BRITISH LINER SUNK

Robert McNeely of Monroe, N. C., United States Consul at Aden, was Drowned When British Liner Persia Went Down in Mediterranean—Ship Torpedoed Without Warning is Report.

The British liner Persia, with 160 passengers and crew of 250, was sunk by an unidentified submarine Thursday afternoon off the island of Crete, in the eastern Mediterranean. A consular dispatch brought the information to Washington last night that the ship had been torpedoed without warning and that at least one American citizen, Robert Ney McNeely of Monroe, N. C., new consul at Aden, Arabia, was missing. Dispatches indicate that McNeely was lost but that Charles H. Grant of Boston, another American aboard the Persia, was saved. McNeely practiced law in Monroe 6 years after leaving the University and had served in both the House and the Senate of the Legislature. He was born in 1883. It is not yet known how many people on the ship were saved.

Officials at Washington were gratified last night at the indication, emanating from Baron Erick Zwiédinek, Charge of the Austro-Hungarian Embassy at Washington, that the Vienna government would be quick to "satisfactorily adjust" the matter should it develop that an Austrian submarine commander had disobeyed instructions in regard to torpedoing passenger-carrying ships without warning.

Henry Ford's Ideas About the War Have Changed

New York Dispatch, 2d.

Henry Ford, who led the peace expedition which left here December 4 on the steam Oscar II for Copenhagen in the hope of bringing about a conference of neutral Nations that would end the year arrived here today on the steamer Bergensfjord. He confirmed cable reports that his return had been hastened by illness, but said that it made a difference of only a few days, as he intended when he left to come back this month.

Mr. Ford declared his views regarding the cause of the war have undergone a marked change. When he left he said he was of the opinion that bankers, manufacturers of armaments and armament were responsible, but he returns with the belief that it is the people themselves, those now being slaughtered, who are responsible. The men doing the fighting have been too content to let those who rule them do their thinking, and they have not taken advantage of their divine right to say for themselves what they shall do and think, the pacifist asserted.

"Republicans are no better than monarchs in this respect," he said, "even in the United States we allow those whom we have elected to office to be swayed from their duty. We do not assert ourselves. Personally, I have voted only six times and then because my wife made me."

"The movement is now organized and under way," he said. "People are talking about it and while some criticize when people talk they think and when they think, they think right."

New Year Ushered In

The New Year was ushered in in this good town at midnight Friday night with ringing of bells and the firing of a few babywackers. To all outward appearances, that was all that took place in recognition of the fact that the old year had died and that the New Year had arrived. The Pastime theatre celebrated the night by keeping open till 12 o'clock and quite a number of people kept watch by enjoying good pictures at the same time. The banks, of course, had holiday New Year's, and Sunday hours were observed at the postoffice, the rural carriers having a day off.

LEAST PER CAPITA TAX IN THE UNION

North Carolina at Foot of List as Compared With Other States of Union

Raleigh Cor., Dec. 31, Charlotte Observer.

The Corporation Commission has prepared and will issue to the newspapers in a few days a remarkable statement of tax conditions in North Carolina, particularly as they apply to State-wide equalization of tax assessments and the per capita tax in this State compared with other States in the Union. The statement will show that the per capita tax in North Carolina is less than any other State in the country, the exact relative amounts of tax, per capita, for each State to be shown.

Those in touch with the facts contained in the statement assert that it will leave no justification whatever for the declared purpose of Republican leaders in this State to make taxation conditions a campaign issue in 1916. At the same time it gives a comprehensive statement of the conditions sought to be remedied by State-wide equalization and the net result of the commission's equalization effort this year, this being about 10.5 per cent increase.

STRICKEN PEOPLE OF POLAND NEED AID

No Greater Need by an Entire Nation Has Ever Existed Than Now Prevalis in Poland—President Wilson Issues Proclamation

New York Dispatch, Dec. 31.

President Wilson issued a proclamation on December 18, setting Saturday, January 1, 1916, as a special day upon which the people of the United States may make such contributions as they feel disposed for the aid of the stricken people of Poland. The President cites the resolution received by him from the Senate of the United States which sets forth briefly the needs of the Polish population. The resolution is as follows:

"Whereas, the attention of the people of the United States has been from time to time directed to the appalling situation in Poland, where practically the entire population today is homeless, and where men, women and children are perishing by the thousands for lack of shelter, clothing and food.

"And, whereas, the people of the United States have demonstrated their sympathy for the suffering people on all sides in the great European war by their splendid and successful charitable work in Belgium, Serbia, and other places; and feeling that the American people would quickly respond to an appeal for help in Poland, once the tragedy of the situation there is brought home to them.

"Be it resolved, That, appreciating the suffering of these stricken people, it is suggested that the President of the United States set aside a day in the forthcoming holiday season upon which day a direct appeal to the sympathy of all American citizens shall be made, and an opportunity shall be given all to contribute to a much needed holiday fund for relief in Poland.

No greater need by an entire nation has ever existed than now prevails in Poland.

Sixteen million totally destitute people, the greater part of them women and children, are facing starvation and the grim possibility of death by freezing.

The winters of Poland are always looked forward to with dread, even by those inured to their hardships, but the present winter, it is feared, will cause suffering the like of which has never been known in the history of mankind. Widows and children—hundreds of thousands—are wandering in the wastes of Poland. Descriptions have reached this country of their emaciated forms, huddling in the cannon ruts and disease laden trenches, and of starving processions of the old and the sick, of feeble and infants, stopping every now and then to bury one who had given up the struggle.

The American Polish Relief Commission of 12 and 14 East 46th street, New York City, propose to forward money, food and clothing to these suffering people. The commission numbers among its members men of nationwide repute, a few of whom are given below: Dr. John Greer Hibben, president Princeton University; Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president Columbia University; Hon. Theodore E. Burton of Ohio; Henry J. Patten of Chicago; Governor Arthur S. Capper of Kansas; E. A. Van Valkenburg, Philadelphia North American, and others.

Gifts of food and clothing may be sent to the commissioner's headquarters in New York city. Cash contributions should be made payable to the Guaranty Trust Co., Treasurer, New York City.

Cotton Mill Progress

The researches of Commissioner of Labor Shipman, in conjunction with the United States Census Bureau, have produced some gratifying information in regard to the development of the cotton mill industry in North Carolina the past year. It appears that there are now 318 textile mills in the State with prospects of a number of additions during the present year. The cotton mills give employment to over 51,000 people, a larger number than ever before engaged in this occupation, with a diminution of nearly a thousand in the number of children employed. That is one of the most gratifying items in the report. There appears to be some tendency toward diversification, but there are not as many glove and hosiery mills as there are opportunities for. Diversification, however, is setting in and the next report may be expected to show excellent results in that direction.

In retaliation negroes were said to have surrounded the home of H. H. Grimley, a white farmer, threatening to kill him and his wife and children. The negro mob dispersed, however, before Sheriff Howell of Early county, and a number of deputies, reached there.
