MALLOY-SHAW

A Beautiful Marriage at Lumber Bridge—Miss Allie Malloy Becomes the Bride of Mr. Leslie Lamont Shaw.

Reported for The Robesonian.

A wedding of unusual splendor was that of Miss Allie Malloy and Mr. Leslie Lamont Shaw, which was solemnized Wednesday evening (April 27th) at the beautiful country place of the bride's parents, Capt. and Mrs. J. D. Malloy, of Lumber Bridge. The home was a bower of beauty. In the reception hall, graceful vines and rare white flowers (carrying out the color-scheme of white and green) formed garlands, which terminated in the center of the hall, where was hung a white wedding bell.

In the parlor the color-scheme was wisteria and white; the soft mellow light of the candles, the graceful bloom of the wisteria blending with the white, formed a setting fit for just such an occasion.

As the stirring notes of Lohegrin's wedding march, skillfully rendered by Misses Caroline McNeill, at the piano, accompanied by Margaret McNeill with the violin, sounded forth; the bride, leaning on the arm of her sister, Mrs. Annie Malloy Smith, entered from the hall-way, passed through the side arch under which was hung a floral "M."

At the same time the groom, with his brother, Mr. T. M. Shaw, of Fayetteville, entering from a side entrance, met the bride at the altar, where in a very impressive manner, the marriage vows were spoken, Rev. A. W. Shaw, pastor of the Presbyterian church, of Pittsboro, officiating.

The soft music changed to the joyful notes of Mendelssohn's wedding march and the bride and groom passing out into the reception hall, through the central arch, above which hung a floral "S", pausing at the door only long enough for the bride to throw away her bouquet.

The bride is one of Lumber Bridge's most attractive young ladies and was lovely indeed in her handsome wedding robe of white messaline satin; the lace at her bosom was held in place by a crescent of diamonds and pearls, a gift of the groom. Her beautiful veil was prettily draped and was adjusted with a wreath of lilies of the valley and she carried a shower bouquet of the same flowers. The maid of honor was attired in wisteria messaline and carried a bouquet of white flowers.

The groom is a son of the late Hon. A. L. Shaw and is a prominent business man of Lumber Bridge and has many friends throughout this part of the State. Immediately after the ceremony elegant refreshments were served; and amid the congratulations and well wishes of hosts of friends the happy couple left for an extended southern tour. The numerous and handsome presents attest the popularity of this couple. Mr. and Mrs. Shaw will make their future home at Lumber Bridge.

ANTIOCH ITEMS.

School Closed—Novel Insurance Office—Antioch's Mayor Moves to Town—Hotel Facilities—Other Items.

Correspondence of The Robesonian.

Antioch April 27—The academy has closed, and this ancient city (where the disciples were first called christians) misses the presence of the school children. The various members of the faculty are spending several days visiting friends here and at Red Springs before returning to their respective homes.

The latest addition at Antioch is a novel insurance office, Mr. Jno. McDuffy, of Fayetteville, and Berry Page, of Lumberton, with a crew of agents, are "Tenting" at Hodger's pond, and are fishing not only for fish but men. They report good success both ways.

Messrs. K. M. Barnes and J. R. Flowers, of Barnesville, are spending a few days in the city guests of Mr. J. A. Brown. Mr. J. R. Walters and sister, Miss Loula, spent a few days last week visiting relatives and friends at John's Station.

Rev. Mr. Gaston, of Norfolk, Va. filled the pulpit at the Presbyterian church here Sunday. This church has been vacant since the removal of Mr. Walker to Barium Springs. The people were very much pleased with Mr. Gaston and trust they can secure him as their pastor.

Mr. J. A. Hodgkin Antioch Mayor has moved into the old Hodgkin house on Main street, which house has been vacant since the death of his mother. This leaves Mr. Hodgkin's house on "Water street" vacant; but their is such a demand for houses here it wont be vacant long. That the demand is greater than the supply is evidenced by the fact that some of Antioch's latest additions are temporarily residing in tents. Mrs. D. H. McNeill and Miss Sadie McNeill were Red Springs visitors Tuesday Mrs. J. A. Brown and J. A. Jr., spent Wednesday at Raeford, "The Capitol of Hoke."

Mr. S. P. Smith returned Tuesday from a few days visit to Wilmington. Mr. E. D. Gaitly and Miss Myrtle Walter were visitors at "The Queen City" of Maxton Saturday.

The greatest need at Antioch now is better hotel facilities. We learn, however, that this long felt want will soon be supplied. "The Central Hotel," located on "Hill Avenue," has changed hands and is now used as a dwelling.

We hope to meet many of "The Macks" Shaws and other "Scots," of Lumberton at Red Springs on May 18th. This promises to mark a very important epoch in the history of this noble people. We trust all may take "Snyder's" suggestion and make this a great day.

Robeson's the Best.

By Prof. J. B. Carlyle.

The Old North State's a goodly land,
That spreads from mount to sea,
With soils to suit all products grown,
And fruits in measure free;
With rivers deep and forests rich
Of minerals rare possessed—
But of her sections counted all
Old Robeson's the best.

Let Buncombe boast her noble past
With mountain grandeur crowned,
Let Mecklenburg assert her claims
With reasoning profound;
Let Guilford count her folks three times
To reach the census test,
While Wake wakes up and joins the band,
But Robeson's the best.

In war her sons are in the van,
In peace they save the State;
Whenever duty calls they go
Prepared for any fate.
No boastful spirit marks their course,
Deception they detest;
They work their tasks from day to day,
And Robeson is best.

