Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

POLK MILLER DEAD.

Well-Known Humorist and Business Man Expires Suddenly. Richmond, Va., Dispatch, 20th.

Polk Miller, a Richmond business man-known throughout the South for his plantation stories of war time and his performances on the banjo at many Confederate reunions, died suddenly at his home here tonight. He was 69 years old.

In late years Mr. Miller had been pressed into service by the Chamber of Commerce to help entertain thirty or forty national organizations which held their annual conventions here. With a banjo he frequently accompanied his "darky quartette" and related many original and amusing stories in the negro dialect. He appeared in every Southern State often with Col. Tom Booker, another Confederate soldier.

A week ago he was the chief entertainer at a smoker tendered the American gas institute by the city of Richmond.

For twenty years or more he traveled over the South, but seldom out of that territory, because, as he explained, his dialect stories elsewhere were not understood.

Ex-Governor Glenn Will Be Named for Place on Inter-State Commerce Commission.

Washington Cor., 20th, Greensboro News.

Robert Broadnax Glenn, of Winston-Salem, will be named for a place on the inter-State Commerce Commission, either in succeeding Commissioner Prouty, who has resigned, or Commissioner Clements of Georgia, whose present term expires in December. If Mr. Glenn is given the former appointment a New England man will be named in place of Clements. The above statement was made today by a man in close touch with the Administration's affairs. The statement could not have come from a higher source unless from the President himself and there is no doubt about its accuracy.

It is expected that Mr. Glenn's nomination will be sent to the Senate either this week or next; if next it will be probably on account of the absence of Senators Simmons and Cushman, with whom Mr. Wilson will, in all probability, wish to confer before sending the nomination to the Senate.

America's Doors Opened to Mrs. Pankhurst.

Washington Dispatch, 20th.

America's doors were opened today to Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst and during the few weeks covered by her lecture engagements the British militant suffragist leader is free to go where she will in the United States. An order releasing the much distressed visitor from detention at Ellis Island, New York, and revoking the deportation order of the special inquiry board, was issued today after President Wilson had conferred with Secretary Wilson, of the Department of Labor, and a formal hearing before Immigration Commissioner Caminetti on Mrs. Pankhurst's appeal had been concluded.

Secretary Wilson announced that he and the President had agreed that Mrs. Pankhurst should be admitted "on her own recognizance" with the understanding that she would depart when she had fulfilled her lecture engagements. Both the President and the Secretary agreed with Commissioner Caminetti in the opinion that there was an element of doubt as to whether the acts for which Mrs. Pankhurst had been convicted in England constituted moral turpitude or mere political offenses.

During the stiff winds which blew Monday a large billboard was blown down on a negro woman at Greenville and she was injured so badly that death resulted in a short while.

Rich. McAllister, an old negro man, was shot and killed in Fayetteville Sunday night by an unknown negro. The murderer ran against the old man, begged his pardon and received it, and then shot him, is about all that came out at the coronor's inquest.
