OLD COIN AN IMITATION.

Old Spanish Coin Recently Mentioned In The Robesonian Would Be Very Valuable if it Were Real.

Correspondence of The Robesonian.

Washington, March 19.—As will be recalled by Robesonian readers, some mention was made in the paper recently—a month or so ago—of an old coin found in Howellsville township by Mr. D. L. Edge. Mr. Edge gave the coin to Mr. T. A. McNeill, Jr., of Lumberton and he carried to the Robesonian office, hence the public mention. Mr. McNeill gave the coin to the writer and asked that it be taken to an authority in Washington on coins and see if it has any value. The coin was taken today to Mr. Theodore T. Belote, Assistant Curator, Division of History, United States National Museum, and the following is the report he makes of the coin: "The coin is an imitation or counterfeit, dated 1719. Denomination 4000 reis gold coin of Portugal (Dobra). These were issued during the reign of John V, 1706-1750. Original value of coin at that time was about $6. Originals of this specimen are rare and command good prices."

Mr. Belote says that he thinks the coin is an imitation and not a counterfeit. He says this is the first coin of the kind ever presented at the museum. Mr. Belote says that if the coin was real it would possibly be worth $75 or $100.

1913 COTTON CROP.

One of the Largest Cotton Crops Ever Grown—Amounted to 14,127,356 Bales of Lint.

Washington Dispatch, 30th. One of the largest cotton crops ever grown, amounting to 14,127,356 equivalent 500-pound bales of lint and 639,795 equivalent 500lb males of linters, was produced by the farmers of the United States during 1913. The census bureau announced today its preliminary report of cotton ginned as reported by ginners and delinters to February 28.

These figures compare with 13,703,421 equivalent 500 pound bales of lint and 609,594 bales of linters last year, and 15,692,701 bales of lint and 557,575 bales of linters in 1911.

The department of agriculture's estimate, announced December 12, placed the 1913 crop at 13,677,000 equivalent 500-pound bales.

With this report the bureau of census departed from its previous method of reporting the cotton crop by not including the quantity of linters in the total production. Director William J. Harris announced that this was done, because with the installation of modern machinery closer delinting of seed had largely increased the quantity of linters and at the same time lowered the average quality of the fibre, so that now, only a small part if any, was used as a substitute for lint cotton.

The number of running bales of lint cotton, counting round as half bales, was 13,964,981, and of linter cotton, 629,019 running bales, compared with 13,488,539 running bales lint and 602,324 running bales of linters last year, and 15,553,073 running bales of lint and 556,276 running bales of linters in 1911.

Included in the production for 1913 are 29,267 bales which ginners estimated would be turned out after the time of the March canvass.

Round bales included numbered 99,916 compared with 81,528 last year and 101,554 in 1911.

Sea Island bales included, 77,490, compared with 73,777 last year and 119,293 in 1911.

The average gross weight of bale for the crop, counting round as half bales and excluding linters, was 505.08 pounds, compared with 508.0 last year 504.5 in 1911.

The number of ginneries operated for the crop of 1913 was 24,730, compared with 25,279 for the 1912 crop.

Production of North Carolina in equivalent 500-pound bales, exclusive of linters, with comparisons and the department of agriculture's December estimate, which excludes linters follow:

North Carolina: Total production, 789,944 bales, compared with 865,653 in 1912 and 1,075,826 in 1911. Department of agriculture estimated 765,000 bales for 1913.

Highway Scouting Party Passes Through Cumberland and Hoke. Fayetteville Special, 20th, to Charlotte Observer.

The scouting party of the American Highway Association, which is picking out a route from Washington to the South, which will in effect be made a National Highway, passed through

Fayetteville today, spending an hour, and resting at Raeford tonight. The party composed officers of the United States Office of Public Roads and the American Highway Association, was given a warm greeting here. Thirty business men met the scouts and discussed Cumberland's roads as a part of the highway from Washington to Atlanta. In the absence of any action by the county commissioners nothing definite could be promised as to the necessary appropriation by the county, but every man present endorsed the proposition and it will be strongly urged.
