

Solid Gold Jewelry.
Your Inspection is all we ask to convince you that our stock of Gold Jewelry is Complete.
Boylan's Jewelry Store,
Lumberton, N. C.

PURE LINSEED OIL.
OUR OFFER IS $100.00 IN GOLD.
WE ARE NOT GIVEN TO "BLOWING OUR OWN HORN," SO TO SPEAK, but the many serious cases of adulteration, which have come under our notice of late, prompt us to say a word or two to those who perhaps have but a slight acquaintance with the facts.
SPENCER KELLOGG COMPANY,
BUFFALO, N. Y.

N. JACOBI HARDWARE COMPANY,
Wilmington, N. C.
L. R. WHALEY, President. E. J. BRITT, Vice-Pres. J. F. STANSEL, Treasurer.
We Are Prepared
To make Abstracts of Real Estate Titles, Negotiate Deals Between Buyer and Seller, and Secure First Mortgages on Real Estate Loans for Parties Seeking Investments.
STOCKS AND BONDS
Of Responsible Companies Handled on Commission.
ACCOUNTS AUDITED.
Balance Sheets and Financial Statements Prepared.
ROBESON COUNTY REALTY COMPANY,
LUMBERTON, N. C.

When You Pay That Bill
It will be much easier and safer to write a check than to remit the currency.
Those who once try a checking account never go back to the old-fashioned method of handling money.
We will take your deposits, furnish you with blank checks, and return the paid checks to you after presentation, thus furnishing the very best kind of receipt for each individual expenditure.
Step in and let us tell you all about our checking account system.

The Bank of Maxton,
Maxton, N. C.

We Are Due The Public.
And will ask Everybody to come and get what is coming to them. We have just returned from the Northern Markets where we spent several weeks of our time in selecting and buying an up-to-date stock of Clothing, Dry Goods, Shoes, Hats, Caps, Notions and Millinery,
And a Special Line of Ladies' Skirts and Jackets. Our Goods are Bought for Cash, and we saved from 15 to 25 per cent, which we will give you the Best fit of our stock. And will sell you Goods from 15 to 25 per cent, less than any other Merchant will. All we ask is that Everybody Call and Look at our Great Stock of Goods and Low Prices.
We take Great Pleasure in Showing you these Goods. Thanking you for your past favors, we remain yours for Bargains.

MARGOLIS BROTHERS,
ROWLAND, N. C.
Our Motto is—SELL GOOD GOODS CHEAP.
INSURANCE THAT INSURES
Insure Your Property Through
Q. T. WILLIAMS, Fire Insurance Agent,
LUMBERTON, N. C.
Best State, American and English Companies Represented. 18 Years' Experience in the business. Never had a loss that was not paid, nor a claim contested.

Let Us Do Your Job Printing!
WE MAKE A SPECIALTY OF Commercial Work.
SEND US YOUR ORDERS.
Freeman Printing Co.,
Lumberton, N. C.
READ ROBESONIAN BUSINESS BUILDERS.

