WAR TIME REMINISCENCES.

What Manner of Man Fitzgugh Lee Was—Contrast Between Lee and Mosby—An Incident of the War.

By Gen. F. A. Bond, of Hunters' Lodge.

During the winter of 1861-62 the Confederate army of Northern Virginia occupied cantonments near Manassas and their picket line was about 15 miles in front of one of the advanced posts directly towards Washington being at Fairfax Court House. At the same time the Union army was in winter quarters near Washington and their picket line was about 10 miles nearer us and in the neighborhood of Falls Church.

The Union army was at this time very deficient in cavalry, as their men had to learn to ride as a preliminary to becoming useful cavalrymen, and their picketing was done almost entirely by infantry; whilst our picketing and scouting was done by mounted men and, in the language of General Jeb Stuart, our cavalry was the "eyes and ears of the army."

I was at this time a lieutenant of a Maryland cavalry in the 1st Regiment Va. Cavalry and our lieutenant was Fitzgugh Lee—our present Consul at Havana. Col. Lee is below the medium height—not more than 5 feet 6 inches, and stoutly built—a splendid horseman, and, when well mounted, a very conspicuous figure. The pictures one sees of him now do not in the least resemble him as he was then, as he wore a full and very heavy beard of unusual length. He had been instructor of cavalry tactics at West Point and was an ideal soldier and at that early date the idol of the regiment.

One damp day in February, '62, about 100 men were chosen from our regiment and under the command of Col. Lee started on a scout. It was rumored we were to strike the enemy's pickets and capture some prisoners as a means of discovering what their intentions were. The roads were very muddy and after advancing beyond our lines the command was halted for a more perfect formation. Col. Lee selected eight or ten sections of his command and placed them under the command of an officer and directed him to advance two hundred yards ahead of the main body and to keep his eyes open. He then chose eight other men, all of whom were strangers to me—not being from my company—and placed them under my command, and gave me strict orders to follow the main body at a distance of two hundred yards. We proceeded in this manner probably a mile when an incident occurred that in a very marked manner shows the kindness and courtesy of General Lee's disposition and my own egotism and ignorance of discipline at this time.

I left my rear-guard and rode up to Col. Lee, who was at the head of the main body, and complained of the duty he had assigned me. I told him I did not want to be riding along behind everybody else and that if we were going to attack the enemy I wanted to be up with the advance. I know now that there was scarcely another officer of his rank in the army—especially a West Pointer—that would not have peremptorily ordered me back to my place with a threat to put me under arrest if I dared to again leave my duty for any cause, and I admit that under the same circumstances, two years later, I should have acted that way myself. Col. Lee, however, very kindly explained to me that he had given me that place as the "post of honor," that altho' I was farthest from the enemy during the advance, I would be nearest to them when we returned and that our troubles were not likely to be many until we retreated, and he assured me I would have my full share of all the glory. I returned to my command in better spirits, but it was years afterwards before I fully appreciated his great consideration.

After riding silently along the road until within about two miles of Falls Church we turned to the right through heavy timber and proceeded very cautiously for some distance, when suddenly there were several shots from the front and a rapid advance of the main body. I took the gallop and soon got through the wood and out in a long open valley with quite an extended view. Nearly half a mile to the front upon a sparsely wooded eminence was a blotch of crimson with a thin blue smoke above

it. I considered this glory enough for one occasion.

At this time John J. Mosby—afterwards the famous guerrilla chief—was adjutant of our regiment. There could not have been a greater contrast between the two men than I saw that day. Mosby was a small, wiry, and very active man, with a keen eye and a ready-made uniform for a lieutenant of artillery that fitted him and being cheap he bought it. When we drove past the spot after a moment Lee said, "By God, sir, if I ever again hear you call that bugle a horn, I will put you under arrest!"

How to Get Strong.
P. J. Daly, of 1247 W. Congress St., Chicago, tells of a way to become strong: He says: "My mother, who is old and was very feeble, is deriving so much benefit from Electric Bitters, that I feel it my duty to tell those who need a tonic and strengthening medicine about it. In my mother's case a marked gain in flesh has resulted, insomnia has been overcome, and she is steadily growing stronger." Electric Bitters quickly remedy stomach, liver and kidney complaints. Sold under guarantee at all drug stores, 50c.

Passed Examination Successfully.
James Donahue, Mew Britain, Conn., writes: "I tried several kidney remedies, and was treated by our best physicians for diabetes but did not improve until I took Foley's Kidney Remedy. After the second bottle I showed improvement, and five bottles cured me completely. I have since passed a rigid examination for life insurance." Foley's Kidney Remedy cures backache and all forms of kidney and bladder trouble. Sold by all druggists.

BRYAN ON BANK DEPOSITS

To Be Commended for his Stand for the Guarantee of Bank Deposits—Objections Result of Prejudice.

Charlotte Observer.

Mr. D. A. Tompkins was asked yesterday what he thought of the stand taken by Mr. W. J. Bryan on the question of guaranteed bank deposits and what he thought of the general proposition itself. He said:

"Mr. Bryan's speech upon the subject of guaranteed bank deposits appears to be as able an effort as that gentleman ever made at the same time one of the best expositions of the subject that has yet been offered by anybody."

