IN MEMORIAM.

Dr. J. B. Brown died at his home in Ashpole at 3 a. m. last Sunday in the 70th year of his age. One of the trusted guides, sturdy characters and notable citizens of the country is gone. Few among us were better known and had a larger circle of friends. There was an equability in his temperament and fixedness in his convictions that commanded unvarying respect. The blunt candor and transparent honesty that marked his life elicited the admiration of those who knew him best. His unwavering loyalty to his opinions and his sincere affections and tender sympathies bound a large circle to him as with hooks of steel. He engaged in the active practice of his profession about forty-six years. "Everybody in the glen and all the paths in the moor" were known to him. His practice covered a large territory and included a host of families. His insight into the inside of family life was exceptionally great, yet at no time did he abuse the sacred privilege. His professional integrity was above question. For years he served usefully as ruling elder of Iona church and latterly as the senior elder and central figure of the new church, B-thear, in Ashpole. He loved his church, and its interest was his theme in the delirium of his last sickness and in the shadow of death. He said, as he by degrees passed on to the end, he preferred to live, but was ready to die. The last of his requests to the loved ones of his household was that they should meet him in heaven. He left a widow who was to him a self-denying and devoted wife now in solitude, and two children, Dr. J. P. Brown and Mr. Will Brown, to mourn the loss of a loving father, who has left them the legacy of a splendid name.

The funeral services were conducted Monday by Rev. P. R. Law assisted by Rev. J. M. Ashby from the pretty little Presbyterian church he had done so much to build and his remains laid to rest with Masonic honors at the family cemetery near Leasville in the presence of a large and sorrowing assembly. A Pretty Good Reason.

The following incident is related of Dr. James H. Carlisle, the venerable president of Wofford College, South Carolina, and counselor of the great Chataqua system. When 10 years old, young Carlisle was attending a typical country school of the old South under the management of a typical teacher of the time, a stern and scholarly old gentleman. One day little James found considerable difficulty in some of his work and his teacher, becoming impatient, took the boy's slate and writing upon it the words, "I am a fool," gave it to the little fellow, saying, "Here, James, sign your name to that."

The learned pedagogue proceeded with the other lessons, but on coming back to his young charge after a time noticed that the name had not been written. Becoming angry, he demanded in thundering tones, "James Carlisle, why did you not sign your name to that sir?" And little James Carlisle slipped from his place on the high rough old bench, and looking his teacher squarely in the eye, replied, "Because it is a lie, sir!"

The Secret of Success.

Forty million bottles of August Flower old in the United States alone since its introduction! And the demand for it is still growing. Isn't that a fine showing of success? Don't it prove that August Flower has had unflinching success in the cure of indigestion and dyspepsia—the two greatest enemies of health and happiness? Does it not afford the best evidence that August Flower is a sure specific for all stomach and intestinal disorders—that it has proved itself the best of all liver regulators? August Flower has a matchless record of over thirty-five years in curing the ailing millions of these distressing complaints—a success that is becoming wider in its scope every day, at home and abroad, as the fame of August Flower spreads. Waggsby—So? Well, then, my wife and I are congenial, all right, for the other night, when she said that she wondered why I'd ever been such a fool as to marry her, I had been sitting there in silence for half an hour wondering over the same identical thing.

Oiled Public Roads in California.

The State Department of Highways of California reports that Ventura county, that State, has 100 miles of oiled roads. The work was begun in 1901. Various kinds of soils have been treated—sandy, adobe and sedimentary. On hard roads the oil is first applied, and then a coating of said put on to absorb and hold the surplus oil. The strip oiled is 8 to 12 feet wide, about 200 barrels a mile being used on the first application. At first heated oil was used, but the practice has been discontinued, as it was found unnecessary. The oil is obtained from wells in Ventura county at a cost of 65 cents a barrel at the well. It contains 55 per cent asphalt. On the whole, good results have been obtained, as the roads so far have not been affected by storm waters. Summer heat has been detrimental in a few instances, and rows of shade trees are regarded as a benefit. Fifty miles more of oiled roads were constructed in Ventura county during 1904.

Walks 12 Miles Asleep.

Wallace B. Douglass, a restaurant keeper of Worcester, Mass., walked 12 miles in his sleep Friday night and awoke in the country at 2:30 o'clock with his face in a watering trough. He was fully dressed and experienced no hardship from his peculiar experience other than a shock.

Douglass told the police he went to bed Friday night as usual and remembered nothing after that until he awoke with his face in the watering trough. He did not know where he was or in what direction to turn. A milkman told him he was 12 miles from home and started him on the proper route.