COUNTY ROAD SUPERVISORS.
Petition for Bonds Adopted on Claims Audited—Sever in Report of Resolutions Adopted.
In the part of the transactions of the board of road supervisors published in Thursday's Robesonian it was stated that the resolutions passed by the commissioners at their meeting on July 1st were adopted by the road supervisors. This statement was an error. The resolutions were incorporated in the minutes of the meeting but were not adopted, the last resolution appearing in the report being the only one in reference to this matter which was passed by the supervisors at this meeting. At last Monday's meeting of the supervisors the following claims were passed:
W. H. Lamb, Britts township, $137.59; J. K. Singletary, Back Swamp, $152.65; F. M. Townsend, Thompsons, $83.34; (road work and freight on sewer pipe); Alfred Turner, White House, $101.50; W. L. Thames, Parkton, $237.22; L. McRae, Maxton, $92.36; Wm. Tiddy, Smith, $158.75; D. McC. Smith, Red Springs, $151.55; S. G. Prevatt, Lumberton, $391.99; J. M. Smith, Wimbards, $166.99; B. G. Walters, Starlings, $20.30; W. P. Oliver, White House, $119.40; D. J. Dalton, Blue Springs, $8.75; D. S. Carlyle, Saddle Tree, $17.16; C. W. Jones, St. Paul, $165.75; D. H. Brown, Burnt Swamp, $117.35; Total, $2,117.65.
Chain gang—W. J. Prevatt, $106.18; J. H. Wishart, $80.70; McAllister Hdw. Co., $14.42—supplies; R. D. Lancaster, keeper, $100, salary for self and guard, month of October, less $20, for escape of Jim Baker, convict. Total $261.33.
Miscellaneous—R. F. Gregory, road work, Back Swamp, $40.12; Britts township, discount on note due First National Bank, $3.75; Lumber Bridge, discount on note due Bank of Maxton, $3.45; Lumberton, freight on sewer pipe, $28.10, discount on note due Bank of Lumberton, $8.67; E. F. Evans, Back Swamp, for road work, $5.75; J. A. Barker, Lumberton, road work, $10.50; D. L. Stewart, Smith, for 1050 feet lumber, $12.90; Walter McMillan, Red Spring, building dam, $200; R. L. McLeod, Maxton, lumber for bridges, $14.60; L. H. Townsend, Howellsville, for 250 feet of lumber and 6 days work at $1.25 per day, $10.75; Evaris & McBeachler, St. Pauls, for 860 feet of lumber, $10.32; Fred Tolar, St. Paul, for 444 feet of lumber for bridges, $53.33; Lumberton township, hire of chain gang, $339.52; Morris & Morris, building bridge, $2.50; L. E. Tyner, lumber, $81.20; Virgil Bell, cutting right of way, $30; H. C. MacNair, $18.80; W. A. Graham, $14; A. E. White, $9; Jno. H. McNeill, $12.58—members of board; J. D. McNeill, building bridge, $10; H. L. Flowers, for clay, $12.50; Total, $800.24.
A petition for a public road beginning at St. Paul's and Willis creek road to the crossing at the Great Marsh was filed and petition will be heard at the next meeting of the board.
A petition for a road in Britts township beginning at the wire grass road and running to the Atkinson and Big Branch road was not granted. The bonds of Alfred Turner, supervisor for White House No. 2 and Ed. T. Taylor, supervisor for a part of Howellsville township, were approved. A petition asking that the public road that leads through the Big Swamp be extended in as direct a route as possible to Bellamy and to intersect with the Whitfield road was not granted. The petition for a public road to extend from the new Big Swamp crossing to the Little Swamp road was granted, the road to be opened at the cost of the petitioners. It was ordered that the road funds of Parkton township be deposited in the Bank of Parkton.
A petition for a public road beginning at the residences of S. B. Rozier and S. B. Rozier, Jr., and extending into the Ten Mile Center road at the residence of J. I. Townsend was granted. The road to be opened at the expense of the petitioners. The petition for a public road in St. Paul's township, beginning near Rennett church and entering public road near Miss Jane Campbell's house, was granted at the cost of the petitioners. The petition of a number of citizens of Back Swamp township asking that the working of the roads of said township be divided into two divisions was not granted.

THE TEXAS PANHANDLE.
One of the Best Countries in America—the Sun-A Beautiful Level Prairie, the Soil a Rich Dark Loam—Mr. Taylor Writes Enthusiastically of His New Home in Texas.
To The Editor of The Robesonian:
Some time ago you published a letter which I had written after I had gone to the "Wild and Woolly West." I have received so many replies asking for a fuller description of this country, prices of land, etc., that I cannot take time to answer each one individually, so if you will grant me space in your valuable paper I will endeavor to present its readers with facts as I see them here in this country.
First, I must say that I was never surprised more than I was when I reached Texas. I had often heard that it was nothing more than a great desert, inhabited only by a few daring cowboys, desperadoes, the long-horn steer, coyotes and wolves; that it was a country where it did not rain more than once a year, and would never be fit for anything except stock raising. I must say that such is not the case. If any of your readers have this conception of Texas they are certainly blundering, for it is as different from that as night is from day. I have not been here long, but I was convinced very shortly after my arrival that it rains in Texas. I was never in a country I liked better than right here—no, not even as well. I truly believe that we have one of the best countries beneath the shining sun, and the very best of opportunities to be had. I was astonished to find such a country as the Panhandle of Texas really is.
The surface of this country is a beautiful level prairie. Of course there are places that are broken and slightly rough, but it is just along the water courses or creeks. The soil is a rich dark or black loam, easily cultivated, and most abundant yields. It seems to be from two to eight feet or even deeper. This is a new country and not very much is in cultivation yet, although many new people are coming in from all the northern and eastern States and beginning to plow up the prairies and make fields. There do not seem to be any people here from along the Atlantic coast, but I suppose it is because they do not know what kind of country it is. Probably they have the same conception as I did before I came here.
I went out in the country about two miles last Sunday afternoon to a farmer's place, just to see what kind of a place he had. I was never treated more courteously in my life. He took great delight in showing me over his place, through the gardens, in the barns, etc. He had one of the prettiest gardens I ever saw any place. I know it must have been very elegant during the summer. He had beautiful large cabbages that I know would weigh ten or twelve pounds; he had some peas that were as fine and rank as you ever saw. They were very near what I call m. His crops of milk maize, kafir corn, etc., were as good as any one could want. He had a fine lot of nice hogs. This is a fine hog country. From what I can learn from all the old-time settlers, there has never been a single hog to die of cholera. A person could become independent here raising hogs on a section of land. It is no trouble to raise any kind of feed and lots of it.
Corn makes from 80 to 50 bushels per acre; wheat from 25 to 35 bushels, with an average of about 25 bushels. Oats, rye, millet, etc., do equally as well. Alfalfa does well here, and all kinds of stock like it fine. It produces from three to five cuttings each year and makes from one to two tons per acre each cutting. One acre will often net the owner a profit of $40 to $60. Don't you consider that good for $11 to $14 land?
Ochiltree is the county seat of Ochiltree county. It is built on beautiful ground with a slight slope—just enough for drainage. It is a new place and is building up quite fast. There are now nearly 500 houses under construction, and contracts let for others. I am a contractor and carpenter myself and have more work on hand than I can complete in the next month. A new hotel and bank have just been completed. The bank opened its doors for business one week ago. We have several mercantile lines of business here but we need more. There are fine openings here. The population of our town is about 400 but it is increasing very fast. We have a good school and church that is almost completed. The people here are kind, courteous, hospitable, moral, and law-abiding citizens. We have prohibition all over the Panhandle country, and it meets with universal approval.
A. J. Taylor.

