New Buildings and Improvements—Methodist Ladies Preparing for a Bazaar—Personal Mention.

Correspondence of The Robesonian.
Fairmont, Nov. 22.—The Methodist ladies have chosen as the date for their bazaar, December 10, 11 and 12, and the rest of the week if necessary, and will be glad to see their friends and serve them with oysters and other good things to eat in the handsome new Jones building on Main street.

Mr. N. R. Jenkins, who recently bought Mrs. Sanford's house on Cottage street, is having a good deal of work done on it and it will be one of the most attractive homes in town when completed.

Messrs. Claude Cashwell of Wilmington and Knight Cashwell of Washington, D. C., are at home with their father, who continues very ill.

Rev. C. H. Durham and Rev. D. P. Bridges closed the meeting in the Baptist church last Monday night. Large crowds attended all the while and we hope much good was done.

The Fairmont Messenger's new home is going up on Leesville avenue. It is being built of concrete blocks.

Rev. S. T. Moyle will leave for Conference at Fayetteville next Tuesday. He has had a successful year's work on Robeson circuit and will go up to Conference with a clean sheet and is expected by all to return for next year. Mr. A. S. Thompson, and possibly others, will also attend Conference.

Quite a number of our people went over to your town, to see "Baby Mine" last Wednesday night.

Messrs. Carl McLean and Gray Mitchell and Misses Lorena Lewis, Fannie Belle Taylor and Annie Lewis, and Monroe went to Rowland Wednesday night to attend a play given by home talent for the Methodist ladies' society. Of course they had a most enjoyable time, but ask Hal Brown, who brought them in at five next morning, if they really enjoy when he found them at the Court church near Rowland. We are sure they felt the strength of that new saying, "Life's just one blamed thing after another."

Mr. George Calhoun, who had been visiting relatives in Baltimore and other points, returned home last week and Mr. Calhoun is no longer a "lone lorn bachelor."

Mr. Frank Floyd has purchased of Rev. W. W. Willis a house on Floyd street which he will remodel for his own use.

Mrs. Caroline Jenkins and daughters have moved into town and are occupying the W. C. Brown house on Cottage street.

Mr. A. S. Thompson and Carl Thompson spent Saturday night and Sunday with Mr. Thompson's sister, Mrs. Eliza Smith of Latta, S. C.

Mrs. Lillie Randall, Mrs. Brown, Miss May Floyd and Mr. Mal. V. Brown spent last Saturday in Maxton and enjoyed their little visit very much, especially the view of the handsome Methodist college which was shown them by Rev. S. E. Mercer, who is giving his life to the completion of this work. Already it has a fine crowd of girls interested and pleased with their college home.

BACK SWAMP NOTES.

School Progressing Nicely—Death of a Small Boy—Personal.

Correspondence of The Robesonian.
Lumberton, R. F. D., Nov. 23.—Thanksgiving will soon be here. We will have service at 10:30 conducted by our pastor, Rev. Mr. Bridges.

School is progressing nicely under the management of Prof. H. Johnson.

The W. O. W. camp of Back Swamp attended the burial of Mr. T. N. Lewis, who was a member of this camp, Wednesday.

Mr. J. D. Prevat of Mullins, S. C., visited relatives here Sunday.

Mrs. Nora Regan and Mrs. W. N. Townsend and little daughter Ellyce spent Tuesday in Lumberton.

Harry Badger, 33-year-old son of Mrs. Nora Regan, died at the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Prevat, on November 6 of pneumonia. The funeral was conducted by Rev. I. P. Hedgpeith amid a concourse of sorrowing relatives and friends. The floral offerings were beautiful. Badger was a manly little fellow, remarkably bright for his age.

Farmers are almost through gathering their crops. Next thing, get ready for Christmas.

Interesting Comparative Foreign Mission Facts.

At the Western North Carolina Methodist Conference which began its sessions in High Point last Wednesday and probably closes today, Bishop Collins Denny, who presided, in connection with making inquiry of the presiding elders with reference to the growth of the spirit of foreign missions in the Conference called attention to some interesting facts of a comparative nature. He stated that the membership of the Methodist Church, South, is now 1,927,300 and that the assessment placed on the Church for foreign missions for the year is only $400,000, which is but 46 cents per member. He called attention to the fact that during the past 25 years the Church has increased its assessment for foreign missions only five cents per capita, while in the same length of time the Southern Presbyterian Church has increased its per capita contribution to this cause from 75 cents to $1.70.

FAYETTEVILLE—CONFERENCE HOST.

