

Good Things.

A centennial work—A dime novel
 Farewell performances—Good meals.
 To keep warm—Keep the furnace cooled.
 "I have very little respect for the ties of this world," as the chap said when the rope was round his neck.
 "She has a magnificent voice for a fog-whistler," is a portion of a western description of a local prima donna.
 "C-o-c-can that p-p-p-parrot talk?" asked a stammering man of a German.
 "Ven he don't talk so gooter as you, I chop his heart off."
 A gentleman late one evening met his servant "Hallo! where are you going at this time of night? for no good I'll warrant!" "I was going for you, sir."

"Mother, I'm afraid a fever would go hard with me." Why my son?
 "Cause you see, mother, I'm so small that there wouldn't be room for it to turn."
 Trying to do business without advertising is like winking at a pretty girl through a pair of green goggles; you may know what you are doing, but nobody else does.
 A drunken man, having vomited in a basket containing goslings warming by the fire place, exclaimed in consternation, "My God, wife, when'd I swallow them things!"

A dandy with cigar in his mouth entered a menagerie, when the proprietor requested him to take the weed from his mouth, lest he should teach other monkeys bad habits.
 A man who won't complain, when his wife crawls out about midnight and takes the heaviest blankets of the bed to wrap around her plants, is lacking in all the noble qualities of a free agent.

Some women get up a reputation for amiability by taking a little boy into the omnibus with them and making him stand up and give his seat to somebody about twenty times during the trip.
 "I shall soon die, Cuffy—I must soon set out upon a long journey," said a sick man to his old negro servant.
 "Berry well," replied Cuffy; "I guess massa had good going, 'cause it be all way down hill."

The remark of a little eight-year old is in accordance with the wishes of many people. "Mother, she said, 'I wish I was built like a hencoop, out of laths, and then the breeze could blow right through me.'"
 "On which side of the platform is my train?" asked a stranger in a depot the other day.
 "Well, my friend," replied a gentleman passing, "if you take the left you'll be right; if you take the right, you'll be left."

"What are you going to do about it?" asked David of a friend who had been smashed up in a railroad disaster and terribly injured. "Well," gasped the hopeful sufferer, "firstly, I shall go in for repairs; secondly, I shall go in for damages."
 A young woman has an artificial jaw, and a contemporary asks if she wore the other one out. Of course she did, and she has already worn the new one out, too. You don't suppose she would leave it at home when she went out, do you?

"I know something," replied an urban chin, with a significant look. "Well, my son, what do you know?" replied the pastor. "I know where there is a bird's nest," says the boy; "but I shan't tell you, for fear you will steal the eggs."
 John Henry's wife wrote him, in mosquito time, that she had "fifteen bites;" and as she forgot to cross her t, John went raving round like a raving lunatic. He didn't care so much about her having "fifteen," as he did about her spelling "em so."

"Well, Cuffer," said a minister to his colored servant, "what were you doing in meeting this afternoon?" "Doing, massa? Taking notes," was his reply. "You taking notes?" exclaimed the master "Sartin, massa; all the gentlemen take notes." "Well, let me see them," said he. Cuffer thereupon produced his sheet of paper, and his master found it scrawled all over with all sorts of marks and lines, as though a dozen of spiders, dipped in ink, had marched over it. "Why, this all nonsense," said the minister, as he looked at the notes. "Well, massa," Cuffer replied, "I thought so all the time you was preaching."

A boot-black's father says he never enjoyed himself more than when he sees the "son shine."
 An old farmer riding along in a lumber wagon with his son, when passing over a rough place, fell off, and coming in close contact with the wheel he cried out, "My neck is broke!" His son expressing some doubt as to his case being quite so bad, the old man responded with some spirit, "Don't you s'pose I know?"

SIX REASONS WHY YOU SHOULD INSURE IN THE PENN MUTUAL LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY.
 921 CHESTNUT STREET, PHILADELPHIA.
 1st. Because it is one of the oldest companies in the country, and past the day of experiments.
 2d. Because every policy holder is a member of the Company, entitled to all its advantages and privileges, having a right to vote at all elections for trustees, and thus has an influence in its management.
 3d. Because it has the largest accumulated fund of any Life Insurance Company in the State.
 4th. Because by economical management, its ratio of expenses to total income is far below the average of Life Companies. (See Official Insurance Reports.)
 5th. Because it has declared more dividends in number, and of a larger average percentage, than any Company in the United States.
 For example: Policy No. 16, for $5000, has been paid to the widow of a Philadelphia merchant, upon which twenty-three dividends had been declared, averaging fifty-seven per cent. Had these dividends been used to purchase additions to this policy, $5,046 more would have been realized—making the policy worth $11,046.
 6th. Because it is liberal in its management, prompt in its settlements, safe beyond a contingency, and its rates are as low as any first-class Company in the country.
 Principal Features.—Small expenses, absolute security, large return premiums, prompt payment of losses, and liberality to the insured.

HALL'S SELF-FEEDING COTTON GIN.
 The following are some of the reasons why HALL'S GINS are superior to all others:
 1st. It is most economical; it requires the attendance of no experienced ginner, and it pences with the labor of one hand.
 2d. It will pick more Cotton in a given length of time than any other Gin in use.
 3d. It never BREAKS THE ROLL, thereby losing no time, and making a more even and better sample.
 4th. It will run longer without whetting or sharpening; the Self-Feeder will not carry to the Saws any hard substance that will injure them, such as rocks, nails, sticks, hard unseasoned bolls, &c., which also render the danger from FIRE much less.
 5th. It picks the seed cleaner than any other Gin in use, thereby making a larger yield.
 We have in our possession the result of a test in which one pound of Lint Cotton was produced from two pounds, seven and one-half ounces of Seed Cotton. These Gins are perfect and complete in every particular, and are made to run at high speed. They can be found in almost any section in North Carolina where Cotton is grown.
