be safe in our vaults and will earn you 4 per cent interest.

He is to report weekly to the referee, giving an itemized account of the operations.

The Patriot received too late for insertion in last week's paper a notice of a "shadown social" to be given at the Brown Summit school, by the teacher and pupils, Saturday night. Halloween festivities will be the order of the night and all who attend may rest assured of spending a pleasant evening. A postscript to the notice says that every girl is expected to "bring a box with supper for two."

The teachers of the colored public schools of Guilford county held a meeting in the court house annex Saturday and elected officers for the ensuing year as follows: President, S. T. Waugh, of Poplar Grove; vice president, F. L. Eckles, of Goshen; secretary, Lavinia Waugh, of Bass Chapel; assistant secretary, Dora Nichols, of Jacksonville; treasurer, W. H. Foust, of Whitsett. At the meeting plans were discussed for the year's work.

Work is to be started soon on the large addition to the Dixie building, at the corner of South Elm and East Sycamore streets. Already one of the largest and handsomest office buildings in the state, the Dixie building is to have an addition fronting 50 feet on East Sycamore street, extending the width of the building, 42 feet, and being six stories high. The new structure will be a continuation of the architectural design of the Dixie building.

The appeal of John E. Fogleman, who was convicted recently in Guilford Superior court of second degree murder for killing W. H. Tucker and sentenced to the penitentiary for 30 years, was argued before the Supreme court Tuesday. Col. John A. Barringer and Judge W. P. Bynum appeared for Fogleman and the state was represented by Attorney General Eickett. Fogleman is at liberty under a bond of $7,500 pending the result of his appeal.

Effective Sunday, November 16, it has been announced by the Southern Railway Company that a new train, to be known as the "Atlanta special" will be placed in service in connection with the Pennsylvania Railroad, and will be operated between New York and Atlanta. The new train will run on the present schedule of trains 37 and 38, leaving Atlanta at 11 A. M., central time, and arriving at New York at 12:16, eastern time; leaving New York at 4:35 eastern time and arriving at Atlanta at 5 P. M. central time.

Mr. J. G. Kellum, a member of the board of control of Florida's educational institutions, was in Greensboro last week to inspect the buildings, equipment and management of the State Normal and Industrial College with a view of applying the methods of the institution to the schools of Florida. The board of control, of which he is secretary, has entire control of the higher educational institutions of his state. Mr. Kellum has visited a number of other schools in states of the Atlantic seaboard. He said that the democratic spirit of the State Normal College impressed him above everything else. Other things were gratifying and he found nothing to displease, but this one thing stood out apart from the others in North Carolina's college for women.

Greensboro's Low Death Rate.
The Washington correspondent of the Greensboro Daily News sends his paper the following interesting news item: "Mortality statistics for Greensboro in 1910 were the lowest of any town in North Carolina with a population of 10,000 or more, according to a report issued by the census bureau today. There were only 305 deaths in the Gate City for that period against 605 for Charlotte, which was the highest rate for the state. Winston-Salem was next to Greensboro, with a total of 352; Asheville, 370; Durham, 363; Raleigh, 537, and Wilmington, 538."

PRACTICAL WORK IN SCHOOLS.

Interesting Subjects Discussed by Grammar Grade Teachers.

A very interesting and helpful meeting of the grammar grade division of the Guilford County Teachers' Association was held at the Pomona graded school Saturday morning, beginning at 10:30 o'clock. Miss Millis, president of the division, presided and talks were made by Prof. E. E. Balcomb, of the Normal College; Mr. E. H. Anderson, commissioner of agriculture of Guilford county; Mrs. T. N. Sellers, of the Longview school, and others.

Prof. Balcomb proposed more practical work in the schools. He suggested that the teachers attempt cooking school lunches in the cooking classes in the schools where domestic science is being taught. He also spoke of agriculture and its teaching in the schools as the development of a science, that if done in the right way it will develop into a science. For demonstration work, window plants, flower pits, boxes packed with straw, etc., were suggested; for gardening, radishes, lettuce, turnips, onions, etc., were suggested to be grown on the school grounds.

In Mr. Anderson's talk he brought out the fact that drudgery of country life could be eliminated by the teaching of that subject in the schools. He said that the teaching of plant life, the germination of seeds, would be something interesting to start with. The study of soils, organic and inorganic, should be studied. He spoke of the county agricultural work and its relation to the farm, and expressed himself as hoping to do much work in aiding the teachers and asked the co-operation of them in his work.