THE TEXAS PANHANDLE.
One of the Best Countries in America—the Sun-A Beautiful Level Prairie, the Soil a Rich Dark Loam—Mr. Taylor Writes Enthusiastically of His New Home in Texas.
To The Editor of The Robesonian:
Some time ago you published a letter which I had written after I had gone to the "Wild and Woolly West." I have received so many replies asking for a fuller description of this country, prices of land, etc., that I cannot take time to answer each one individually, so if you will grant me space in your valuable paper I will endeavor to present its readers with facts as I see them here in this country.
First, I must say that I was never surprised more than I was when I reached Texas. I had often heard that it was nothing more than a great desert, inhabited only by a few daring cowboys, desperadoes, the long-horn steer, coyotes and wolves; that it was a country where it did not rain more than once a year, and would never be fit for anything except stock raising. I must say that such is not the case. If any of your readers have this conception of Texas they are certainly blundering, for it is as different from that as night is from day. I have not been here long, but I was convinced very shortly after my arrival that it rains in Texas. I was never in a country I liked better than right here—no, not even as well. I truly believe that we have one of the best countries beneath the shining sun, and the very best of opportunities to be had. I was astonished to find such a country as the Panhandle of Texas really is.
The surface of this country is a beautiful level prairie. Of course there are places that are broken and slightly rough, but it is just along the water courses or creeks. The soil is a rich dark or black loam, easily cultivated, and most abundant yields. It seems to be from two to eight feet or even deeper. This is a new country and not very much is in cultivation yet, although many new people are coming in from all the northern and eastern States and beginning to plow up the prairies and make fields. There do not seem to be any people here from along the Atlantic coast, but I suppose it is because they do not know what kind of country it is. Probably they have the same conception as I did before I came here.
I went out in the country about two miles last Sunday afternoon to a farmer's place, just to see what kind of a place he had. I was never treated more courteously in my life. He took great delight in showing me over his place, through the gardens, in the barns, etc. He had one of the prettiest gardens I ever saw any place. I know it must have been very elegant during the summer. He had beautiful large cabbages that I know would weigh ten or twelve pounds; he had some peas that were as fine and rank as you ever saw. They were very near what I call m. His crops of milk maize, kafir corn, etc., were as good as any one could want. He had a fine lot of nice hogs. This is a fine hog country. From what I can learn from all the old-time settlers, there has never been a single hog to die of cholera. A person could become independent here raising hogs on a section of land. It is no trouble to raise any kind of feed and lots of it.
Corn makes from 80 to 50 bushels per acre; wheat from 25 to 35 bushels, with an average of about 25 bushels. Oats, rye, millet, etc., do equally as well. Alfalfa does well here, and all kinds of stock like it fine. It produces from three to five cuttings each year and makes from one to two tons per acre each cutting. One acre will often net the owner a profit of $40 to $60. Don't you consider that good for $11 to $14 land?
Ochiltree is the county seat of Ochiltree county. It is built on beautiful ground with a slight slope—just enough for drainage. It is a new place and is building up quite fast. There are now nearly 500 houses under construction, and contracts let for others. I am a contractor and carpenter myself and have more work on hand than I can complete in the next month. A new hotel and bank have just been completed. The bank opened its doors for business one week ago. We have several mercantile lines of business here but we need more. There are fine openings here. The population of our town is about 400 but it is increasing very fast. We have a good school and church that is almost completed. The people here are kind, courteous, hospitable, moral, and law-abiding citizens. We have prohibition all over the Panhandle country, and it meets with universal approval.
A. J. Taylor.