Her fertile soil and sturdy sons,
Her daughters brave and fair,
Her water pure and climate fine
Combine in measure rare,
To lift her proudly over all
Her sisters East and West.
And may she ever stay as now
The largest and the best.

IN SOCIAL REALMS.

Mrs. A. T. McLean Entertains the Young Matron's Club.

Reported for The Robesonian.

Mrs. Alexander Torry McLean beautifully entertained the Young Matron's Club and other friends, Friday afternoon from four to six o'clock.

Mrs. Henry Jennings received at the door while the hostess met the guests in the hall, with a hearty welcome, inviting them to the punch bowl, where Misses Mary McMeil and Sallie McLean served delicious punch. The air was fragrant with the odor of beautiful roses that were in evidence everywhere, delighting the eye.

When the guests had assembled in the parlor, hand painted cards in roses of every hue were distributed, and a rose contest engaged the earnest attention of everyone for some minutes. When the allotted time had expired, it was found that quite a number of ladies had answered each question correctly. Misses Emma Norment and Jessie Fuller; Messdames A. W. McLean, R. D. Caldwell, A. W. Peace, Irvin Jenkins, S. McIntyre, A. H. McLeod, H. B. Jennings and F. J. Thomas cutting for the prize. Mrs. Thomas was successful and received the blue ribbon.

The guests were then conducted to the dining room by the hostess, which was all a glow with the mellow light of numerous pink candles in silver candelabra. A profusion of exquisite pink roses, in many shades, adorned the centre of the table, forming an artistic picture.

Delicious refreshments in several courses were served by Misses Sallie McLean and Addie Norment.

After returning to the parlor and entering into pleasant conversation for some moments with reluctance the guests bade their hostess adieu assuring her of a charming afternoon filled with delights.

Miss Helen Stainback Entertains.

Reported for The Robesonian.

On last Wednesday evening Miss Helen Stainback delightfully entertained the X-X Club and a few of their intimate friends from 8:45 to 11:30 o'clock at the home of her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Fred J. Thomas, on Fifth street. The members of the graduating class of the Lumberton graded school have been entertained on a number of occasions recently with a decision at each that it was the best; this one proving no exception to the rule. The guests unanimously agreed that the pleasures of the evening eclipsed them all. On arrival the guests were presented at the door with a tiny bow of ribbon of different colors which enabled each one to find his or her partner for the contest, which followed later on in the evening. The contest was entitled "10 Tens," which corresponded nicely with the X-X Club, which is composed of ten girls from the tenth grade; there was also ten questions with the answer to each one ending in a ten.

The prize, a book "Red Roc," was won by Mr. Raymon Thompson and Miss Maria Nash, and the booby by Mr. Joe McPhail and Miss Sallie Thompson, which was a small pocket book containing ten pennies.

Strawberries, whipped cream and cake were then served, after which the guests gave themselves up to the pleasure of some of the popular parlor games.

Everyone so thoroughly enjoyed the occasion that they reluctantly left long after the hour for departure had passed.

Round Dozen Club Entertained.

Reported for The Robesonian.

The Round Dozen Club spent a delightful afternoon with Miss Claudia Davis, on Thursday afternoon. In addition to the regular members, Mrs. Malcolm Whitfield, Mrs. A. E. White and Mrs. Watson were present.

When all had assembled, Miss Davis put us to work on a most original contest entitled "The Romance of a Shirt-waist." In the story were several blanks, to be filled with the names of different parts of a shirt-waist. There was much fun and laughter over the attempt to make the heroins hem, fell, or ruffle the hero. When the correct answers were read we were dismayed to find how little most of us knew about so common a thing as a shirt-waist. Miss Lizzie Whitfield and Mrs. Malcolm Whitfield, however, filled every blank correctly. In return for this proficiency, they cut for the pink bow, which was won by Mrs. Whitfield.

In reward for our industrious efforts, we were soon served with the most refreshing and delicious cream and cake. After this the time sped in laughter and talk. Our late departure and many expressions of a good time, testified to our enjoyment of this most pleasant occasion.

Miss Amanda McDiarmid Entertains.

Reported for The Robesonian.

On Friday afternoon the X-X club met with Miss Amanda McDiarmid. Soon after we arrived we were presented with paper and pencils and asked to give the correct names to ten roses in a vase placed on the center table. Some of the roses had real hard names as "Coquette de Alps" and so it took some time to think of their names. In looking over the papers it was found that several had named them all correctly. In the cut for the prize Miss Annie Neal Fuller won the book entitled "The Rose of Old St. Louis."

After the contest the club quartette sang a part of "Roses". Then delicious refreshments were served by Misses Amanda McDiarmid and Sallie Thompson.

The idea of roses was well carried out throughout the afternoon and after much chatter and fun members left having assured Miss McDiarmid of a delightful time.

Miss Lillian Proctor entertained the Tenth grade of the graded school, of which she is a member, Friday evening from 8:30 to 11:30 o'clock at the home of her mother, Mrs. Lizzie G. Proctor, on the corner of Sixth and Elm streets.

Mrs. Proctor received at the door and Miss Leslie Proctor served at the punch bowl. Among the evening's amusements were two contests, "Trip to Europe" and "Choosing Your Wife." The prize in the first contest was won by Miss Cora Page and in the second by Mr. Lawrence Parker. Refreshments were served, there was much good music and a general good time was had.