Mrs. Sellers spoke of the work in the one-teacher schools. She told of how she encourages the little ones to hunt Indian relics and mount them, teaching thereby geology and history, as well as soils. She told of the chickens she is raising, and also of the care of the horses that the children drive to school; of how the boys ask for butterflies on the agricultural subjects. She works from the home basis rather than from the text theory. She teaches the girls to study foods, prices and preparation.

Miss Huldah Marshall, of the Pomona school, told of her work there. She takes her classes to a farm for test work, and uses books, papers, bulletins, etc., in her class work, using the debating contest to get the pupils to do a great deal of reading. She also uses greenhouses as observation work. At one time she took her classes to the terra cotta factory to get object lessons in drainage and then applied the knowledge. She said that gardening was the most interesting part of her work. She told of how she surveyed the plots, drained the ground by trenches, and each child chose his own vegetable he wanted to cultivate. They tested seeds in this garden, sending to Washington for seeds.

The meeting closed with much enthusiasm for practical work in the schools. A delightful course of refreshments was served by the cooking class of the school.

Methodist Protestants to Vote on Union.

The North Carolina Conference of the Methodist Protestant church will convene in High Point Wednesday, November 19, for its annual session. The question of most interest to be considered by the conference is the proposition to unite the Methodist Protestant and United Brethren denominations. The United Brethren General Conference has voted unanimously in favor of union and 14 of the 25 Methodist Protestant annual conferences have voted favorably on the proposition. The other conferences will vote between now and December 1, and if at that time it is shown that two-thirds of the annual conferences favor the proposition the General Conference, which does not meet in regular session until 1906, will be called in special session to ratify this action, after which, at a joint conference of the two bodies, the union will be consummated.

With thirteen wounds in his intestines, Earl Barber, colored, died at the Twin-City hospital, in Winston-Salem, Saturday night, after lying for quite a little while after being shot by an unknown negro. Gambling was the cause of the trouble.

DISTRIBUTION OF SEED.

To Make Guilford a Great Grain Growing County.

A notice in The Patriot last week stated that Mr. Garland Daniel, secretary of the Central Carolina Fair Association, had a quantity of seed wheat, oats, etc., that was exhibited at the recent fair for distribution among farmers of Guilford county who would agree to plant the seed and make an exhibit of the yield at the fair next fall. The efforts of the management of the fair to encourage in this way the raising of more and better grain in Guilford are bearing fruit, and quite a number of the county's best farmers have applied to Mr. Daniel for an allotment of the seed. The following are among those who have shared in the distribution:

Arthur O'Connor, Greensboro Route 1, red wheat; J. Ed Hodgin, Greensboro Route 1, white and black peas, white and winter oats; J. B. Cobb, Greensboro Route 3, white and red wheat; Joseph G. Hodgin, Greensboro Route 1, black peas; J. R. Coggins, Guilford College Route 1, white peas; G. A. Grimsley, Greensboro, red and white wheat; C. P. Love, Greensboro Route 5, white wheat; George Wakefield, Greensboro Route 1, red wheat; L. B. Coltrane, Greensboro Route 1, white wheat and winter oats; W. J. Whiteley, Greensboro Route 6, winter oats and red wheat; Jule H. Sharpe, Greensboro Route 6, wheat and oats; E. A. Bennett, Liberty Route 1, white and red wheat; John E. Hodgin, Greensboro Route 1, winter oats and red wheat; H. L. Hanner, Pleasant Garden Route 1, white oats and red wheat; C. J. Moser, Greensboro Route 6, winter oats and white wheat; C. C. Parker, Greensboro Route 6, white wheat; L. C. Scott, Greensboro Route 6, red wheat and rust proof oats; Mrs. N. E. Rankin, Greensboro Route 4, white and black peas, red wheat and rye, black oats; J. C. Sharpe, Greensboro Route 6, black and rust proof oats, rye and white peas; J. D. Gorrell, Greensboro Route 6, black oats and white wheat; J. C. Anderson, Greensboro, winter oats; W. G. Shippis, Gibsonville, red wheat; M. E. Futrell, Greensboro Route 3, white wheat; N. M. Knight, Guilford College, red wheat.

Charles N. Vance, of Black Mountain, a son of the late Senator Zeb Vance, is seeking an appointment in the diplomatic service of the government.

Rotating Crops

On one farm where one certain crop was grown for a number of years, there were grown during 1913, seventeen different crops. This farmer has been learning the secret of rotation.

In deciding what to grow, we believe the farmers of this community would find much interesting information in the condensed Monthly Report issued by this bank, which is sent free to those who request it. We have this report prepared for the benefit of our customers and friends and no charge is made for the service rendered.