Some Early Chapters in Methodism Centering Around Fayetteville—First Conference to Meet There Was Held Nearly 100 Years Ago—A Negro Said to Have Been the Founder of Methodism in That Town.

N. W. Brabham in Raleigh Christian Advocate.

Fayetteville will entertain an Annual Conference for the eighth time when the North Carolina Conference convenes there November 27. This is the fifth time the North Carolina Conference has met there, and the South Carolina Conference convened there three times before the territory was changed. The first Conference to meet in Fayetteville was nearly one hundred years ago, when the South Carolina Conference met there in January, 1814. Bishops Asbury and McKendree were the presiding Bishops. It is spoken of as "a spiritual, heavenly and united Conference." In January, 1831, another Annual Conference was held there, Rev. W. M. Kennedy acting as President of the Conference; in December, 1845, Bishop J. O. Andrews presided. These were the three sessions of the South Carolina Conference to meet in Fayetteville. The sessions of the North Carolina Conference to meet in Fayetteville were as follows: 1866, Bishop Pierce, presiding; 1872, Bishop Paine, presiding; 1887, Bishop Key, presiding; 1901, Bishop Hargrove, presiding; 1912, Bishop Denny to preside.

Bishop William Capers in his autobiography gives some interesting incidents in connection with the time he was pastor at Fayetteville; this was so long ago as 1810, one hundred and two years ago. In view of the fact that our Conference meets in the town in which Henry Evans, a negro, is said to have been the founder of Methodism among both white and blacks, it might be of interest to quote something from Bishop Capers' book bearing on his ministry while yet a young man. Rev. Mr. Capers was sent to this charge in the middle of the year 1810. "At our second quarterly meeting which was in June, 1810, I was removed from this circuit (Waterree) to the town of Fayetteville, N. C. The case was urgent, and my removal sudden; so that I went immediately after the quarterly meeting and on the 13th day of the month was in my new charge."

Bishop Capers then goes into some details of the life of Henry Evans. Let us remember when this was being written (prior to 1858) slaves were still owned in the South, also that Bishop Capers was a missionary to the blacks.

"The most remarkable man in Fayetteville when I went there and who died during my stay, was a negro by the name of Henry Evans. I say the most remarkable in view of his class; and I call him negro with unfeigned respect. He was a negro; that is, he was of that race and without any admixture of another. The name simply designates the race, and it is vulgar to regard it with opprobrium. I have known and loved and honored a few negroes in my life, who were probably as pure of heart as Evans, or anybody else. Such were my old friends Castle Selby and John Bouquet of Charleston, Will Cappel and Harry Myrick of Wilmington, York Cohen of Savannah, and others. I might name. These I might call remarkable for their goodness. But I use the word in a broader sense for Henry Evans, who was confessedly the father of the Methodist Church, white and black, in Fayetteville, and the best preacher of his time, in that quarter; and who was so remarkable as to have become the greatest curiosity of the town; inasmuch that distinguished visitors hardly felt that they might pass a Sunday in Fayetteville without hearing him preach."

Evans was originally from Virginia and had stopped in Fayetteville while en route to Charleston where he expected to follow his trade, that of shoe-maker; but seeing the need of his people in Fayetteville, he remained there. He was licensed to preach as a Methodist while quite young. At first great objection was raised to his preaching, but after the good effects of his preaching became apparent, no further objections were raised. It was not long, Bishop Capers says, before the mob was called off by a change in the current of opinion and Evans was allowed to preach in town.

"At that time," says Bishop Capers, "there was not a single church edifice in town and not one congregation (Presbyterian), who were helped in what was called the State House, under which was the market; and it was plainly Evans or nobody to preach to the negroes. So, too, of the mistresses there were but a few, and some masters, who were brought to think that, the preaching, which had proved so beneficial to their servants might be good for them also; and the famous negro preacher had whites as well as blacks to hear him.  It was a frame of wood, weather-boarded only on the outside without plastering, about fifty feet long by thirty feet wide. Seats, distinctively separated, were at first appropriated to the whites, near the pulpit. But Evans had already become famous, and these seats were insufficient. Indeed the negroes seemed likely to lose their preacher, negro though he was, while the whites, crowded out of their appropriate seats, took possession of those in the rear. Meanwhile Evans had represented to the preacher of Balden circuit how things were going, and induced him to take his meeting-house into the circuit and constitute a church. And now there was no longer room for the negroes in the house when Evans preached, and for the accommodation of both classes, the weather-boards were knocked off and sheds were added to the house on either side; but the whites occupying the whole of the original building, and the negroes those sheds as a part of the same house. Evans' dwelling was a shed at the pulpit end of the church. And that was the identical state of the case when I was pastor. Often was I in that shed and much to my edification."

