OUR NAVY PLANS.

The plan of building and renewing a considerable fleet.

Shoved away on every ship of the United States navy, from tug boat to 16,000 ton battleships, is a bundle of flags, shoulder high and about fifteen feet long. About half the lot is composed of foreign flags, which are encased in thick paper bags, with the name of the country stenciled on the end of the bag. The remainder, including those of ordinary use, are not wrapped, but tied in round bundles and lettered. The pile contains 250 flags, the regulation number each ship must carry.

The making of this number of flags costs the United States $80,000 a year, of which $43,000 is paid for material alone. Each ship has forty-three foreign flags on board constantly. These flags are twenty-five feet long and thirteen wide. With these on board the ship is prepared to meet and show the proper courtesies which naval etiquette demands to all nations whose high officials should come aboard or whose waters the vessel should enter while on a cruise.

As a ship's quota of flags is renewed every three years, it is no small job to keep enough flags on hand, and to this end Uncle Sam keeps a large flag-making establishment running at full blast the year round at the Brooklyn navy yard. Here there are nearly one hundred skilled needlewomen working every day in the year except Sunday and holidays, cutting the various colored bunting into strips and sewing and stitching them together in their proper place.

The most difficult part of the work is the making of the foreign flags, for some of them, be it known, are fearfully and wonderfully made. Take, for example, the flag of San Salvador, in the back is a belching volcano, pouring forth its lava and white smoke. On the sides of the mountains is the green foliage and shrubbery. Directly in front is a tranquil sea of sapphire blue. Above the volcano is a rising sun, set in a design of overflowing cornucopias, and a diamond, from which the rays are scintillating in every direction. To the right and left of the volcano are designs in various designs, banners, each minutely try to picture the flag of San Salvador.

To make a flag of San Salvador costs the United States government just $52.00, and when one of these flags is placed on each battleship every three years it can be readily seen that the insignificant little republic to the south of us is really costing the taxpayers of the country more than they care to admit.

Then there is the flag of China, with its long, crawling, mythical blood-red dragon. To make that flag cost the government something like $40. The Costa Rica, with its scenic beauty of mountain and sea, costs $50, nearly as much as the costliest of them all, that of San Salvador.

The largest flag made by Uncle Sam's flag makers is the United States ensign No. 1, which is thirty-six feet long and nineteen feet wide. It costs $40 to turn out a flag of this style.

The President's flag, while not the largest, requires the longest time of any to make, as it takes one woman a whole month to finish it. It is a simple design, being a blue field with the coat of arms of the United States in the center. The life sized eagle, with outstretched wings and other emblems, are all hand embroidered, and involve the most patient work. The embroidery silk used on this design, which is ten feet by fourteen feet in size, costs $9 a pound.

Raft Swam Camp No. 164 W. O. W. is still on the boom and will still be as long as we can have for consul commander Mr. J. E. Carlyle. The camp was organized here last November and Mr. Carlyle has not missed a single meeting since its organization.

We are very sorry that Mr. Carlyle was defeated at the convention last week for house of representatives, but this one is not likely to be the last one and we believe Mr. Carlyle's time will come later. He deserves some public office for we doubt there is a man in the county that has the welfare of his fellow men at heart more than he.

He is a hard worker in any place you may put him in, church, school and political affairs. He is now county organizer for the Cotton Growers Association and president of the Raft Swamp Farmers Alliance.

What a grand old county this would be if it had a plenty of such men as Mr. Carlyle.

COOKS ORGANIZE.

Wake Forest College Students up Against It.

There are many things that make a college town different from any other town, especially when the college forms the nucleus of the town and different interests of the town are dependent in a great measure upon the college. While there are a number of independent enterprises in Wake Forest still the whole town is affected in a way by the college. Forrester, two miles south of this place, was, before the college was built here, the railroad station for all this community. For several years after the college was founded the mail was addressed to Forrester and had to be brought here by hand, the trains not stopping at this place.

Finally, however, the college grew till a station was established here and the trains stopped. People moved here from Forrester and this became the larger of the two towns. A few years ago the switch was moved from Forrester, the freight depot abolished and now it is only a flag station.

The many interesting things of this town would make a history worth reading and when one begins to talk of the village many things come into his mind.

There is a fight on between the washerwomen and the students. There isn't much said among the outsiders but there is a good deal of talking and thinking among the students themselves. Three years ago a student could get his washing done for fifty cents and the women seemed glad to do it at this price. Since then the women have organized a sort of labor organization and the cheapest washing per man is now one dollar, 25 cents a week. Of course wood and other requisites in the way of corn and bacon have advanced in price, but the students feel that the colored women have formed an organization to get all they can out of the boys. The washing is no doubt worth a dollar a week, and would cost more in some places, but the boys say, "the principal of the thing," and the negroes are so independent. Accordingly the different representatives of steam laundries are having their laundries quote prices for the work.

The colored cooks of the village are also organized and have organized hours to work. Each Saturday night one of the cooks is selected to be on duty and the other cooks are to be on duty the next day.

Mr. S. E. DuBois, of Marion, S. C., and Miss Lena Sellers, of Dillon, S. C., who have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. W. J. DuBois, left Tuesday evening for Dillon.

The recent Democratic county convention has been splendidly illustrated by a cartoon which has attracted much attention. It is on exhibition in the corridor of the postoffice. Those who attended the convention have no trouble in understanding the cartoon.

Dr. W. O. Edmund has instituted suit against the town of Lumberton for damages resulting from injuries which he received one night by driving into an open ditch on Elm Street.

Mr. R. C. Lawrence is attorney for the town and Mr. S. McIntyre for plaintiff.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith, aged about 16 years, son of Mr. W. J. Smith, died yesterday at his home near Moss Neck. Mr. Smith was poisoned several years ago by yellow Jessamine and every year since it has broken out again, finally resulting in blood poison. The interment will be today.

The Lumberton people who are interested in the school and who like ice cream are invited to attend an ice-cream supper tomorrow evening at 8:30 o'clock on the Robeson Institute grounds. The proceeds will be used for the improvement of the class rooms. The committee on arrangement are Messrs. Watson, Winburne, Harper and Gower.

Raleigh News and Observer: A decree has been issued in the Federal Court here in the case of the Atlantic Seaboard Construction Company in which the company was sued by Richard Rhodes Barnes, this being for the distribution of funds in a phase of the case involving the receivership of the Raleigh and Charleston Railroad, of which Capt.
