SENATOR OVERMAN.

Brilliant Speeches Made Before the Joint Caucus of the Legislature When He Was Chosen to Succeed Himself—His Career Reviewed.

In Thursday's paper was mentioned the result of the joint caucus of the Democratic Senators and Representatives of the General Assembly, held last Wednesday night, which nominated Senator Lee S. Overman to succeed himself in the United States Senate. In placing Senator Overman in nomination Senator A. S. Dockery made a brilliant speech, paying merited tribute to his ability and service. The speech is reproduced from The News and Observer:

"In startling striking contrast to the stormy scenes of six years ago, we are met tonight, in profoundest peace, with absolute unanimity, to re-name a great and distinguished United States Senator.

"North Carolina, except when traitor hands have dealt the cards, has sent none save her bravest and her best to this, the highest hall of national legislation. Men of mark and merit have ever occupied this exalted station. That all hands should be outstretched and all eyes upturned to the man whom we have met tonight to honor, is in itself tribute sufficient and enough. That in this aspiring and ambitious age his name, and his name alone, should be presented for this post of preferment and power, speaks in thunder tones of his place in the pride, and his hold in the hearts of all North Carolina. For six years, well and worthily, has he worn the Senatorial toga. During his first term he has achieved a name and attained a fame second to that of no Southern Senator, barring possibly the murdered, martyred Carmack. With the character of a Culberson, the brain of a Bailey, the manliness of a Morgan, the patriotism of a Pettus, the virtue of a Vance, but without the turbulence of a Tilman, he is the peer of any living Senator. His Democracy is as orthodox as was the religion of the Apostles. He is a Mount Pisgah on Democratic heights.

"A graduate of Old Trinity in early manhood, as private secretary, he sat at the feet of the venerated Vance, and schooled by the beloved Jarvis in a like capacity, his early training was toward splendid service to the State.

"For five times, in 1883, 1885, 1887, 1893 and 1899 he was a leading member of the General Assembly, and the dashing Speaker of the House in 1893. In 1895 he was the nominee of the Democratic caucus for United States Senator, but was defeated by a coalition and conspiracy of Republicans and Populists—a canorous condition now happily passed away. In 1900 he was President of the Democratic State Convention, and his ringing charge to that great assemblage of white men: 'Down with Russellism, Radicalism, Rascality and Ruin,' was both a prophecy and a command. In 1903, having been the victim at the hands of the State's enemies, he became the victor at the hands of his friends, and was elected to the United States Senate. To thus honor him, many deserving Democrats, many magnificent men, were kindly requested to step aside.

"Prophecy made in Senator Overman's behalf, has passed into the realm of performance now. He has done something for North Carolina. He has been placed on the most important committees of the Senate, notably, Claims and Pensions, where he has secured thousands of dollars for his constituents of whom it can be truthfully said, 'They need the money; Public Buildings, where, through his influence millions are being expended in North Carolina; Privileges and Elections, where he subjected Senator Smoot, the Mormon, to a rigid cross-examination, reaching the conclusion that one wife is all a fellow is entitled to, and more than he can manage; Military Affairs, to which the Brownsville-Forker affair was referred, and he found that the negroes not only did it, but over-did it; Forest Preservations, from whence he sent a favorable report for a Forest Reserve in North Carolina, passed it in the Senate, and it went its way rejoicing until it hit 'Uncle Joe,' and the up-

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

It Does the Business.
Mr. E. E. Chamberlain, of Clinton, Maine, says of Buelen's Arnica Salve: "It does the business; I have used it for piles and it cured them. Used it for chapped hands and it cured them. Applied it to an old sore and it healed it without leaving a scar behind." 25c at all drug stores.

turned cigar in the House—there it has been constantly chloroformed. Fishing and Fisheries, by which may finally be solved the mystery as to the merits of spitting on the bait and the use of assafoetida, and also the truth or untruth of the maxim 'once a fisherman, always a liar.'

"Perhaps his most complimentary assignment was the Judiciary, a post filled by only three North Carolinians since the reign of King Solomon—here he sat wise as the wisest, leaving his impression on the great constructive measures of the past few years. He has taken a conspicuous part in the discussion of questions of great moment, and has at all times commanded attention, speaking to Senators and not only Senators. His usefulness has but begun. He has wrung from the unwilling administration of His Majesty, Teddy the Terrible, recognition and reward. His private life is as blameless as a babe's, and his public career is without blot, blot or blemish. He looks the world square in the face as immaculate as the members of a household after the performance of the necessary duties of Saturday night.

If some modern Diogenes, substituting a search-light for the legendary lantern, should start afresh in search of an honest man, he would exclaim 'Eureka' when he beheld the form and face of Senator Overman. In youth he got religion, and although actively participating in politics, has kept it. When the bell rings, at home or abroad he immediately starts for church, pays attention to the preacher, oftentimes remembers the text, and always drops something in the hat. He says his prayers as regularly as night comes. His is the heartiest handshake I ever felt. He is twice as good-looking as the ancient Apollo, has a head of hair handsomer than Absalom's, and has the finest eye that ever flashed for his State's glory.

