

LOCAL MATTERS.

We call the attention of our readers to the special notice of Messrs. King, White & Shaw.

Winston is to have a National Bank. We would like to make the same announcement about Louisa.

MARRIED.—On Thursday evening the 25th inst., at the residence of the bride's father, by the Rev. Mr. Gibbons, Mr. Geo. L. Strickland to Miss Cattie V. Conway.

Rev. J. W. Shackford of the M. E. Conference, was married to Miss Cora Kingsbury, daughter of T. B. Kingsbury Esq., of Oxford on the 25th of November last.

There will be no services in the M. E. Church on Sunday next, Rev. F. L. Reid, the preacher in charge being absent, in attendance on Conference, which is in session at Wilmington.

Clubs of Subscribers to the COURIER, are coming in every week, but we have a large mailing book and have room for more. Friends don't cease your efforts, until the COURIER is put in every family in the county.

Thanks to Mr. Geo. C. Jordan, business Manager of the Daily News for an invitation to the News Thanksgiving banquet, at the News Building, given complimentary to the Raleigh Board of Trade, on the 25th inst.

We noticed suspended in front of the door of one of our enterprising Snack Houses, the following articles: One apple, one orange, one sweet potato, one onion, one stick red candy, one herring, a piece beef steak, and a small piece of honey comb.

All read the Story on our first page from "Ethel," entitled "Two sides to every Question." This sparkling little story will be concluded in our next. We have a number of other novelets from this same writer which will appear from time to time in the COURIER.

The Oxford Leader under the management of the boy Editor (boy only in years) is one of the very best Weeklies in the State. Its columns sparkle with genuine good wit, and sound sense. The people of Oxford and the County ought to congratulate themselves on having such a paper in their county. Sustain it handsomely, men of Granville.

THE FRANKLIN COURIER.—This staunch and true Conservative Journal has dropped its patent outside, and comes to us very much improved.—We wish friend Baker great success. He deserves a liberal patronage, especially from the people of Franklin, whose interest he has toiled and faithfully watched and defended.—Wilson Advance

NEW STORE.—Messrs. Terrell & Harris, have moved in their New Brick Store on Main street. They have an entire New Stock of goods, and say they intend to sell them at the very bottom prices. Their store house is indeed an ornament to our town, being situated in a very prominent part of the town, and built after the modern style. The southern tenement is for the Post Office, and will be finished in a very short time, so the P. M. informs us. It will compare well with any Post office in the State.

RALEIGH DISTRICT HIGH SCHOOL.—The Board of Directors elected by the last District Conference, to open a district school in the building in our town known as the "Louisburg Female College," have met and organized, and we are glad to learn that they have taken steps which will undoubtedly result in securing an excellent gentleman, to take charge of the school, who will open his first session soon after Christmas. The Raleigh District is pledged to its support, and it the citizens of this town and county will cooperate with them in patronizing and building up the school, we will soon have here a first class school for young ladies. Let every man, woman and child work, walk, talk and think for this enterprise.

Col. J. M. Robinson, President of the Norfolk Bay Line of Steamers and a railroad man of great experience, has been elected president of the R. & G. Railroad, in place of Maj. Grice, who died recently.

BEAUTIFUL JEWELRY.—Mr. T. G. Lee, agent for Mr. Edward Fassach of Raleigh, has been in our town, with a handsome assortment of solid and plated jewelry, such as Watch chains, Breast pins, Earrings, Charms, Shirt buttons, Clocks &c. He will again have his goods on exhibition at the Eagle Hotel on Saturday next. We have examined most of his stock and he has some beautiful goods. Those wishing, anything in the jewelry line, will do well to call at the Hotel on Saturday, and examine Mr. Lee's stock.

NEW GOODS.—Messrs. White & Shaw have received this week large additions of new and desirable goods, suitable for all seasons, which they are selling at very low prices. Their advertisement reached us too late for this week's issue, but will appear in our next, so look out.

