A YOUNG LADY FATALLY SHOOTS A YOUNG TION OF THE MOTIVE FOR THE DEED.

A bloody tragedy was enacted at Lumberton, Roberson-county, yesteragain. He was now eight and twenty, day morning, the particulars of which was receiving the attention of Mr. ·E. Hartman, a well known young man, also a resident of Lumberton, but at man, with a grovery house in Baltimore. Their relations[seemed to be pleasant then, and subsequently, so in town. Yester-lay morning Miss Linklaw stepped into the parlor of the hotel and asked to see Mr Hartman. That gentleman responded promptly to the call. As he entered the room. she arose and extended her hand. He grasped it firmly, and while the two were standing, facing each other, Miss Linkhaw drew a pistol and fired at him, the ball entering his body, in the immediate vicinity of the heart.