Evans always "seemed deeply impressed with the responsibility of his position. He would not allow any partiality of his friends to induce him to vary in the least degree the line of conduct or the bearing which he had prescribed to himself in this respect; never speaking to a white man but with his hat under his arm; never allowing himself to be seated in their houses; and even confining himself to the kind and manner of dress proper for negroes in general, except his plain black coat for the pulpit. He would say: 'The whites are kind to me and come to hear me preach, but I belong to my own sort and must not spoil them.' And yet, Henry Evans was a Boanerges, and in his duty feared not the face of man."

Bishop Capers describes the triumphant death of this negro preacher, and tells how the whole community mourned his taking on. His funeral at the church was attended, he says, by a greater concourse of persons than had been seen on any funeral occasion before. He was buried under the chance of the church of which he had been in so remarkable manner the founder.

Methodism is not a new thing in Fayetteville, but it is a live force just the same, as all who go there this month will testify.

ABUSE OF FRANKING PRIVILEGE.

Political Campaign Material Sent Free Puts Postoffice Department in a Hole—Franked Mail Amounts to Some $20,000,000 a Year.

Washington Dispatch, 22nd.
Political campaign material transmitted free of postage through the mails accounted, according to Postoffice Department records, for the difference between the postal surplus and a postal deficit for the last fiscal year, ending June 30th. An account of franked mail forwarded for Congress, the executive departments and other government establishments shows that postage at the ordinary rate on this matter would have netted the government nearly $20,000,000. About $3,250,000 of this would have been paid on political documents.

The postal service handled in the year 310,245,000 pieces of franked mail, weighing 61,371,000 pounds. This was 3.8 per cent of the total weight of all domestic mail carried.

During the Presidential and Congressional primary campaign in the last quarter of the fiscal year, as disclosed by comparison with the amounts of free matter sent during corresponding periods of previous years, an extraordinary amount of franked matter was sent through the mails at public expense. This matter consisted of political speeches, reports and documents of all kinds and of even one political campaign book, all of which had been made technically frankable by insertion in the Congressional Record. It is computed that the total weight of this franked matter was between 7,000,000 and 8,000,000 pounds, all of which was transmitted as first-class mail.

Commenting upon these figures, Postmaster General Hitchcock, who has long urged that restrictions should be thrown around the use of the franking privilege, said today:

"The unusual expense entailed upon the postal service through the transmission by mail of the great amount of political matter in the primary campaign created a temporary deficit for the first time in two years, the total expenditures for the fiscal year of 1912 aggregating $248,525,000, while the total revenues amounted to $246,744,000. Had it not been for the cost of carrying franked political mail, the postal account would have shown a surplus of more than $100,000,000. Instead of deficit of $1,781,000 and this surplus would have been developed notwithstanding the fact that the compensation of postal employes was increased during the year by an aggregate of $6,000,000."

Computations of expenditures and revenues indicate, however, that since the close of the last fiscal year, the postal service once more is on a self-supporting basis. On November 1st, the latest date of available figures, it was found that the receipts were materially greater than the expenditures for the current year. Mr. Hitchcock expects this condition to be maintained throughout the year, despite the large expenditure attendant upon the establishment of the parcels post system.

Porto Rico's New Wonder.

From far away Porto Rico come reports of a wonderful new discovery that is believed will very benefit the people. Ramon T. Marchan, of Barcelona, writes "Dr. King's New Discovery is doing splendid work here. It cured me about five times of terrible coughs and colds, also my brother of a severe cold in his chest and more than 20 others, who used it on my advice.

MT. ELIAM MATTERS.

Ever-Growing, Industrious and Hospitable Maxton—In the Middle of a Good Fix—Contribute Liberally to the Orphans Thanksgiving Day.

Correspondence of The Robesonian.

Mt. Eliam (Ornum, R. 1.), Nov. 23.—We spent Saturday of last week at the gate city of Robeson, Maxton. Many noticeable improvements have been made, in many different ways, since our last visit to that ever-growing, industrious and hospitable Robeson-county town. The people have a kind, hospitable spirit that makes them treat visitors in a way to make them enjoy being among them. Different from Lumberton, Maxton has good eating advantages, and that goes a long way in making people like a town. We had the pleasure of shaking the hand of Col. E. F. McRea, the man who makes good at all things. He told us that he had the apple for us had we only gone to the fair. It made our mouth water to hear him tell about it. Folks will miss things and then regret it. The Maxton people take the Robesonian, and pay for it so well that there is not much a-doin' for a representative who looks out for those who are in areas. However, we added several names to the already long list. We heard that "Aunt Becky" was in the hospital there. We hope it was a false report, and that she will soon make glad the thousands of Robesonian readers who are anxiously waiting for something from her versatile pen.