CANDY FACTORY.—Messrs. A. D. Royster & Bro., of Raleigh, have established a large manufactory for candies of all kinds. They have in their employ, Mr. Leonard, who thoroughly understands the business. They keep a large supply, and guarantee their prices as low as any market North.—This is a great inducement to merchants in this section, as in the item of freight they will save a good percent. These gentlemen are perfectly reliable, and will fill all orders promptly, and guarantee their goods to be fresh and pure. Then keep your money near home by sending your orders to Messrs. Royster & Bro., Fayetteville street, Raleigh, N. C., for anything you may want in the confectionery line.

We had the pleasure a few days since of seeing on our streets, Dr. John H. Mathewson, who visits our State after a sojourn of six years in Bastrop Texas. Louisburg was the scene of his youthful days and for a long time he was a student at our Male Academy. While passing through Galveston he met our former townsman Col. De Witt C. Stone, who is represented as exhibiting the same genial traits of character by which so many friends were won in our midst. Time has dealt gently with Dr. Mathewson although laboring assiduously in the duties of his profession and engaged in an extensive practice in Western Texas. Now that his foot is again on his native heath, we hope sufficient inducements will be offered to detain him within our borders.—Our State never relinquishes willingly any good citizen that (by prior possession) she has the right to claim.—While in our town Dr. M. was the guest of his uncle, Dr. Wm. M. Crenshaw.

Dr. A. H. McNair, who left his home in Tarboro during the late war to take up his residence in our town, and living in our place when the unhappy war closed, gave his silver plate and other valuables in possession of a gentleman here about the close of the war, with request that he conceal them in some safe place. The gentleman took the treasures and carried them some distance up the river and placed them as he supposed in a very secure place.—And after the excitement incident to the coming of the Yankee Army had died out, the gentleman went after the plate, but lo! some one had gone ahead of him and taken them away. On Monday last the bag containing the articles, 27 pieces plate and 5 oz. quinine were found by Mrs. Geo. Ransdell in the left or jury of her house. She immediately made known the fact to several of her neighbors, who identified the property as being Dr. McNair's. The Dr. has been written to, and we hope to see him soon in our place with his face all aglow with smiles and good humor, at the recovery of his lost goods.

A number of families have occupied this house since the war. Mr. Ransdell moved there during this year.

For the fiscal year ending June 30th 1876, North Carolina paid Internal Revenue taxes to the amount of $1,729, 984.

SAD ACCIDENT.—On Friday morning last a young man from Norfolk by the name of Charles States was killed by a falling tree at Armstrong's mill near Franklin, Va. The blow crushed in his skull. He leaves a wife and two children.—ROANOKE NEWS.

Mr. John Baxton Williams has been appointed one of the Vice Presidents of Roanoke and Tar River Agricultural Society. An excellent appointment.—WAR GAZETTE.

John Dial, a member of the Lowery Gang, who turned States evidence and convicted George Applewhite, is again at his old tricks, says the "Roanokean," and stole a fine horse at the Clinton Fair recently.

The Concord REGISTER says: The typhoid fever has been for some time and is still raging to an alarming extent in the lower part of this county and in portions of Stanly, and that quite a number of deaths have resulted from it.

A PREACHER TURNED COTTON THEIF.—On Sunday an effort was being made in the Panther Branch Township to capture "Rev." John Allison, a negro preacher, a great revivalist in that section, who had been guilty of stealing cotton from Mr. S. D. Williams. The person was last seen making tracks for other quarters in which to preach his bogus religion. Great indignation was expressed by his "brethren" at his unclerical conduct. It is hoped by the people of that vicinity that he did not preach what he practiced.—R. NEWS.

CHARGED WITH HIGHWAY ROBBERY.—Yesterday Mr. Richard Jones, of Holly Springs Township in this county, brought charges against J. Q. Bryant, of this city, of robbing his pockets by force on the street near Tupper's church on Saturday evening last, taking therefrom some $30. Mr. Jones did not know Bryant, but seeing him on the street yesterday recognized him, and upon his warrant Bryant was arrested and had a hearing before Mayor Manly. The accused was bound over in the sum of $500 for his appearance at the next term of the Superior Court for Wake. His commitment to jail was postponed until this morning in order to give him an opportunity to give bail.—R. NEWS.

