The result was a complete victory for the Scottish forces.

In the attempt to place Prince Charles Stuart on the throne, the Highland Scottish families. who adhered to the house of Stuart, lost heavily at the battle of Culloden, April 16, 1746. Charles Maclean, who was in command, and 200 of his clan were killed. It was a decisive victory for the government forces and was the last attempt made by the Highland Scottish families to regain the throne of Great Britain for the Stuarts.

Following the battle at Culloden one branch of the Maclean family migrated to Sweden, another branch moving to Philadelphia, Pa., going afterward to Wilmington, Del. Col. Allan Maclean, a member of the Deleware branch, recalling the defeat at Culloden, was one of the first to raise a regiment to oppose the British government. His regiment was known as Allan Maclean's light infantry. Afterward, when the State of Deleware ratified the federal constitution, Colonel Maclean signed the ratification on behalf of the county of Kent.

While Col. Allan Maclean in Deleware was doing everything within his power to oppose the British forces, another member of the family, Sir Allan Maclean, a general in the British army in charge of a Scottish regiment in eastern Canada, reached the city of Quebec by forced marches just before Montgomery and Arnold arrived on the opposite side of the St. Lawrence river, with their combined forces to capture Quebec, the key to the conquest of Canada. Maclean held the city for several weeks and finally, on the last night of 1775, he defeated the invading forces, thus holding Canada for the British empire.

Duart Castle.

Duart Castle, where members of the Clan Maclean from all parts of the world will gather late next August, is situated on a promontory forming the northeastern part of the Isle of Mull, which is separated from the mainland by a narrow strait. The castle faces the sea and is built on a perpendicular rock, 100 feet in height.

It derives its name from the Scottish words, "Dubh," meaning black, and "aird," a height or promontory. Approached from the sea the rock is dark and forbidding. The sailors called it "Dubh Aird," hence the strong-Lean, bart, K. C. B., D.L., hereditary head of the Clan Maclean,

For the Legislature

In announcing my candidacy as one of the Representatives of Robeson in the next General Assembly, I want to state my position on the questions that are before the county. I am in favor of changing the road law to suit the wishes of the people—they pay the taxes and should say how the money should be spent. I am in favor ot reduction of taxes consistent with the progress Robeson county is making. I am opposed to any division of Robeson county and favor adjusting our difficulties inside the county lines and inside the Democratic party. If the above meets with the approval of the Democrats of the county, I will appreciate their support in the primary, assuring them if elected I will serve the people of the whole county to the best of my ability.