Mr. A. D. Currie informed us recently that he would soon have ready for The Robesonian a reproduction of the famous "Jim Sinclair" poem. This poem was written in 1872. All the older folks will be de-lighted to see this famous poem, which is a column and a half long, in print again.

Most all our "Mount" farmers have a milch cow and "taters" a plenty. We think it's a mighty good fix to be in. Don't you?

Prof. J. R. Poole and Dr. B. W. Page visited the school here, also the Broad Ridge school, Tuesday.

Mrs. R. A. Britt and Miss Caroline Nye, of Ornum, spent Tuesday on the "Mount," the guests of Mrs. I. V. Britt.

What it takes to live at home our folks have got it, and closely keep it. There will be services at the church Thanksgiving at 10 a. m.

We hope the Baptists of Robeson county will do themselves proud next Thursday, Thanksgiving, by making a record-breaker contribution to the Thomasville Baptist Orphanage on that day. We should take pride in helping support this great God-like institution, where more than four hundred orphan children are being fed, clothed and sent to school. We all have something to be thankful for, and we couldn't give thanks in a more acceptable way than to remember these dependent (on the Barmits of North Carolina) children with a gift, let it be large or small. There are several fatherless and motherless children there from Robeson, and let's make a contribution that will speak well for our county.

There is a time, 'tis near at hand, Should be observed o're all the land; None doth live that cannot say "Thank God for life until this day."

HAPPY JACK.

Sidna Allen Gets 15 Years for Murder of Judge Massie.

Wytville, Va., Dispatch, 22nd.
Guilty of murder in the second degree was the verdict of the jury in the case of Sidna Allen for the murder of Judge Thornton L. Massie at Hillsville, Va., March 14, last, when the Allen clansmen shot up Carroll county court, killing five persons. Punishment was fixed at 15 years in the State penitentiary at Richmond. Immediately after the discharge of the jury, the prosecution announced that it would take up another indictment against the prisoner, that charging the murder of Commonwealth's Attorney William M. Foster and the court fixed December 2 as the date of trial. It was announced that the next venire would be summoned from different places and from the eastern part of the State.

President-Elect Wilson Working on Bigger Things Than Cabinet Appointments.

Hamilton, Bermuda, Dispatch, 21st.
"I am not thinking of the Cabinet and appointments nowadays," said President-elect Woodrow Wilson today, "but much bigger things than that."

Mr. Wilson, though ostensibly resting, is at work on his plan for the reform of the tariff, currency and other important matters. He said he is in no hurry to begin office filling and recalled the instance when the personnel of the Cabinet was not known until after inauguration.

The Governor, Sir George M. Bullock, will give a banquet in honor of the President-elect who on Monday will attend the session of parliament.

A dispatch of the 21st from Los Angeles, Cal., states that the District Court of Appeals handed down a decision in the election controversy on that day which Democratic leaders declare will place California in the Wilson column of presidential electors.

A. Mitchell, a general merchant near Bagdad, Ky., writes us: "I think Foley Kidney Pills one of the greatest medicines there is. CHURCH NOTES.

Close of Methodist Conference Year—Special Train to Fayetteville Next Sunday—Church Services.

The North Carolina Conference meets in Fayetteville, Hay Street Methodist church, Wednesday of this week. Bishop Collins Denny, one of the new bishops elected two years ago, will preside. Rev. J. W. Bradley is winding up his first year as pastor of Chestnut Street Methodist church and it is practically certain that he will be returned. A meeting of the board of stewards of this church will be held at the parsonage this evening to wind up the church's affairs for the year and it is thought that all assessments will be reported paid up in full.

Rev. R. L. Caraway and Rev. A. J. Groves are also completing their first year as pastor of Lumberton and St. Paul's circuit, respectively, and probably will be returned.

The membership of both Regan and Barker's churches, on the St. Paul circuit, at Mr. Groves' last appointment passed resolutions heartily endorsing his work for this year and asking that he be returned to them another year.

