PERSONALITY.

(William Geeorge Jordan.)

The only responsibility that a man can't evade in this life is the one he thinks of least-his personal influis posing to impress those around him -is woefully small. But his unconscious influence, the silent subtle radiation of his personality, the effect of degree the life of the whole world. Every man has an atmosphere which is affecting every other. So silently exists.

Into the hands of every individual is given a marvelous power for good or for evil-the silent, unconscious, unseen influence of his life. This is simply the constant radiation of what a man really is, not what he pretends to be. Every man, by his mere living, is radiating sympathy, or sorrow, or morbidness or cynicism, or happiness, or hope.