THE TEXAS PANHANDLE.
One of the Best Countries in America—the Sun-A Beautiful Level Prairie, the Soil a Rich Dark Loam—Mr. Taylor Writes Enthusiastically of His New Home in Texas.
To The Editor of The Robesonian:
Some time ago you published a letter which I had written after I had gone to the "Wild and Woolly West." I have received so many replies asking for a fuller description of this country, prices of land, etc., that I cannot take time to answer each one individually, so if you will grant me space in your valuable paper I will endeavor to present its readers with facts as I see them here in this country.
First, I must say that I was never surprised more than I was when I reached Texas. I had often heard that it was nothing more than a great desert, inhabited only by a few daring cowboys, desperadoes, the long-horn steer, coyotes and wolves; that it was a country where it did not rain more than once a year, and would never be fit for anything except stock raising. I must say that such is not the case. If any of your readers have this conception of Texas they are certainly blundering, for it is as different from that as night is from day. I have not been here long, but I was convinced very shortly after my arrival that it rains in Texas. I was never in a country I liked better than right here—no, not even as well. I truly believe that we have one of the best countries beneath the shining sun, and the very best of opportunities to be had. I was astonished to find such a country as the Panhandle of Texas really is.
The surface of this country is a beautiful level prairie. Of course there are places that are broken and slightly rough, but it is just along the water courses or creeks. The soil is a rich dark or black loam, easily cultivated, and most abundant yields. It seems to be from two to eight feet or even deeper. This is a new country and not very much is in cultivation yet, although many new people are coming in from all the northern and eastern States and beginning to plow up the prairies and make fields. There do not seem to be any people here from along the Atlantic coast, but I suppose it is because they do not know what kind of country it is. Probably they have the same conception as I did before I came here.
I went out in the country about two miles last Sunday afternoon to a farmer's place, just to see what kind of a place he had. I was never treated more courteously in my life. He took great delight in showing me over his place, through the gardens, in the barns, etc. He had one of the prettiest gardens I ever saw any place. I know it must have been very elegant during the summer. He had beautiful large cabbages that I know would weigh ten or twelve pounds; he had some peas that were as fine and rank as you ever saw. They were very near what I call m. His crops of milk maize, kafir corn, etc., were as good as any one could want. He had a fine lot of nice hogs. This is a fine hog country. From what I can learn from all the old-time settlers, there has never been a single hog to die of cholera. A person could become independent here raising hogs on a section of land. It is no trouble to raise any kind of feed and lots of it.
Corn makes from 80 to 50 bushels per acre; wheat from 25 to 35 bushels, with an average of about 25 bushels. Oats, rye, millet, etc., do equally as well. Alfalfa does well here, and all kinds of stock like it fine. It produces from three to five cuttings each year and makes from one to two tons per acre each cutting. One acre will often net the owner a profit of $40 to $60. Don't you consider that good for $11 to $14 land?
Ochiltree is the county seat of Ochiltree county. It is built on beautiful ground with a slight slope—just enough for drainage. It is a new place and is building up quite fast. There are now nearly 500 houses under construction, and contracts let for others. I am a contractor and carpenter myself and have more work on hand than I can complete in the next month. A new hotel and bank have just been completed. The bank opened its doors for business one week ago. We have several mercantile lines of business here but we need more. There are fine openings here. The population of our town is about 400 but it is increasing very fast. We have a good school and church that is almost completed. The people here are kind, courteous, hospitable, moral, and law-abiding citizens. We have prohibition all over the Panhandle country, and it meets with universal approval.
A. J. Taylor.

