M. W. FLOYD, Lumberton, N. C.

A Lumbertonian With a War Experience.

Maxton Scottish Chief.

We were pleased to meet in Maxton last Wednesday evening, November 26, Mr. John B. Redmond, of Lumberton, one of the landmarks of the growing county seat whom we have known for more than forty years, though we are both quite young.

John had quite an experience before coming to Lumberton. He was born in Dublin, Ireland, but came to this country with his father, the late George Redmond when only a few months old. He spent the early years of his life in Charleston, S. C. During the Civil War, when only about ten years old, he ran on blockade runners, two of which were blown up while he was a member of the crews. The last one was run ashore near Port Macon, N. C., and blown up to prevent its capture by a Federal man of war which was chasing it.

He was captured with the rest of the crew and taken to Point Look Out and kept imprisoned until the end of the war, when he was but 12 years old. He joined his father in Lumberton in 1867, where he has since made his home.

Doan's Regulets are recommended by many who say they operate easily, without griping and without bad after effects. 25c at all drug stores.

GEORGETOWN, TEXAS, J. A. Kimbro, says: "For several years past Foyel's Honey and Tar Compound has been my household remedy for all coughs, colds and lung troubles. It has given permanent relief in a number of cases of obstinate coughs and colds." Contains no opiates. Refuse substitutes. For sale by all dealers.

State Now Burning Wood Stamped by Government.

Burning cordwood bearing the "U. S. Government stamp is an unusual experience with many in North Carolina, says a recent dispatch to The Charlotte Observer. The wood comes from the United States reservations in McDowell and other counties in the mountains of western North Carolina, where 32,000 acres are under government control.

This is the first season that wood has been sold by the Government and more than 4,000 cords have been sold at 25 cents a cord. Three government representatives, known as rangers, under the leadership of Jim Young, stationed at Old Fort, care for the reservation and see that Uncle Sam's rights are respected.

The citizens of the section are allowed to hunt and fish on the lands, but must not cut timber, except under the direction of the rangers. Only such trees are allowed to be used for wood as are undesirable and are known as "culls." This wood is sold at 25 cents a cord on the stump. The trees are selected by the rangers and are clearly branded with a big "U. S." driven deep into the wood.

After the wood is corded the rangers must also brand every stick and a removal of the wood without this brand subjects the dealer to prosecution in the Federal Courts. It is regarded as nothing less than "blockading" to sell or remove wood without the proper brand.

Farmers of the section are allowed grazing privileges at 75 cents a head for the season. They may also cultivate the land by paying $1 a year the acre to Uncle Sam.

Conditions in Robeson—Behind A. W. McLean for Governor.

Raleigh News and Observer.

"There will be about two-thirds of a cotton crop in Robeson," said Mr. A. T. McCallum, of Red Springs, here last week at the meeting of the State Board of Agriculture, of which he is a member.

"The crop in Robeson," he went on, "has been hurt by excessive rains and cut short by the Anthracnose. The corn crop and the hay crop are big ones. Tobacco has done well in the southern part of the county and next season will be planted around Red Springs, land in the northern portion being considered as good tobacco land. General conditions in the county are good."

"We keep on at work making our good roads, using our convict forces. Our people believe in good schools and brick buildings are going up over the county for our schools. The Southern Presbyterian College at Red Springs is in a prosperous condition."

"Talking of politics don't forget that we are going to be behind A. W. McLean for governor in 1916. He will receive the hearty support of Robeson county. We feel that the governorship ought to come to our section and that A. W. McLean is the ideal candidate. We need a business man's government in North Carolina and A. W. McLean will fill the bill exactly."
