A RUMPLE RAISED BY

Nearly Came to Blows.

In a Temperance Meeting Wednesday Evening Rev. Followed.

The temperance question took a sensational turn Wednesday even- and jury," ing when Rev. Tuttle, mounted the platform of the Tracy tent and in challinging tones said that he had heard from good authority that Mr. L. A. Winder had been discharged from the employ of the Baxter, Ice and Cold Storage plant because, certain saloon men had threatened Mr. W. M. Baxter with discontinuing their patroange were Mr. Winder retained. The reason for the saloonists making these threats was that Mr. Winder did not take sides with them. Mr. Tuttle Said: "If this be true I will see to it that the methodist of this city buy their ice elsewhere."

Quite a stir was created and reply was expected but as neither Messrs. Winder nor Baxter were present Mr. Tuttle continued un interrupted.

Mr. Baxter learned of the inci dent vesterday morning and in company with Mr. Winder he vis ited Rev. Tuttle at the tent and asked him to retrace bis words Mr. Baxter demanded of him, where did he obtain grounds for such slander. The pastor could say nothing definite. Mr. Winder made the statement that his discharge was due to no alteration nor no misunderstanding whatever. Said he. "I resigned from Mr. Baxters employ through mutual agreement. I could not afford to work upon commission and as he could not afford to pay me a salary I decided to resign. Not the least illwil was felt on either side and if needed the services of a friend, to day, "Buck" Baxter would be the first man to whom I would go."

Mr. Baxter then consulted different parties from whom Mr. Tuttle was supposed to have gained his information but all denied having made the charges.

During the controversy between the above parties warm words followed warm words with such rapidity that matters threatened reaching a crisis. Mr. Baxter emphatically, said; "If it was not for my respect for your clerical robes would jump on you as quick das bug would light upon a potato."

The reverned divested himself his coat and said. "Tall off my k for that, I manhood on at and yours." The few ey ses anticipated trouble but

R. S. Harris, of Lamberts Point Blew Out the Brains of His Unloyal Wife and Turning Gun to His Own Head Ended His Wretched Existance Instantly .-- Jealously the Cause.

At Lamberts Point, Va., has occured a tragedy that will go down in history as one, of the saddest in the history of that usually quiet community. Last Wednesday afternoon R. S. Harris blew out the brains of his lovely wife and turning the smoking gun upon himself. committed suicide, dying by her

The sole cause was jealousy. Five years ago Harris married this woman and in Lamberts Point they made their home. They lived happy together until several months ago. The dasling young wife met with another man. The meeting was a fatal one. She loved him at first sight and from that day had no more smiles for the m whom she had sworn to love, honor and obey.

Harris worked in the Norfolk & Western R. R. shops. Every day he toiled from sunrise to sunset to earn a living for himself and the loved ones at home. At night he would return to his home, tired and worn out from his heavy labors but from the time that the other man entered his home the pretty young wife gave him no more smiles. His return was greeted with scowls and harsh words. She abused hin without the slightest provocation he did not comprehend the true state of affairs.

His wife's actions became the friends were barred against her. In some manner tales of his wife's conduct came to Harris' ears. He made inquires and learned that it was but too true.

ENDED ALL WITH A SHOT. Wednesday morning he went to his work as usual but his fellow workmen noted that a great chang had come over him. At 10 o'clock he laid down his tools and complaining of being ill, left the sheps never to return again.

Arriving at his home he was greeted by a scolding wife. She quarrelled because he did not stay at work. All through the dinner hour she kept up the trade of ab-use. At 1:40 o'clock a pistel shot was heard by his two little daughters who were playing in the yard. They screamed for help, realizing that the worst had happened. Neighbors rushed to the vicinity to hear two more shorts fired in almost rapid succession.

Some one entered the house and found the false wife and her jealous husband breathing their last in a pool of blood that flowed from