THE TEXAS PANHANDLE.
One of the Best Countries in America—the Sun-A Beautiful Level Prairie, the Soil a Rich Dark Loam—Mr. Taylor Writes Enthusiastically of His New Home in Texas.
To The Editor of The Robesonian:
Some time ago you published a letter which I had written after I had gone to the "Wild and Woolly West." I have received so many replies asking for a fuller description of this country, prices of land, etc., that I cannot take time to answer each one individually, so if you will grant me space in your valuable paper I will endeavor to present its readers with facts as I see them here in this country.
First, I must say that I was never surprised more than I was when I reached Texas. I had often heard that it was nothing more than a great desert, inhabited only by a few daring cowboys, desperadoes, the long-horn steer, coyotes and wolves; that it was a country where it did not rain more than once a year, and would never be fit for anything except stock raising. I must say that such is not the case. If any of your readers have this conception of Texas they are certainly blundering, for it is as different from that as night is from day. I have not been here long, but I was convinced very shortly after my arrival that it rains in Texas. I was never in a country I liked better than right here—no, not even as well. I truly believe that we have one of the best countries beneath the shining sun, and the very best of opportunities to be had. I was astonished to find such a country as the Panhandle of Texas really is.
The surface of this country is a beautiful level prairie. Of course there are places that are broken and slightly rough, but it is just along the water courses or creeks. The soil is a rich dark or black loam, easily cultivated, and most abundant yields. It seems to be from two to eight feet or even deeper. This is a new country and not very much is in cultivation yet, although many new people are coming in from all the northern and eastern States and beginning to plow up the prairies and make fields. There do not seem to be any people here from along the Atlantic coast, but I suppose it is because they do not know what kind of country it is. Probably they have the same conception as I did before I came here.
I went out in the country about two miles last Sunday afternoon to a farmer's place, just to see what kind of a place he had. I was never treated more courteously in my life. He took great delight in showing me over his place, through the gardens, in the barns, etc. He had one of the prettiest gardens I ever saw any place. I know it must have been very elegant during the summer. He had beautiful large cabbages that I know would weigh ten or twelve pounds; he had some peas that were as fine and rank as you ever saw. They were very near what I call m. His crops of milk maize, kafir corn, etc., were as good as any one could want. He had a fine lot of nice hogs. This is a fine hog country. From what I can learn from all the old-time settlers, there has never been a single hog to die of cholera. A person could become independent here raising hogs on a section of land. It is no trouble to raise any kind of feed and lots of it.
Corn makes from 80 to 50 bushels per acre; wheat from 25 to 35 bushels, with an average of about 25 bushels. Oats, rye, millet, etc., do equally as well. Alfalfa does well here, and all kinds of stock like it fine. It produces from three to five cuttings each year and makes from one to two tons per acre each cutting. One acre will often net the owner a profit of $40 to $60. Don't you consider that good for $11 to $14 land?
Ochiltree is the county seat of Ochiltree county. It is built on beautiful ground with a slight slope—just enough for drainage. It is a new place and is building up quite fast. There are now nearly 500 houses under construction, and contracts let for others. I am a contractor and carpenter myself and have more work on hand than I can complete in the next month. A new hotel and bank have just been completed. The bank opened its doors for business one week ago. We have several mercantile lines of business here but we need more. There are fine openings here. The population of our town is about 400 but it is increasing very fast. We have a good school and church that is almost completed. The people here are kind, courteous, hospitable, moral, and law-abiding citizens. We have prohibition all over the Panhandle country, and it meets with universal approval.
A. J. Taylor.

THE TEXAS PANHANDLE.
One of the Best Countries in America—the Sun-A Beautiful Level Prairie, the Soil a Rich Dark Loam—Mr. Taylor Writes Enthusiastically of His New Home in Texas.
To The Editor of The Robesonian:
Some time ago you published a letter which I had written after I had gone to the "Wild and Woolly West." I have received so many replies asking for a fuller description of this country, prices of land, etc., that I cannot take time to answer each one individually, so if you will grant me space in your valuable paper I will endeavor to present its readers with facts as I see them here in this country.
First, I must say that I was never surprised more than I was when I reached Texas. I had often heard that it was nothing more than a great desert, inhabited only by a few daring cowboys, desperadoes, the long-horn steer, coyotes and wolves; that it was a country where it did not rain more than once a year, and would never be fit for anything except stock raising. I must say that such is not the case. If any of your readers have this conception of Texas they are certainly blundering, for it is as different from that as night is from day. I have not been here long, but I was convinced very shortly after my arrival that it rains in Texas. I was never in a country I liked better than right here—no, not even as well. I truly believe that we have one of the best countries beneath the shining sun, and the very best of opportunities to be had. I was astonished to find such a country as the Panhandle of Texas really is.
The surface of this country is a beautiful level prairie. Of course there are places that are broken and slightly rough, but it is just along the water courses or creeks. The soil is a rich dark or black loam, easily cultivated, and most abundant yields. It seems to be from two to eight feet or even deeper. This is a new country and not very much is in cultivation yet, although many new people are coming in from all the northern and eastern States and beginning to plow up the prairies and make fields. There do not seem to be any people here from along the Atlantic coast, but I suppose it is because they do not know what kind of country it is. Probably they have the same conception as I did before I came here.
I went out in the country about two miles last Sunday afternoon to a farmer's place, just to see what kind of a place he had. I was never treated more courteously in my life. He took great delight in showing me over his place, through the gardens, in the barns, etc. He had one of the prettiest gardens I ever saw any place. I know it must have been very elegant during the summer. He had beautiful large cabbages that I know would weigh ten or twelve pounds; he had some peas that were as fine and rank as you ever saw. They were very near what I call m. His crops of milk maize, kafir corn, etc., were as good as any one could want. He had a fine lot of nice hogs. This is a fine hog country. From what I can learn from all the old-time settlers, there has never been a single hog to die of cholera. A person could become independent here raising hogs on a section of land. It is no trouble to raise any kind of feed and lots of it.
Corn makes from 80 to 50 bushels per acre; wheat from 25 to 35 bushels, with an average of about 25 bushels. Oats, rye, millet, etc., do equally as well. Alfalfa does well here, and all kinds of stock like it fine. It produces from three to five cuttings each year and makes from one to two tons per acre each cutting. One acre will often net the owner a profit of $40 to $60. Don't you consider that good for $11 to $14 land?
Ochiltree is the county seat of Ochiltree county. It is built on beautiful ground with a slight slope—just enough for drainage. It is a new place and is building up quite fast. There are now nearly 500 houses under construction, and contracts let for others. I am a contractor and carpenter myself and have more work on hand than I can complete in the next month. A new hotel and bank have just been completed. The bank opened its doors for business one week ago. We have several mercantile lines of business here but we need more. There are fine openings here. The population of our town is about 400 but it is increasing very fast. We have a good school and church that is almost completed. The people here are kind, courteous, hospitable, moral, and law-abiding citizens. We have prohibition all over the Panhandle country, and it meets with universal approval.
A. J. Taylor.