"He is the biggest, brainiest man in North Carolina. 'It is my pleasure to nominate to succeed himself in the United States Senate, the Honorable Lee S. Overman.'

When Senator Overman was brought before the caucus the entire house arose and gave him an ovation. Senator Overman said in part:

"This note of confidence, this approval of my record in the Senate overwhelms me with the deepest and most profound gratitude. When I stood here six years ago and thanked you for then honoring me, I could not then fully comprehend the great responsibility that I assumed. But now in the light of six years' service, knowing the great problems, mighty and great that are continually coming up to be settled, to recognize that you have given me an unanimous vote of confidence actually overwhelms me."

Senator Overman continued by outlining the needs now greater than ever before in the country's history of a militant, aggressive, united Democratic warfare on the assault of the Republican party on the very life of the constitution, turning this country into a centralized despotism.

Indisiduously the constitution is being undermined, until by centralizing influences, the addition of a permanent horde of officers and office-holders there is fast approaching a complete Oligarchy, and the time was fast approaching when the people would arise in solemn, mighty wrath and rebuke the Republican party so drunk with success and power, and restore to the Democratic party the management of this government.

He gave a recital of Democratic victories in Western and Northern States showing how the trend was towards Democracy, and closed in a hope that the grand old State of North Carolina would continue prosperous, Democratic and happy.

L. C. Jackson, a well-to-do farmer of Cumberland county, was convicted Wednesday in the Superior Court at Fayetteville of perjury in swearing that he saw Mr. Thomas Seals, of Rockfish, abstract a vote from the ballot box in a school tax election last June, and was sentenced to pay a fine of $25, and serve 18 months on the county roads. Motions to set aside the verdict and for a new trial were denied, when the defendant appealed to the Supreme Court and was placed under a $400 appearance bond.

A Washington dispatch of the 13th states that it will require $234,000,000 to run the postal service during the fiscal year 1910, according to the figures reached by the House committee on postoffices and post roads. This is an increase of about $12,000,000 over the amount appropriated for the present fiscal year.

GOVERNOR KITCHIN'S INAUGURAL ADDRESS.

Governor Kitchin's inaugural address was a carefully prepared and excellently written paper which it would be a pleasure to reproduce in full, but that is not practicable, so it is necessary to give only a synopsis.

After referring briefly to the necessity for political parties and our system of government, the Governor discussed primaries, declaring that "a properly safeguarded direct primary for electing the nominees of all political parties is the best plan that has been or can be devised," and that it ought to diminish the expense of campaigns for nominations. If such expense should continue to increase as it has in recent years it will soon be that not one but a wealthy man can aspire to our offices. Among the provisions which ought to be enacted and made applicable to all counties where primaries are held are the following: First, delegates should be required to cast the vote on the first ballot according to the primary result. Second, there should be a registered list of party voters subject to challenge. Third, the Legislature should fix the date of primaries for all parties for State, judicial and congressional offices, and also fix another date for primaries for legislative and county affairs with a provision permitting the county executive committee, in its discretion, to adopt for any county primary, the State and district primary day. Fourth, all corrupt use of money for primary effect should be made an offense against the law. Fifth, when only one candidate gives notice in writing of his candidacy to the proper executive committee by a stated period prior to the primary day, the committee should have the legal power to declare him the party nominee. This period should be longer for State and district than for county candidates. Sixth, the willful publication of any false charge concerning his political record or reflecting upon his moral character for the purpose of injuring the candidate in the primaries with the people should be penalized by law.

Touching prohibition, he said that since the people have ratified State prohibition by a large majority, the Legislature should not seriously consider any proposition to repeal the law and that every good citizen should insist upon its honest and faithful enforcement. He has in mind no general reform in education work, "but a deep conviction that we should more thoroughly develop a system already constructed by patriotic wisdom."

"In a republic to have a government certainly just, and to insure the punishment of wrong and protection of virtue, to prevent oppression and guarantee right, to distribute the blessing arising from organized society equally and to levy the burden of its sustenance equitable upon persons, property and privileges, three things are essential in citizenship—a heart so honorable that it cannot be corrupted, a soul so courageous that it cannot be intimidated, a mind so intelligent that it cannot be deceived, for the three methods to corrupt, intimidate and deceive will encourage the policy already adopted, urging that the simple essentials of agriculture be taught in our schools, and there should be special instruction upon typhoid fever and tuberculosis, and especially upon precautions to limit and avoid them.