The Virginia & Carolina Southern Railway Co. will operate a special train through to Fayetteville next Sunday morning in order to accommodate those who want to attend Conference, leaving Lumberton at 7:30 o'clock a. m. and reaching Fayetteville in time for the morning services. The round-trip ticket will be $1.50 good for return on any train until Monday evening. Special round-trip rates will also be given every day during the week on account of this Conference. It is probable that quite a number of Lumberton people will attend. Mr. W. H. Humphrey is delegate from Chestnut Street church.

Rev. E. W. Spilman, D. D., of Kinston, who is in charge of the work of the Southern Baptist Convention among the educational institutions of the South, preached at the First Baptist church yesterday morning and delivered an address at the same church last evening in the interest of the work of the young people. Dr. Spilman came to deliver this address at the special request of the Royal Ambassadors society of this church, of which Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Varner have changed, and besides the address last evening there were special exercises by this society, consisting of songs, speeches, etc.

Rev. C. G. Vardell, president of the Southern Presbyterian College and Conservatory of Music at Red Springs, preached at the Presbyterian church yesterday morning.

Miss Lily Duke, of Durham, will talk especially to ladies and young people at Chestnut Street Methodist church Wednesday evening in the interest of home mission work. This will take the place of the regular week prayer-meeting. There will be no preaching at this church next Sunday on account of Conference and probably not the following Sunday, as Mr. Bradley will probably go after Conference to the western part of the State to visit his father.

Thanksgiving Services—Dinner for County Home Inmates.

Services will be held Thanksgiving Day at the First Baptist and Presbyterian churches. The Presbyterian congregation will hold a prayer-meeting service at 11 o'clock a. m. and a collection will be taken for the Barium Springs Orphanage. All are urged to attend. At the same hour at the First Baptist church the pastor, Rev. C. H. Durham, will preach and a collection will be taken for the Thomasville Orphanage.

As is the annual custom, County Treasurer M. G. McKenzie is getting up a dinner for Thanksgiving Day for the inmates of the county home. All who will contribute to this dinner for these unfortunate ones will please send their contributions to the commissioners room at the court house.

Among the Sick.

Mr. L. T. Townsend, who for five weeks has been sick at his home, Walnut and Second streets, is improving and it is expected that he will be able to be out again in a day or so. He was able to be up in the house all day yesterday.

Mrs. N. A. McLean has been very sick for several days at her home, Elm street, but is able to be up today.

Miss Margaret Townsend, teacher of the fifth grade in the graded school, who for a week had been sick at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. W. Thompson, Water and Eighth street, where she is boarding, was able this morning to resume her work. Miss Jennie Russell taught the fifth grade during Miss Townsend's illness.

County Auditor A. T. Parmele was on account of sickness confined to his home on Elm street last week, but was able to be in his office this morning.

Enlarging Plant.

Messrs. E. B. Freeman and J. A. Boone, who recently started up a wood yard and grist mill at the intersection of the Virginia & Carolina Southern Railroad and the Elizabeth road, have outgrown their present capacity and are eager for the Yadkin River Power Co. to gain access to the town so that they may enlarge their plant. They are using 20 horsepower gasoline engine now and want 100 horsepower. They are grinding 100 bushels of corn per day. People are bringing them corn from 15 miles around.

THE "GOD BLESSED MACS."

Raleigh News and Observer.

Every day it is demonstrated more and more that those who have not the distinction of writing "Mac" before our names, had very little to do with the election of Governor Wilson. The clans did nearly all of it and they did it so well that everybody is doing honor to them, and justly so. Some days ago, in an article on "the God Blessed Macs" and their work in the campaign including McCombs and McAdoo and MacRea and McLean and the many other glorious Macs, this paper omitted to state that the first Wilson delegate in any district in North Carolina is the National Convention was Duncan Evander Melver—that is a Scotch name from start to finish, from the patriotic county of Lee, and that the chairman of the Committee of One Hundred to raise $10,000 for the Wilson Campaign Fund in the City of Wilmington was W. A. McGirt, and that the Treasurer of the Captains of the Ten teams under McGirt, was W. H. McClain. Wilmington gave more generously to the campaign fund than any city or town in America under the leadership of those two Scotchmen, James Sprunt and Hugh MacRea. The editor of this paper has already made formal application to the Scottish Society, which meets at Red Springs next summer, to have his name changed from Daniels to MacDaniels so as to get in with "the favored nation." As it becomes more and more evident how much the "God Blessed Macs" did to elect Wilson, we may expect a perfect deluge of applications from good Democrats asking to be admitted to the Scottish Society when it holds its next session at Red Springs. Indeed, it may be that the meeting will have to be held in the open in order to accommodate the many applicants.