The night before, Douglass told the police, he dreamed he was in a hospital for the insane and saw a woman dancing on a table. Douglass was once an attendant at the Worcester Insane Hospital.

of Ague and Malaria, can be relieved and cured with Electric Bitters. This is a pure, tonic medicine; of especial benefit in malaria, for it exerts a true curative influence on the disease, driving it entirely out of the system. It is much to be preferred to Quinine, having none of the drug's bad after effects. E. S. Munday, of Henrietta, Tex., writes: "My brother was very low with malarial fever and anidice, till he took Electric Bitters, which saved his life. At all druggists; price 80c, guaranteed."

UNBUSINESSLIKE FARMING.

The layman can hardly realize the lack of system that prevails on the average farm. Drainage is little thought of on the lowlands, crops are rotated only as chance determines, and probably not one farmer in a hundred can tell what enterprise on his farm and under his conditions is the most profitable. In no other business is it likely that men can be found with $10,000, $20,000 or $50,000 investments who never pretend to keep books of the business. Farmers' books are two often kept in this manner,—gain, money in the bank; loss, money borrowed. The writer once argued this question of keeping books with a well-to-do American farmer, who finally concluded his argument by saying, "Farming ain't all keeping books, by a long shot." Truth lies in the argument, but keeping books is not all there is to manufacturing furniture or transporting freight, and yet it must be a valuable accessory or it would have been discarded years ago.

There are still thousands of farmers in the middle West who do not follow the markets, who rarely, if ever, stop to consider the relation between prices of feeds and prices of beef and pork. Hogs are fed because "there is money in hogs," and many an operation on the farm is done according to some preconceived notion. The writer knows a German farmer in western Minnesota who has a beautiful, clean farm, and is evidently prosperous. While watching him feed his hogs one day, this conversation took place: "How old are those pigs?" "Sixteen months." "Why don't you sell them?" "Well, I don't like to sell a hog until he weighs up good and heavy." Further conversation revealed the facts that corn was worth forty-two cents per bushel and pork four dollars per hundred weight, live weight. When asked if the pig he was feeding were gaining enough to equal or exceed the value of the corn, and pay him for his labor, he realized that each bushel of corn had got to produce about twelve pounds of pork to yield him any profit. Knowing that his pigs were not gaining the half of that amount, decided to sell both pigs and corn.

Almanac Received.

The Editor acknowledges receipt of a copy of the new 1906 Kodol Almanac and 200 Year Calendar. Its most important feature is without doubt the very simply constructed 200 year Calendar, whereby with absolute accuracy you can tell the day of the week on which any event occurred during one hundred years of the past, or on which any date will occur during the next hundred years, thus giving the day of the week on which any birth, death, marriage or any important event may have happened.

Messrs. E. C. DeWitt & Co., of Chicago, Ill., are sole owners and publishers of the Kodol Almanac and 200 Year Calendar, and will be pleased to mail a copy of this booklet to any one enclosing a 2 cent stamp with a request for same, provided this paper is mentioned.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

A man never, never can enjoy a laugh the way a woman can a cry. No matter how pretty a girl is, it makes her a sight prettier to kiss her.

A man gets awfully mixed up trying to kiss a girl who has two dimples.

There is very robust exercise in trying to run down a slander about yourself.

If a man ever knew as much as he thinks people think he knows, there would be some real wisdom in this world.

"MAKES YOU WELL ALL OVER.

New Scientific Remedy That "Gets at the Joints From the Inside."

When you get up in the morning with a headache, pains in the joints and muscles, and a dark brown taste in the mouth, it is ample proof that your body is in bad condition. Pills and stimulants may give you temporary relief, but they will not cure.

RHEUMACIDE goes right to the seat of the trouble, sweeps all the germs and poisons out of the blood, cleans up every "plague spot" in the body and "makes you well all over." RHEUMACIDE tones up the stomach, relieves indigestion and constipation, regulates the liver and kidneys and restores each organ to its natural functions.

By building up the entire system, RHEUMACIDE fortifies you against La Grippe, Pneumonia and winter Colds. Through its thorough cleaning of the blood it wards off Malaria and prevents Springs Fever.

No other medicine has yet been found that cures Rheumatism to stay cured. A remedy that is powerful enough to cure Rheumatism also removes the germs of all other blood diseases.

Powerful as it is, RHEUMACIDE is a purely vegetable remedy that not even harm the stomach and acts entirely through the channels. Your druggist sells and recommends RHEUMACIDE.