THE TEXAS PANHANDLE.
One of the Best Countries in America—the Sun-A Beautiful Level Prairie, the Soil a Rich Dark Loam—Mr. Taylor Writes Enthusiastically of His New Home in Texas.
To The Editor of The Robesonian:
Some time ago you published a letter which I had written after I had gone to the "Wild and Woolly West." I have received so many replies asking for a fuller description of this country, prices of land, etc., that I cannot take time to answer each one individually, so if you will grant me space in your valuable paper I will endeavor to present its readers with facts as I see them here in this country.
First, I must say that I was never surprised more than I was when I reached Texas. I had often heard that it was nothing more than a great desert, inhabited only by a few daring cowboys, desperadoes, the long-horn steer, coyotes and wolves; that it was a country where it did not rain more than once a year, and would never be fit for anything except stock raising. I must say that such is not the case. If any of your readers have this conception of Texas they are certainly blundering, for it is as different from that as night is from day. I have not been here long, but I was convinced very shortly after my arrival that it rains in Texas. I was never in a country I liked better than right here—no, not even as well. I truly believe that we have one of the best countries beneath the shining sun, and the very best of opportunities to be had. I was astonished to find such a country as the Panhandle of Texas really is.
The surface of this country is a beautiful level prairie. Of course there are places that are broken and slightly rough, but it is just along the water courses or creeks. The soil is a rich dark or black loam, easily cultivated, and most abundant yields. It seems to be from two to eight feet or even deeper. This is a new country and not very much is in cultivation yet, although many new people are coming in from all the northern and eastern States and beginning to plow up the prairies and make fields. There do not seem to be any people here from along the Atlantic coast, but I suppose it is because they do not know what kind of country it is. Probably they have the same conception as I did before I came here.
I went out in the country about two miles last Sunday afternoon to a farmer's place, just to see what kind of a place he had. I was never treated more courteously in my life. He took great delight in showing me over his place, through the gardens, in the barns, etc. He had one of the prettiest gardens I ever saw any place. I know it must have been very elegant during the summer. He had beautiful large cabbages that I know would weigh ten or twelve pounds; he had some peas that were as fine and rank as you ever saw. They were very near what I call m. His crops of milk maize, kafir corn, etc., were as good as any one could want. He had a fine lot of nice hogs. This is a fine hog country. From what I can learn from all the old-time settlers, there has never been a single hog to die of cholera. A person could become independent here raising hogs on a section of land. It is no trouble to raise any kind of feed and lots of it.
Corn makes from 80 to 50 bushels per acre; wheat from 25 to 35 bushels, with an average of about 25 bushels. Oats, rye, millet, etc., do equally as well. Alfalfa does well here, and all kinds of stock like it fine. It produces from three to five cuttings each year and makes from one to two tons per acre each cutting. One acre will often net the owner a profit of $40 to $60. Don't you consider that good for $11 to $14 land?
Ochiltree is the county seat of Ochiltree county. It is built on beautiful ground with a slight slope—just enough for drainage. It is a new place and is building up quite fast. There are now nearly 500 houses under construction, and contracts let for others. I am a contractor and carpenter myself and have more work on hand than I can complete in the next month. A new hotel and bank have just been completed. The bank opened its doors for business one week ago. We have several mercantile lines of business here but we need more. There are fine openings here. The population of our town is about 400 but it is increasing very fast. We have a good school and church that is almost completed. The people here are kind, courteous, hospitable, moral, and law-abiding citizens. We have prohibition all over the Panhandle country, and it meets with universal approval.
A. J. Taylor.