He had selected the Medical Profession as his life work, and while in Baltimore attending lectures, he was attacked with that disease, whose touch is always fatal.—Consumption. Twelve months ago when he left home for Baltimore, his life was full of promise and hope, but before the Spring flowers had bloomed again, his friends were startled by the discovery that his days were numbered, and that in the very spring time of life he was to be "gathered to his fathers." At times, for several months before his death, he suffered very much, but he was never heard to complain. He fully realized his situation and while it must have been a great disappointment to him to be taken away on the threshold of his career, when the way of life was opening up so beautifully before him, yet he was never heard to murmur at his sad lot, and in his last hours there seemed to be a calm sweet resignation to the will of Him "who doeth all things well." His friends are comforted by the hope that he is now in that bright and happy world, where disease can never enter, and that his spirit is now resting "beneath the shade of the beautiful trees," mingling in sweet communion with loved ones who had passed over the River before him.

Another new style in wool costumes we find longer over-skirts are worn than in early fall. A new one, termed the "scarf over-skirt" is right pretty, simple and requires but little cloth.—This is merely a straight long apron, square and open at the back; it has a folded scarf of the same material, made of four up-turned folds, and fastened at the sides; a large pocket is placed upon one side, made in three large plaits, and finished with an ornamental quilting below. Another over-skirt is shirred at the back, and has a broad front of a contrasting color, while the over-skirt is turned back in revers on each side of it, and ornamented with buttons down each entire edge and still another has three cornered shawl-shaped sash at the back, trimmed all around and plaited on the sides of the apron front, it is then arranged in drapery to please each individual taste.

We lay in the above given you a hint of the most popular over-skirts that have recently appeared.—With the over-skirt of revers, is worn a pretty double-breasted cuirass, the front being shield-shaped and of the same material that forms the front of the over-skirt, and usually the trimming of skirt and sleeves is of the same material. We know of no prettier style for combination costumes than this.

To those who have not lost their love for polonaise, the welcome news is given that they again appear among the new importations. Thus far the "princess" is the favorite shape, and they are quite conspicuous from their lack of bouffant drapery. In many of these new garments, the exact form of the marguerite polonaise is given in the back. So there are many with these polonaises laid aside who may hope to see them revived.

Green is among the colors so long discarded that are brought out fashionably this season. And the brightest and greenest of greens are sought after for evening dresses, while myrtle green in solid colors, and green and black checks, are considered most desirable for the street.

We earnestly request all persons who are indebted to us, to come forward and pay up. Our firm having been dissolved nearly a year ago, its business must be settled. Those who do not settle before the first of January next, may expect to find their claims in the hands of a collector.

We will send the COURIER and Godey's Lady's Book, with beautiful Oil chromo "Romance," 12 months for $4.50.

OBITUARY.

DIED in Franklinton on Saturday the 27th day November 1875 at 10 o'clock A. M., William W. Kearney, in the twenty-third year of his age. He was intelligent, amiable and generous to a fault. No young man in the community had so strong a hold upon the affections of the people.—When it became known in the village that he was dead, at once the doors of all the stores were closed, and business was entirely suspended in the place for the balance of the day.

He was buried on Sunday evening with the beautiful ceremony of the order of Odd Fellows. A large concourse of people from the village and the surrounding country for many miles distant assembled to assist in this last sad service for one whom they loved so well: We have often heard it said of one recently deceased, that "he or she died without an enemy." More than this can be said of Willie Kearney. Every one who knew him felt kindly toward him. He was universally a favorite. To know him was to love him; yet no one would ever say that he did anything for the sake of popularity. He was as soft and gentle in his manner as a refined woman, and he had a high regard for the feelings of others.

He had selected the Medical Profession as his life work, and while in Baltimore attending lectures, he was attacked with that disease, whose touch is always fatal.—Consumption. Twelve months ago when he left home for Baltimore, his life was full of promise and hope, but before the Spring flowers had bloomed again, his friends were startled by the discovery that his days were numbered, and that in the very spring time of life he was to be "gathered to his fathers." His friends are comforted by the hope that he is now in that bright and happy world, where disease can never enter, and that his spirit is now resting "beneath the shade of the beautiful trees," mingling in sweet communion with loved ones who had passed over the River before him.