"Less than twenty-five years ago there were many people who shuddered when some one they knew well proposed to take out life insurance. Many a wife positively objected to her husband taking out insurance for the reason that it seemed to her like setting his life against money. All this prejudice has now disappeared and the feeling about life insurance is wholesome and good. Insurance in other lines has made progress and is now generally regarded as very advantageous. This new movement to insure deposits is as wholesome and rational as life insurance. The objections made to it are as much based on prejudice as any ever made against life insurance."

"Let us suppose that a widow owns a house. There are none who would not consider it foolish for her to neglect insurance upon the house against fire, and yet when she sells the house and deposits the money in the bank, objection is made to her paying a very much smaller charge than a fire insurance premium to insure against loss by failure of the bank."

"The claim that insurance on deposits would contribute to reckless banking is wholly erroneous. All the stockholders stand with the full amount of their stock and 100 per cent. liability besides between the officers of a bank, and any encroachment upon the deposits. The stockholders elect the officers and these, together with the government supervision, constitute protection against reckless banking. The insurance of deposits will have nothing to do with it. The following is from Mr. Bryan's address:

"In like manner it might be said that if all people were careful about fire, fire insurance rates need not be as high as they are, but the careful have to pay higher rates than they should because some are not careful. Life insurance rates are higher than would be necessary to cover the actual risk if everybody took care of his health, and here, too, the cautious are burdened because some are careless of their health. All insurance is open to the same objection, and yet in insurance of all forms is growing and the insurance of deposits is growing in popularity more rapidly than any other form of insurance—and, I may add, it yields the largest return on the investment."

"The insurance of a house against fire is solely for the protection of the owner. The rest of the town or city in such a case is protected by a separate fire department."

"In the case of deposit insurance, it is not alone the depositor who is protected but the community is protected against panic. Mr. Bryan gives two very apt illustrations of how protected deposits protect the whole community as follows:

"Compare this failure under the guaranty system with a failure where there is no guaranty. In Oklahoma the bank commissioner telephoned the farmers to come in and get their money, and the answer was, 'I am busy today with my crop; I will be in in a day or two.'"

"In Cleveland, Ohio, a bank failed about the same time, and the papers announced 'Twelve hundred infuriated Italians stormed the closed doors of the busted banking house of Costan Liopea on Orange street, today. The police drove the crowd back.'"

"The bankers of the country who are opposed to guarantee of deposits are surely standing in their own light. The guarantee of deposits protects the bank in two ways that are very important:

"First. It protects a solvent bank from runs which create panic.

"Second. It removes the force of all arguments favoring the establishment of postal saving banks would necessarily be a government proposition. There are a few who doubt that the working people would put their savings in a postal savings bank, where it is guaranteed by the government at 2 per cent., rather than in any unguaranteed bank at 4 per cent. Safety is what the people want and they are going to have it in one form or another. This ties up the money of the country into the hands of the government, and the guarantee which the government gives is naturally the taxes paid by all the people. If deposits are guaranteed by the government or otherwise, either all the people or the banks must themselves pay the guarantee premiums."

"Again Mr. Bryan says: 'The refusal of the banks to permit the passage of a law granting security to depositors is responsible for the growth of the sentiment in favor of the government savings bank, and the sentiment will continue to grow unless something is done to satisfy the demands of the people upon this subject.'

"The Republican party proposes the establishment of a postal savings bank system; the Democratic party prefers the guaranteed bank, because it is better for the depositor and better for the banker—it gives the depositor the security which he needs and yet leaves the banking business in the hands of the banks. But the Democratic platform declares for the postal savings bank if the guaranteed bank cannot be secured," and in November more than 9 per cent. of the voters will, by their ballots, demand either the guaranteed bank or the postal savings bank. Can the financiers prevent the carrying out of this demand?"

AN INDEPENDENT CANDIDATE.

Reply of D. P. Shaw, Esq., to H. L. Edens.

Dear Sir:

Permit me to thank you for the publication of your letter that last Monday's Robesonian, for I really consider you have done me an unintentional favor. At least, it affords me the opportunity to brand as false in a very public manner certain statements that have been circulated over the county with the purpose of causing people to believe that I am the candidate of some special faction.

As stated in my letter, "my candidacy is and will be in favor of no special interests, and will be conducted independently of all such," and this I desire to repeat in no uncertain terms. I desire the people of Robeson county to know that I am "an independent candidate," and the personal wishes of any man or set of men, who were loyal to my candidacy, would not interfere in any manner with what I might conceive to be my conscientious duty, in the event of any nomination and election.

The fact that my candidacy was announced soon after Sheriff McLeod withdrew from the race is not such a remarkable "co-incidence" as to convince a reasonable, fair-minded man that I do not possess sufficient honesty and intelligence to perform my duty, regardless of the interests of any special faction.

