Sanctum Notes.

The Wilmington 'Journal' since its enlargement is the largest daily in the State.

We would impress upon the people the necessity of being retrained at once if they have heretofore neglected it.

The National Hotel at Raleigh, under the management of Mr. A. J. Partin, we feel sure will rank high among the Houses of entertainment, and will deserve success.

We heartily endorse the action of the County Commissioners in paying Dr. Crenshaw for his services rendered to those afflicted with the small pox.

Our Sanctum was honored one day this week with the presence of Mr. William Lewis of the Raleigh 'Sentinel.'

We see from the Rocky Mount 'Mail' that Mr. W. L. Thorp has been associated with Mr. Stillee on that paper.

WILMINGTON STAR.—This paper though not many years old is one of the best dailies in the State, and well merits the support it receives.

Clippings.

The Washington correspondent of the New York Times says that Messrs. Fish, Boutwell and Williams will retire of their own accord from the Cabinet on the 24th of March next.

The New York Herald speaking of the condition of the south says that such corruption and anarchy as exist now in the South are not only in that section, not only creak its progress and material interests, and therefore prove damaging to the business interests of the North, but they are infectious, and must in the end demoralize the whole R-public.

An exchange says that there are only 80,000 different shades of ribbon from which you can select a trimming to match your duck of a bonnet.

Kiss Me Quick.—Washington society, it is said, will enjoy this winter a order of hop, known as a kiss quadrille, wherein each gentleman kisses his partner swinging around the corners; and morally inclined people congratulate themselves that it is a refreshing improvement on the round dances.

An exchange says that the rivers above emptying into the Ohio are flooding. The people of Cincinnati are moving goods from low places in anticipation of a flood.

The colored people of Washington are "guine to tend dat nagural ball or dare won't be any more v-t-i-g by colored men."

The old Year had a mournful tragic ending in Charlotte. About noon of the 21st an explosion of the boiler of the Mecumburg Spoke and Handle Factory took place, and six operatives were scalded, three of them fatally.

The young son of Mr. Lewis, the superintendent is one of the latter. Four of the women led people are negroes, two of whom received mortal injuries.

It is to be regretted that the mother who is supposed to account for the accident, it had not been in use for several years. Man is ever recklessly toying with death.—Ex.

What The Papers Say.

THE CREAM OF CURRENT COMMENT.

[New York Evening Post.]

THE PRESIDENT MAKING BAD HISTORY.

In his day, Tiberius (Caesar was not an unpopular man, apparently. Plutarch enveloped him. All he did was right in the sycophantic eye. Caligula, even, had his flatterers.

The President is now hiding himself under the robes of his Attorney General, but the robes will soon rot, and only Gen. Grant will be seen and known.

It is this Louisiana movement anything to his reputation. When some future Plutarch, or Tacitus, or Hume, or Riberon, or Guicardini, or Rollins, writes history, will they not gibbet him?

Editor Columbia Enquirer: Seeing a notice of "Revelations of a Pardoned Ku Klux Prisoner" who arrived in Washington City in a dying condition, I am prompted to write to you.

First, a more perfect, unassuming gentleman I never knew—kind generous and courageous.

Second, as a father and husband, he was all you could ask for to make a home happy and contented—a pleasant place for the home circle.

Third, as a business man and tradesman, he was ever regarded as courteous, prompt, fair, honest, and disposed to serve his friends at all times.

I boarded with him nearly twelve months, and I know whereof I speak. I cannot but love him, guilty or innocent against his country, State or country knowingly.

To the family and friends of R. G. Young, I tender my heartfelt sympathies, for truly "a good man has fallen" and I cannot but say, with all his friends who knew him, that the blood of Reuben Griffin Young is upon the heads of those who are opposed to good government, and I fully believe they will be punished.

Yours truly, HIRAK.

SOMETHING ABOUT THE WAR.—The following is taken from the "Supplement report of the joint committees on the conduct of the war" (Vol. 1. page 287):

Washington, D. C. 18, 1864. Major General W. T. Sherman, Savannah: Should you capture Charleston, I hope that by some accident the place may be destroyed, and if a little salt should be sown upon its site it may prevent the future crop of nullification and secession.

The following is the reply of Gen. Sherman: [Vol. 1. page 291]

He is a member of the Mississippi. In the field, Savannah, Dec. 24, 1864.

Extract: "I will bear in mind your hint be necessary. When I move the Fifteenth Corps will be on the right wing, and their position will bring them naturally into Charleston first, and if you have watched the history of that corps, you will have remarked that they generally do their work well."

The truth is the whole army in burning to wreak their vengeance on South Carolina. I almost tremble at her fate, but feel she deserves all that seems in store for her.

Let the girl be good to look at, not too plump of musick, a firm disbeliever in ghosts, and one of six children in the family.

Look well to the karaktjer of her father, see that he is not the member of any club, don't let on clekshups, and gets shaved at least three times a week.

Find out all about her mother, see if she has got a leas of good common sense, study well her likes and dislikes, eat sum of her hum-made bread and apple dumplings, notice whether she abuses all of her nabors, ask her s-vants how long they have lived there, and don't fail to observe whether her dresses are last year's ones fit over.

If you are satisfied that the mother would make the right kind of a mother-in-law, you can safely konclude that the daughter would make the right kind of wife.

After these preliminaries are all settled, and you have done reasonable amount of spaking, ask the young lady for her heart and hand, and if she refuses, you can consider yourself euechered.

It on the contrary, she should say yes, get married at once, without any fuss and feathers, and proceed to take the chances.

I say take the chances, for there aint no respice for a pekerk wife, enny more than there iz for a pekerk husband.

There iz just as menny good wifs as there iz good husbands, and I never knew two people; married or single, who were determined to make them selves agreeable to each other, but what they sukceded.

Name yure oldest boy sum good stout name not after sum hero, but should the first boy be a girl, i ask it as a favor to me that you kaul her Rebecker.

I do want some of them good, old-fashioned, tuff girl names revived and extended.

wealth," then, we utter in prayer, with a fervency we never felt before in matters purely political and social.

What most distresses us in this great exigency is not alone the subversion of the civil government by military power but the comparative indifference of the R-publican lawyers and the Republican scholars and scientists of the country, to this great Revolution in our Republic—all the more perilous, we may add, for the future because of the same acquiescence of the President.

Republican men of eminence have little to say against it. Some of them, to be sure, feelingly remonstrated, but the great body of them demonstrate that their party is concerned the love of liberty and of constitutional and civil law is very subordinate.—Express.
