

How Tobacco Improves if Like Roasting Improves Green Coffee. Heat Develops the Stimulating Aroma and Taste found in Schnapps Tobacco and Coffee

Three ways are used by farmers for curing and preparing their tobacco for the market; namely sun cured, air cured and flue cured. The old and cheap way is called air cured, the later discovery and improved way is called flue cured.

In flue curing the tobacco is taken from the fields and raked in barns especially built to retain heat and there subjected to a continuous high temperature, produced by the direct heat of flame heated flues, which brings out in the tobacco that stimulating taste and aroma that expert roasting develops in green coffee. These similar processes give to both tobacco and coffee the cheering and stimulating quality that popularizes their use.

The quality of tobacco depends much on the curing process and the kind of soil that produces it, as expert tests prove that this flue cured tobacco, grown in the famous Piedmont region, requires and takes less sweetening than tobacco grown in any other section of the United States and has a wholesome, stimulating, juicy, full tobacco taste that satisfies tobacco hunger. That's why chewers prefer Schnapps, because Schnapps cheers more than any other chewing tobacco, and that's why chewers of Schnapps pass the good thing along—one chewer makes other chewers, until the fact is established, that there are more chewers and more pounds of tobacco chewed to the population in states where Schnapps tobacco is sold than there are in those states where Schnapps has not yet been offered to the trade.

A 10c. plug of Schnapps is more economical than a much larger 10c. plug of cheap tobacco. Sold at 50c. per pound in 5c. cuts. Strictly 10 and 15 cent plugs.

TRYING COTTON CHOPPER.

Such Machine is Badly Needed When Labor Demands $1 a Day to Lean on the Handles.

A cotton chopper of a home patent is now being given a trial test at Warsaw and it is proving a success. Mr. J. A. Powell put the machine to work on Saturday and he informed us that it did good work. Many cotton chopping machines have been got ten up by inventive minds, but they have always been found wanting when the time came in May for farmers to "chop to a stand." Such a machine is badly needed these days, for it is a waste of money to grow cotton and pay labor $1 per day to lean on hoe handles with one foot on the knee.

CONFED. SOLDIERS EXPOSITION

Mighty Host of Southern Heroes to Come Down From Richmond—Three Special Trains to Bring Visitors.

Norfolk, June 13, 1907.

Confederate soldiers, Sons of Veterans and Daughters of the Confederacy will march down upon the Exposition to-day. This mighty host of heroes of the Lost Cause will come to Norfolk from Richmond, the reunion city. Three special trains, three special boats and the regular trains will bring them to the Exposition.

The announcement of the coming of the hosts of grey was made known yesterday by Will F. Thomas of the Exposition Excursion Bureau, who returned to Norfolk from Richmond, where he made arrangements for the coming of the veterans.

There were almost 100,000 visitors in Richmond during the reunion, said Mr. Thomas and thousands of these called at the information bureau, which was opened by Mr. Thomas and his assistants during that period. This bureau, he said, was run night and day.

To-day promises to be the greatest day, from a point of attendance, since the opening. With the thousands of visitors who will come from Richmond and the thousands, who already exceed those of the 13th of May, which, up to the present time, were the second largest since the opening day itself.

There were approximately 10,000 people at the grounds yesterday. More people passed in the gates, from appearances, than on any other day of the Exposition, that was not a special occasion. Many of the visitors yesterday came from Richmond, hundreds of old veterans mingling with the new.

JAMESTOWN ALRIGHT.

Mr. Robert Waitt Says North Carolina is One of the Best.

Mr. Robert Waitt, one of the engineers of the Scofield Construction Company, who are constructing the government pier at the Jamestown Exposition, spent Sunday in the city and in speaking of the exposition, declared that great progress is being made toward its completion, that while the work on the pier will not be entirely finished until about the middle of July, the exposition itself is about complete, except for a few finishing touches and he feels mighty proud of the "Old North State's" fine showing which is one of the best—News-Observer.

CADETS ENROUTE TO THE EXPOSITION.

Pride of Army of Uncle Sam to Go Into Camp—Making Trip Down on United States' Transport Summer.

Norfolk, June 13, 1907.

Transport Summer this morning, the West Point Cadets, the best drilled military body in the world, will arrive at the Exposition to go into a week's encampment. The natty West Pointers, 560 strong, are due to arrive at 11 o'clock. The Summer will lead the cadets at the Pine Beach wharf and from there Uncle Sam's future army officers will march in a body to the grounds.

The cadets will enter the camp, just in the rear of the big military dining pavilion. They will be under command of Lieut. Col. Robert Howze of the Sixth Cavalry.

Announcement was made by Lieutenant Coates, military secretary for the Exposition, that the V. I. cadets will arrive Sunday, June 9. The Annapolis cadets while no advances have been received as to the exact day they will reach the Exposition, will be here to take part in the Georgia Day ceremonies as an escort to President Roosevelt.

With V. P. I., Maryland Agricultural and the Chester Military Academy cadets already here, the arrival of the West Pointers, the Annapolis and B. M. I. "young warriors" will make the number of cadets at the Exposition upwards of 1,700.

The youthful soldiers played an important part in the entertainment of the thousands of visitors at the Exposition yesterday. From early in the afternoon until almost dark baton after battalion marched backward and forward across Lee Parade and for more than an hour executed the most difficult commands in Butt's manual with the precision of a regular army corps.

An hour later the cadets gave a dress parade, which was highly complimented by even the army officers who watched their movements.

Before the Pennsylvania boys had cut the field the corps from the Maryland Agricultural college entered the field for battalion drill and attracted much attention.

Later in the afternoon more than 400 cadets from the Virginia Polytechnic Institute gave a battalion drill and were applauded by three thousand spectators, who gathered around the great field.

This is one of the finest drilled commands of cadets in the country, and while their first dress parade will not occur until to-day, their evolution yesterday were decidedly military.

The V. P. I. cadets will give a battalion drill this morning at 9:30 o'clock and the Pennsylvania cadets will execute extended order drill and Butt's manual at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

ell, aged 55 who tried to commit suicide at the second police station last night. He had been boarding on 5th street and early yesterday evening, he was taken to the City Alms house by several other boarders who claimed that he was continually making a disturbance. Powell was finally taken to the station house and placed in a cell.

After being locked up he portially undressed hung some of his clothing in front of the grated bars to prevent a view of the interior of the cell from the corridor and then tried to hang himself with a leather belt that he wore.

It so happened, however, that the police had another prisoner to place in the cell and they happened along and opened the door a few minutes after Powell had suspended himself from the ceiling. The man was still alive and after being put down he was revived.

ENJOYMENT OF PARKS.

Parks are desirable and necessary adjuncts to any city. They add materially to municipal adornment, tending to break up that solid mass of wall and masonry which shut us in to a more or less bleak perspective and keep the country out. They substitute instead an open breathing space and contribute to the pleasure of the people by presenting to their view evidences of horticultural art, supplemented by spacious grass plots, which are vigorously kept in their virgin greenness.—Baltimore American.