PLUMAINING.
Our Circulation Will be Strengthened During Month of November by More Than 200,000,000 Washington Post.
It is evident that depositors in New York financial institutions have come to their cool, common senses again, and that the wild scramble to withdraw money from banks and trust companies is over. The arrival of $80,000,000 in gold on Tuesday was a solid re-enforcement of cash, and the quick response of national banks all over the country to Secretary Cortis's suggestion relative to additional circulation not only insured relief at the immediate institution which obtains this currency, but also shows the tension at the money centers of the country. It is too much to expect complete relaxation at once throughout the United States, and particularly in the large cities where the strain has been very severe, but the worst is over, and monetary conditions will gradually improve from this time on. The millions drawn out of the banks and trust companies will slowly find their way back into general circulation.
It is estimated that before the close of November our important issues of gold will aggregate $60,000,000, while it is assured that additional issues of national currency will total not less than $25,000,000 in the same period of time.
In brief, our circulation will be strengthened during the month of November by more than $80,000,000 of an increase for our gold mines are producing daily, and the product is hastened to the mint.
Yet, while money matters will grow quieter, business will, as a consequence of the late flurry, cease to advance in volume as it has done in the past five years.
In certain sections it will undoubtedly decrease. In our immediate locality there is no indication of any injury, and with that proof of Washington's strength there will arise greater confidence than ever in the soundness and stability of our financial institutions and the reliability of our business firms and commercial enterprises. The shock to the country will be productive of good in the end, for it will not create any great financial mortality, but it is severe enough to compel immediate action by Congress upon currency matters, action that should have been taken years ago. In a few days New York banks will be in even stronger position than they are normally, but with their safety completely assured, there must be no relaxation in the efforts to increase the currency to an extent that will provide for the safe execution of the entire active business of the country.
It is meritorious to safeguard New York, but it is still more admirable to relieve the Union from any prospective dangers.

PLUMAINING.
Our Circulation Will be Strengthened During Month of November by More Than 200,000,000 Washington Post.
It is evident that depositors in New York financial institutions have come to their cool, common senses again, and that the wild scramble to withdraw money from banks and trust companies is over. The arrival of $80,000,000 in gold on Tuesday was a solid re-enforcement of cash, and the quick response of national banks all over the country to Secretary Cortis's suggestion relative to additional circulation not only insured relief at the immediate institution which obtains this currency, but also shows the tension at the money centers of the country. It is too much to expect complete relaxation at once throughout the United States, and particularly in the large cities where the strain has been very severe, but the worst is over, and monetary conditions will gradually improve from this time on. The millions drawn out of the banks and trust companies will slowly find their way back into general circulation.
It is estimated that before the close of November our important issues of gold will aggregate $60,000,000, while it is assured that additional issues of national currency will total not less than $25,000,000 in the same period of time.
In brief, our circulation will be strengthened during the month of November by more than $80,000,000 of an increase for our gold mines are producing daily, and the product is hastened to the mint.
Yet, while money matters will grow quieter, business will, as a consequence of the late flurry, cease to advance in volume as it has done in the past five years.
In certain sections it will undoubtedly decrease. In our immediate locality there is no indication of any injury, and with that proof of Washington's strength there will arise greater confidence than ever in the soundness and stability of our financial institutions and the reliability of our business firms and commercial enterprises. The shock to the country will be productive of good in the end, for it will not create any great financial mortality, but it is severe enough to compel immediate action by Congress upon currency matters, action that should have been taken years ago. In a few days New York banks will be in even stronger position than they are normally, but with their safety completely assured, there must be no relaxation in the efforts to increase the currency to an extent that will provide for the safe execution of the entire active business of the country.
It is meritorious to safeguard New York, but it is still more admirable to relieve the Union from any prospective dangers.

PLUMAINING.
Our Circulation Will be Strengthened During Month of November by More Than 200,000,000 Washington Post.
It is evident that depositors in New York financial institutions have come to their cool, common senses again, and that the wild scramble to withdraw money from banks and trust companies is over. The arrival of $80,000,000 in gold on Tuesday was a solid re-enforcement of cash, and the quick response of national banks all over the country to Secretary Cortis's suggestion relative to additional circulation not only insured relief at the immediate institution which obtains this currency, but also shows the tension at the money centers of the country. It is too much to expect complete relaxation at once throughout the United States, and particularly in the large cities where the strain has been very severe, but the worst is over, and monetary conditions will gradually improve from this time on. The millions drawn out of the banks and trust companies will slowly find their way back into general circulation.
It is estimated that before the close of November our important issues of gold will aggregate $60,000,000, while it is assured that additional issues of national currency will total not less than $25,000,000 in the same period of time.
In brief, our circulation will be strengthened during the month of November by more than $80,000,000 of an increase for our gold mines are producing daily, and the product is hastened to the mint.
Yet, while money matters will grow quieter, business will, as a consequence of the late flurry, cease to advance in volume as it has done in the past five years.
In certain sections it will undoubtedly decrease. In our immediate locality there is no indication of any injury, and with that proof of Washington's strength there will arise greater confidence than ever in the soundness and stability of our financial institutions and the reliability of our business firms and commercial enterprises. The shock to the country will be productive of good in the end, for it will not create any great financial mortality, but it is severe enough to compel immediate action by Congress upon currency matters, action that should have been taken years ago. In a few days New York banks will be in even stronger position than they are normally, but with their safety completely assured, there must be no relaxation in the efforts to increase the currency to an extent that will provide for the safe execution of the entire active business of the country.
It is meritorious to safeguard New York, but it is still more admirable to relieve the Union from any prospective dangers.