As to the statement that Sheriff McLeod promised to send out five thousand circular letters by Saturday night favoring my candidacy, if I would come out on his side with Marshall Shepherd for the House, there is absolutely no foundation for such a falsehood. This is merely a rumor of some cheap, peanut politician.

From the foregoing your final interrogatory is rendered impertinent, therefore there is no necessity of answering the same.

I am, Respectfully,
D. P. SHAW,
Lumberton, N. C., Sept. 1, 1908.

Mr. K. M. Barnes is From Lower End and Should be Sent to Senate.

To the Editor of The Robesonian:

That was a quiet act which withdrew Sheriff McLeod as a candidate for the Senate and put up Mr. D. P. Shaw in his place. It looks as if there must have been some understanding which brought this about. We have nothing against Mr. Shaw, particularly, but we think he would have been in better position to run if he had announced himself sooner, and had not taken Sheriff McLeod's place. Some people seemed to want Sheriff McLeod badly, but why this change?

We think the people of Robeson county ought to support Mr. K. M. Barnes for the Senate. Mr. Barnes is a young man of liberal education and business attainments, whose more character is spotless. In fact, he is the type of Christian manhood of Robeson county which deserves anything the people of Robeson county can give him. Besides, the town of Lumberton had the Senator the last time, and he a lawyer, too. Even if the claims of Mr. Shaw and Mr. Barnes were equal in other respects, it seems to us that the lower end of the county should have the Senator this time. We all remember the lamented Mr. A. L. Shaw, of the upper end, who went to the Senate in 1904. Col. N. A. McLean went there in 1906, and now we think it but fair that the lower end should name the Senator. The section of the county from which Mr. Barnes comes has not had the senatorship for a number of years. The upper end of the county has had the Hon. Thomas A. McBryde, and the Hon. A. L. Shaw. The Maxton section had Col. E. F. McRae some years ago. Lumberton has had Col. N. A. McLean and the Hon. Stephen McIntyre, and now we think the lower end of the county, which has made such great progress in recent years, should have Mr. Barnes. He is a worthy representative of the people of the lower end of Robeson, and they are proud of him. We trust the Democrats of Robeson county will do their duty in the primary on Sept. 10th, and nominate Mr. Barnes overwhelmingly.

"LOWER END DEMOCRAT."

The body of S. G. Ryan, who was one of the leading lawyers of Raleigh, was found Sunday night in his office, death having occurred 12 or 15 hours before. Death is supposed to have been due to heart trouble.

A Paying Investment.
Mr. John White, of 38 Highland Ave., Houlton, Maine, says:—"I have been troubled with a cough every winter and spring. Last winter I tried many advertised remedies, but the cough continued until I bought a 50c bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery; before that was half my life, the cough was all right. This winter the same happy result has followed; a few doses have banished the annual cough. I am now convinced that Dr. King's New Discovery is the best of all cough and lung remedies." Sold under guarantee at all drug stores. 50c. and $1.00—Trial bottle free.

They Take The Kinks Out.
"I have used Dr. King's New Life Pills for many years, with increasing satisfaction. They take the kinks out of stomach, liver and bowels, without fogs or friction," says N. H. Brown, of Pitts field, Vt. Guaranteed satisfactory at all drug stores, 25c.

"The Republican party has so far been very unfortunate in its handling of the currency question, and appertaining questions, although Mr. Charles Fowler, a Republican, worked out a most satisfactory currency bill. The Republican party under Mr. Aldrich defeated it, and substituted something which was much worse than nothing."

"Everybody who ever carries a bank account and particularly every banker ought to read Mr. Bryan's speech."

Some Reasons for Supporting Him.
To the Editor of The Robesonian:

Here are some of the reasons why the people of this section will support Mr. K. M. Barnes at the Democratic primary on September tenth:

He is a man who will have the interest of the entire county at heart.

He is a sober, intelligent, Christian gentleman in whom the people can place their utmost confidence.

He is a man who was put out by no clique or ring of politicians.

He is a man who is not out for glory, favors or pecuniary benefits.

He is a man who feels as if his services are demanded by the majority of the Democrats of this county.

He is a man who knows that his party needs his services and he has responded as all true men should do.

He is a Democrat with a record which any man can be proud of, always voting for the nominee of his party.

He is a man who has always put the very best example before the young men of his neighborhood, leading them away from the darker things which always debauch the youth of our land.

He has never been found filling the place of other men, but stands out for himself, Democracy and good citizenship.

He is a man whom the bankers and lawyers of Lumberton can not lead around by a halter, and also one who needs no vindication.

We can give quite a few more reasons, but the above are enough this time. We will let you hear from us further by giving him a large majority at the primary—CITIZEN.

A Paying Investment.
Mr. John White, of 38 Highland Ave., Houlton, Maine, says:—"I have been troubled with a cough every winter and spring. Last winter I tried many advertised remedies, but the cough continued until I bought a 50c bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery; before that was half my life, the cough was all right. This winter the same happy result has followed; a few doses have banished the annual cough. I am now convinced that Dr. King's New Discovery is the best of all cough and lung remedies." Sold under guarantee at all drug stores. 50c. and $1.00—Trial bottle free.
