THE TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION.

A Good Meeting Held at Rowland Saturday — Profitable Talks Made and a Good Attendance of Teachers.

Reported For The Robesonian.

The Robeson County Teachers' Association was called to order at Rowland Saturday by Supt. J. R. Pople. Prayer was offered by Prof. J. C. Harmon, after which Supt. Pople outlined the work before the association and complimented the teachers for their faithful work.

In an address of welcome Prof. Harmon proved to be somewhat of an orator, as well as a young man of fine appearance on the stage. He impressed upon the teachers the responsibilities of school work and assured the teachers that the good people of Rowland were not only pleased but felt honored by having the teachers of Robeson as their guests.

Prof. W. R. Edmonds spoke on "System in School Work". The speaker is rather slender and lean but erect and handsome and was easy on the floor; he was deliberate but positive and held the attention of the audience from the time he entered upon the stage. He emphasized the fact that order was the background of all success; that there should be systematic work on the part of the teachers and pupils. He was inclined to think the switch was an excellent means—as a last resort—of establishing system and discipline in the school. Every teacher should rule his or her school regardless of interference and criticism of patrons. One of the most forcible points made by the speaker was that teachers were under obligations to go amongst the poor and unfortunate and build up their schools from such classes of people. That teachers should be alive and instill life into the whole community.

"Method in Teaching School" was discussed by Col. W. M. Jones. Mr. Jones is superintendent of the North Carolina Military School at Red Springs. The speaker is rather short and well-proportioned with black hair and black moustache. He comes on the stage with the quick alert movement characteristic of a man trained in military tactics. His appearance was good and his position on the floor easy. His manner of speech was quick and enthusiastic but not stormy. He handled his subject carefully and gave the teachers the benefits of his experience in teaching history.

The following are some of the forcible facts which the speaker developed:

1. That teachers should not confine their work in history to the text book on class;
2. That questions should not be asked so as to bring out monosyllabic answers but so as to enable the pupils to discuss the topics;
3. That history should be studied by association of men with events, events with events, etc.;
4. That we should all make a broader and deeper study of history.

A vocal solo was rendered by Miss Agnes Evans, music teacher at Alfordville. She is a pretty little girl and sang in a soft, melow tone and delighted her audience.

Prof. L. L. Hargrove spoke on "Manual Training". The speaker is little and short—below the average sized man. His face—clean shaven—is small, with large nose and intellectual forehead. He convinced the audience that he was a man of deep thought, for he produced one of the most thoughtful papers we have ever heard on manual training.

There were forty or more teachers in attendance.

Holderfield-McLeod.

Correspondence of The Robesonian.

On Tuesday mornning, Dec. 4th, at 10 o'clock, a very pretty marriage was witnessed in Buie Methodist church, when Miss Bessie Anna McLeod and Mr. Roberts Daniel Holderfield were united in the holy bonds of matrimony by Rev. S. E. Mercer, a large number of friends and relatives being present Messrs Jno. Buie and Gordon Britt acted as ushers.

The church was very artistically decorated, color scheme being white and green. An arch wreathed in evergreen and white roses, stood against a background of fine and other evergreens, and from this white Marbell. To the sweet strains of Lohengrin's Bridal Chorus, which was beautiful rendered by Miss Ela Steed, Mr. Gosson Manning entered on the right aisle and Miss Lena Pate, the left who wore white organdie with pale green girdle and carried white chrysanthemums and ferns. Next came the groom with his best man, Mr. L. P. Kay, and bride leaning on the arm of her maid of honor, Miss Lena Melvin who wore white silk and carried white chrysanthemums and ferns. The bride was handsomely attired in white silk, veil caught up with white narcissus and carrying white carnations and maiden hair ferns. While the couple stood beneath the marriage bell, the vows were spoken that united two devoted hearts, during which "Meditation" was softly played.

Amid showers of rice and congratulations, Mr. and Mrs. Holderfield left on the 12 o'clock train for Raleigh where they will visit relatives.

Buie, N. C., Dec. 6th.

A Let-up on 'Possum Eating'—Rev. M. A. Stephens to Preach Twice a Month—Personals.

Correspondence of The Robesonian

Rev. E. A. Paul preached here Thanksgiving. A good audience gathered, after which a collection for the orphanage was taken, amounting to $12.

Mrs. Lucinda Lawson, of Orrum, has moved back to her farm.

Hurrah for the hog killings. Mr. J. Z. Stone spent Sunday at Orrum.

Mr. Roy Britt spent Sunday at Kingsdale with his parents.

We learn that John Sparks show will exhibit at Boardman the 11th.

There is not as much 'possum being eaten as has been.

Rev. M. A. Stephens has accepted the call to preach twice a month which will be the 2nd and 4th Sundays.

Those who attended the quarterly meeting at Hog Swamp say they enjoyed the exercises.

There is good attendance at school this week.

Mr. W. J. Stone has gone to the cotton mills to work.

Mr. Mike Lewson, who has been staying at Orrum, has moved back home and is going to school here.

Miss Sallie McGoogan, who is teaching the public school here, will give a fruit supper Saturday night, Dec. 15th, for the purpose of raising money to buy a library for the school. There will also be other enjoyable exercises to make you enjoy yourselves one more time. Come boys, and bring your girls. Remember the date.

Arrested for Robbery of Registered Parcel.

Fayetteville Observer.

Last night or early this morning Deputy United States Marshall Colvin arrested Louis D. H. Jones, at Lumber Bridge, a station on the railway line between this city and Maxton, charged with the robbery of registered parcel and other packages in the mails, the articles taken being several gold watches and other costly pieces of jewelry. The accused was brought to this city on the Bennettsville train. The report is current on the streets that Jones has confessed to the robbery of the $3,000 which was stolen some weeks ago, in transit from Maxton to the Southern Life Insurance Company.

Louis D. H. Jones is the son of the late Reuben Jones, merchant hotel and restaurant keeper. Mrs. Jones died some months ago. He was employed by the postoffice department to transfer the mails from the station to the trains and previously had been with the wagon which carried the mail from the postoffice to the trains. He went to Wakkula to spend Thanksgiving, stating that would return that night, but yesterday instead of appearing in person, he sent in his resignation.

Up to a late hour today the reporter was unable to interview Mr. McCaskill, who it was stated in the postoffice, had not returned to the city. We give the report as to the $3,000 as merely a report without prejudice for, on the other hand, it is said Jones denies all knowledge of the $3,000. The fact he did not have access to the postoffice mails at the time is strong presumptive evidence of his innocence of the last charge. He was placed in jail this afternoon in default of bail, after a preliminary trial before United States Commissioner Sutton. There was at the hearing only the charge of robbery of jewels, merchandise, etc., the mails.

"Judge Sutton read over to Jones Postoffice Inspector's Cuck's testimony and the accused made a vountary confession of the thefts which included a most remarkable mass of all sorts of goods. The bonds was fixed at $2,000.

All the valuables were found in the room of Jones at the Cape Fear Inn his trunk and washstand drawer; and strange to say the packages were in all instances addressed to people outside of Fayetteville.

A SERIOUS LETTUCE DISEASE.

By F. L. Stevens Division of Plant Disease, North Carolina Experiment Station.

Throughout the lettuce growing section and particularly conspicuous in the neighborhoods of Newbern, Wilmington, Fayetteville and Maxton, occurs a disease of lettuce of extreme severity and destructiveness. It may be easily recognized by its symptoms:

Apples, oranges, candy, toys, fancy goods at W. O. Thompson's.