PLUMAINING.
Our Circulation Will be Strengthened During Month of November by More Than 200,000,000 Washington Post.
It is evident that depositors in New York financial institutions have come to their cool, common senses again, and that the wild scramble to withdraw money from banks and trust companies is over. The arrival of $80,000,000 in gold on Tuesday was a solid re-enforcement of cash, and the quick response of national banks all over the country to Secretary Cortis's suggestion relative to additional circulation not only insured relief at the immediate institution which obtains this currency, but also shows the tension at the money centers of the country. It is too much to expect complete relaxation at once throughout the United States, and particularly in the large cities where the strain has been very severe, but the worst is over, and monetary conditions will gradually improve from this time on. The millions drawn out of the banks and trust companies will slowly find their way back into general circulation.
It is estimated that before the close of November our important issues of gold will aggregate $60,000,000, while it is assured that additional issues of national currency will total not less than $25,000,000 in the same period of time.
In brief, our circulation will be strengthened during the month of November by more than $80,000,000 of an increase for our gold mines are producing daily, and the product is hastened to the mint.
Yet, while money matters will grow quieter, business will, as a consequence of the late flurry, cease to advance in volume as it has done in the past five years.
In certain sections it will undoubtedly decrease. In our immediate locality there is no indication of any injury, and with that proof of Washington's strength there will arise greater confidence than ever in the soundness and stability of our financial institutions and the reliability of our business firms and commercial enterprises. The shock to the country will be productive of good in the end, for it will not create any great financial mortality, but it is severe enough to compel immediate action by Congress upon currency matters, action that should have been taken years ago. In a few days New York banks will be in even stronger position than they are normally, but with their safety completely assured, there must be no relaxation in the efforts to increase the currency to an extent that will provide for the safe execution of the entire active business of the country.
It is meritorious to safeguard New York, but it is still more admirable to relieve the Union from any prospective dangers.

PLUMAINING.
Our Circulation Will be Strengthened During Month of November by More Than 200,000,000 Washington Post.
It is evident that depositors in New York financial institutions have come to their cool, common senses again, and that the wild scramble to withdraw money from banks and trust companies is over. The arrival of $80,000,000 in gold on Tuesday was a solid re-enforcement of cash, and the quick response of national banks all over the country to Secretary Cortis's suggestion relative to additional circulation not only insured relief at the immediate institution which obtains this currency, but also shows the tension at the money centers of the country. It is too much to expect complete relaxation at once throughout the United States, and particularly in the large cities where the strain has been very severe, but the worst is over, and monetary conditions will gradually improve from this time on. The millions drawn out of the banks and trust companies will slowly find their way back into general circulation.
It is estimated that before the close of November our important issues of gold will aggregate $60,000,000, while it is assured that additional issues of national currency will total not less than $25,000,000 in the same period of time.
In brief, our circulation will be strengthened during the month of November by more than $80,000,000 of an increase for our gold mines are producing daily, and the product is hastened to the mint.
Yet, while money matters will grow quieter, business will, as a consequence of the late flurry, cease to advance in volume as it has done in the past five years.
In certain sections it will undoubtedly decrease. In our immediate locality there is no indication of any injury, and with that proof of Washington's strength there will arise greater confidence than ever in the soundness and stability of our financial institutions and the reliability of our business firms and commercial enterprises. The shock to the country will be productive of good in the end, for it will not create any great financial mortality, but it is severe enough to compel immediate action by Congress upon currency matters, action that should have been taken years ago. In a few days New York banks will be in even stronger position than they are normally, but with their safety completely assured, there must be no relaxation in the efforts to increase the currency to an extent that will provide for the safe execution of the entire active business of the country.
It is meritorious to safeguard New York, but it is still more admirable to relieve the Union from any prospective dangers.

PLUMAINING.
Our Circulation Will be Strengthened During Month of November by More Than 200,000,000 Washington Post.
It is evident that depositors in New York financial institutions have come to their cool, common senses again, and that the wild scramble to withdraw money from banks and trust companies is over. The arrival of $80,000,000 in gold on Tuesday was a solid re-enforcement of cash, and the quick response of national banks all over the country to Secretary Cortis's suggestion relative to additional circulation not only insured relief at the immediate institution which obtains this currency, but also shows the tension at the money centers of the country. It is too much to expect complete relaxation at once throughout the United States, and particularly in the large cities where the strain has been very severe, but the worst is over, and monetary conditions will gradually improve from this time on. The millions drawn out of the banks and trust companies will slowly find their way back into general circulation.
It is estimated that before the close of