Referring to the provisions made for the State's unfortunates, he said that the State should be liberal with the charitable institutions. In a graceful reference to Confederate veterans the Governor said he hoped it would be possible to increase our pensions. He congratulated the State that its manufacturing industries are emerging from the shadows of the recent panic. The industries of no State withstood the panic better than ours. Factories should not be hindered in their work but should be urged forward to greater triumphs. The surroundings of factory workers should be made as healthful and pleasant as possible and the public may rightfully require that hereafter every mill erected shall be constructed in accordance with the demands of sanitation. He, with other right-thinking men, is against child factory labor, "yet every one knows that under present conditions unless our homes for the aged and infirm and our orphanages are vastly enlarged some children must labor." He recognizes the fact that "child labor of some kind at present is an unavoidable evil."

His remarks about corporations:

Rank Foolishness.
"When attacked by a cough or a cold or when your throat is sore, it is rank foolishness to take any other medicine than Dr. King's New Discovery," says C. O. Eldridge, of Empire, Ga. "I have used New Discovery seven years and I know it is the best remedy on earth for coughs and colds, croup, and all throat and lung troubles. My children are subject to croup, but New Discovery quickly cures every attack." Known the world over as the King of throat and lung remedies. Sold under guarantee at all drug stores. 50c and $1.00 Trial bottle free.

tions were eminently sane and just. The Attorney General should be authorized to examine every proposed charter for corporations to see that it violates no law, and he should be charged with the duty of enforcing our law against all corporations. The State has always dealt and will continue to deal kindly with corporations; only the man or the corporation that fears the right or follows the wrong need dread the wisdom of the people or the action of the Legislature.

Recognizing the value of good roads, he would have the State in every practical way encourage their building. He suggests that a State highway commission may with great advantage be created to consider the whole matter and report to the next Legislature. As to the drainage of swamp lands, a subject of especial interest to the people of this section of the State, he thinks that the time cannot be far distant when these lands will be drained and become largely free from their present disease-breeding conditions and become the most productive lands in the State. He recommends some law authorizing private owners of swamp lands to enter upon the lands of others, upon just terms and under proper regulations, for the purpose of effectual drainage.

The Governor believes that something further is needed to encourage our people to deposit their money in banks instead of hoarding it, to moderate the effects of panic, to prevent runs on solvent banks, to insure deposits and to enable our banks to survive the postal savings bank system, and in his judgment the bank guarantee deposit policy will benefit not only the banks but very greatly the public.

Concerning the railroad business of the State he said: "Every thinking man realizes that railroads are necessary, that they bless every community they touch, that they must be profitable in order to give proper service, that they deserve fair treatment at the hands of Legislatures, and moreover that any legislation that would deprive them of just compensation would be futile under the constitution. The people are willing to be charged such rates for travel and freight as will pay the legitimate expenses of every kind and character, including liberal wages to all employees, keep up the roads in good repair and safe condition, and then pay fair dividends upon the value of the property. But the people are not willing for companies chartered for the public benefit to exact from the public under an almost unlimited power to extort when unrestrained by law, additional rates to pay dividends on fictitious values or to enable railroad magicians by trickery to make millions overnight, or to justify them in saddling upon the public millions of securities in watered stock. In my judgment the fundamental wrong in the American railroad problem is watered stock. The great question on most of the railroad managers is how to make one dollar's worth of property earn dividends and interest on two dollars of stock and bonds. This tends to two great evils, overcharging the public on one hand, and stinting the roads in labor and equipment on the other. This overcapitalization, together with the fact that, except in rare instances, the owners of railroads do not live among and have little sympathy with the people they serve, are at the bottom of most railroad evils. Oftentimes a manager serving a far away corporate head, not knowing how long he will hold his position, endeavors to make a record by charging the public all he can, and by exercising a temporary economy that leads finally to defective roadbed, dangerous track and insufficient equipment, for he is expected above all other things from his position to make the property earn dividends upon original and watered stock. It is evident that one of the essentials of proper regulation of railroads is charges to be provided by statute for ascertaining the value of railroad property in order to have a basis upon which to consider rates.

"The last Legislature reduced passenger fares. The rates now in force, which save thousands of dollars annually to the people from the old rates, have been approved by the railroads as just and reasonable. The conditions justify us in anticipating no agitation for any change in passenger fares during the term of the incoming administration."

He condemned the discriminations in freight rates practiced by railroads in favor of some and against other cities and said that the State should do all within her power to abolish such discrimination and to secure for our enterprises and business inter-State rates as fair for our citizens as the rates enjoyed by the citizens of other States in their enterprises.

The value of our taxable property has not increased as much as the last Legislature anticipated and expenditures for the past two years exceeded receipts, which fact, Governor Kitchin declared, emphasized the necessity of practicing the governmental virtue of economy.

"BLUR"

This word is used by people coming to us perhaps more than under any other conditions. The meaning of this word is plain to us all, and when you hear it you know what it means. Something is not clear, a mist, cloudy, smoky, shady, and as some say inky, a little obscured. All these words are familiar to us, they come to us in complaints or expressions of trouble. Brought about by poor eyesight, or as it is usually expressed, everything has become BLUR'D. We often make things clear to our patrons and that we understand this difficulty. Come and see us.
